PREFACE.

T was in the year 1904 that the Library Committee of the University of Edinburgh first took steps to provide a catalogue of the Arabic and Persian manuscripts in the University Library, and more particularly of the collection of Oriental MSS. formed by Lieut.-Col. John Baillie of Leys, and presented to the Library of the University in 1876 by his grandson, Mr. John B. Baillie, with a stipulation that a descriptive catalogue of them should be prepared in due course. The task of compiling such a catalogue was shortly afterwards entrusted to Mr. Mohammed Ashraful Hukk, of Hyderabad, who was then a student at the University, and by the beginning of 1906 Mr. Hukk, who had been assisted in his work by Mr. Mohammed Bey Badre, a student from Cairo, had catalogued the greater portion of the manuscripts. Printing was started without delay, and the catalogue, as prepared by Mr. Hukk, was in type before the end of the year. There were, however, certain difficulties in publishing the work at the time, and it was held over in consequence. In the year 1910 it was discovered that there were in the Library a considerable number of additional manuscripts which had not been included in Mr. Hukk's catalogue, and Professor Julius Eggeling, who was then acting as Curator of the University Library, undertook to arrange for their being catalogued. He secured for this part of the work the services of Professor Hermann Ethé, of Aberystwyth University, who furnished a catalogue of them in the course of the next two or three years, and by the spring of 1914 the work was regarded as virtually complete. Indeed, Professor Eggeling was occupied with the final proofs when he left Edinburgh in the summer of that year to pay a visit to Germany. The outbreak of the war in August prevented his return to this country, and he died in Germany in March, 1918.

Meanwhile the war had made it impracticable to proceed with the publication of the Catalogue, and it was not till the year 1921 that the Library Committee felt themselves in a position to take up the matter again. They asked Dr. Edward Robertson, who was then Lecturer in Arabic at the University of Edinburgh, if he would undertake the task of revising the Catalogue and were fortunate enough to obtain his consent. Dr. Robertson's appointment to the Chair of Semitic Languages at the University of Bangor in the same year and his removal from Edinburgh prevented him from making as rapid progress with the work as he had hoped to do, but he visited Edinburgh on several occasions in the course of the next two or three years, and subjected the Catalogue to a thorough revision, the results of which have been incorporated, so far as has been found practicable, in the appendices contained in this volume. Thanks to his care and zeal, the Catalogue which the University is at last able to issue will, it is hoped, prove to have suffered less than might have been expected from the various interruptions and vicissitudes to which it has been exposed in the course of its compilation.

Frank C. Nicholson,

Librarian.

BAILLIE COLLECTION.

A. ARABIC MANUSCRIPTS.

I. COMMENTARIES UPON THE QURÂN.

1.

أنوار التخزيل وأسرار التأويل

Anwār al-Tanzīl wa Asrār al-Ta'wīl.

Fols. 500; 9 in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 29 lines, each  $2\frac{9}{4}$  in. long; written in very neat and minute Naskh; gold-ruled margins; gold sprinkled on the paper; illuminated frontispiece; slightly injured by worms; not dated; it is stated that this excellent copy was made after the death of the author.

A well-known commentary on the Qurān. The name of the author does not appear, but the commentary is known to have been compiled by Nāṣir al¹Dīn 'Abd-allāh b. 'Umar al-Baiḍāwī, who died, according to the notice of his life in Kitāb al-Aqālīm, at Tabrīz, A.H. 716 (A.D. 1316). Ḥamd-allāh Mustaufī, a contemporary, says he died in A.H. 710 (A.D. 1310). The text of the Qurān is written in red ink.

Begins:

Cf. B.M.A. Cat., p. 64b, and Supplt., 116; Loth (I.O. Cat.), 70; Dorn (St. Petersb. Cat.), p. 17; Leyden Cat., iv, p. 31; Ahlwardt (Berlin Cat.), 517; Khed. Lib., i, p. 55; etc.

2-3.

الاسعاف فى شرح شواهد القاضى والكشّاف Al-Is'āf fī Sharḥ Shawāhid al-Qādī w-al-Kashshāf.

Fols. 633; 12 in. by 8 in.; 30 lines, each 5 in. long; good Naskh; bound in plain leather; copyist, Āqā Bābā Iṣpahānī; dated а.н. 1192 (а.д. 1778); two volumes.

A complete commentary on the proof verses cited by Jār-allāh Maḥmūd al-Zamakhsharī (d. A.H. 538, A.D. 1143), in his commentary on the Qurān called الكمّاني (Al-Kashshāf, see Supplement), and Nāṣir al-Dīn 'Abd-allāh b. 'Umar al-Baiḍāwī in his commentary on the Qurān described above.

The present work was compiled by Hadr b. 'Atā-allāh (see the last verse on fol. 632b), according to a chronogram at the end of the book, in a.h. 974 (a.d. 1566).

All the verses adopted by Al-Zamakhsharī are inscribed in red, and those of Al-Baizāwī in yellow, and those common between them in green, but through age no such difference except in the case of red can now be detected.

II. TRADITIONS OF THE PROPHET AND IMAM.

4. حيح<sup>يا</sup>ا عماجاًا Al-Jāmi' al-Sahīh.

Fols. 538;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 29 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in good Naskh with vowels in small hand; gold-lined round the pages; bound in gilt-stamped leather; dated A.H. 1109 (A.D. 1697).

The celebrated collection of traditions, by 'Abd-allāh Muḥammad b. Ismā'īl al-Bukhārī (d. A.H. 256, A.D. 869). The work is preceded in this case by a complete index.

Begins:

See Ḥāj. Khal., ii, 512; B.M.A. Cat., pp. 111, 395, 539, and Supplt., 132; Khed. Lib., i, pp. 180-203; Ahlwardt (Berlin Cat.), 1146; Loth (I.O. Cat.), 117-131; etc. Printed at Bulāq, а.н. 1280 (а.в. 1863). Editions: Prof. Krehl's, Leyden, а.в. 1862; also Zeitschr. d. Deutsch. Morg. Ges., iv, p. 1 sq.

(Abridgement of the Kitab al-Nihayah fī Gharīb al-Hadīs.)

Fols. 192; 9½ in. by 5¾ in.; 18 lines, each 4 in. long; well written in small Naskh; soiled and much injured by insects; bound in plain leather; dated A.H. 907 (A D. 1501).

This is an abridged form of the Kitāb al-Nihāyah fī Gharīb al-Hadīs (see Supplement), a dictionary to the Traditions.

The abridgement was made by Jalāl al-Dīn 'Abd al-Raḥmān Suyūṭī in A.H. 907 (A.D. 1501), about four years before his death; the Nihāyah (described in Supplement) itself was written by Majd al-Din Abū Sa'ādah Mubārak b. Abū al-Karam al-Jazarī, commonly known as Ibn al-Aṣīr (d. A.H. 606, A.D. 1209). The work also includes Suyūṭī's comments upon his abridgement.

Begins:

See Hāj. Khal., iii, 196; iv, 403; B.M.A. Cat., 756; Loth (I.O. Cat.), 1000; Bodl. Cat., ii, 177. Suyūṭī's commentary has been printed on the margins of the Nihāyah (see Supplement) at Cairo, A.H. 1311 (A.D. 1894).

. . نهج البلاغة

Nahj al-Balaghah.

Fols. 319; 12½ in. by 7¼ in.; 15 lines, each 4¼ in. long; written in beautiful Naskh on thick paper; headings are in red ink; the two first pages are richly illuminated and also the frontispieces to the second and third parts; thick gold lines round the text and thinner round the margins; the periods, which are large, are also illuminated throughout; numerous commentaries are written both under the lines and on the margins; badly soiled by damp, and slightly damaged by insects; the binding is of gilt-filled stamped leather; not dated; bears an inscription in Persian to the effect that the owner bought it in A.H. 1179 (A.D. 1765) in a soiled state.

This, evidently a valuable copy, consists of a collection of the speeches, mandates, educational works, wise sayings, and sermons of 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib, son-in-law of the Prophet. It was compiled by Al-Sharīf al-Radī Abū al-Ḥasan Muḥammad b. al-Ḥusain b. Mūsā (d. A.H. 406, A.D. 1415). The work is divided into an introduction and three parts:—

I. Al-Khuṭab w-al-Awāmir, fol. 6a.

II. Al-Khuṭab w-al-Rasā'il, fol. 204b.

III. Al-Ḥikam w-al-Mawāʻiz, fol. 270b.

Begins:

See B.M.A. Cat., p. 511b, and Supplt., 1238; etc.

It has been lithographed in Cairo with the commentary of the late Al-Shaikh Muḥammad 'Abdū, who was a celebrated philosopher, and besides several works wrote a commentary upon the Qurān.

7. شرح <sup>نه</sup>یج البلاغه Sharḥ Nahj al-Balāghah.

Fols. 651; 13 in. by 9 in.; 39 lines, each  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in small excellent Naskh, headings in red; bound in gilt-stamped leather; gold-lined round the pages throughout; numerous microscopic notes on the margins; two uniform volumes in one.

A most elaborate commentary upon the work (see above) by the celebrated 'Abd al-Ḥamīd b. Hibat-allāh, b. Muḥammad b. Muḥammad b. Abī al-Ḥadīd (d. A.H. 655, A.D. 1257), who dedicated and submitted it a year before his death to Al-Wazīr Mu'ayyad al-Dīn Muḥammad b. al-Alqāmī, through his brother Muwaffaq al-Dīn Abū al-Ma'ālī.

The present good copy, which is in fair preservation, is divided into twenty juz' (parts), with an index at the beginning.

Begins:

الحمدلله الذي تفرد بالكمال فكل كامل سواه منقوص . . . وبعد فان مراسم المولى الوزير الاعظم الصاحب الصدر الكبير المعظم النخ

Cf. B.M.A. Cat., p. 752b; Khed. Lib., iv, pp. 277, 341; etc. It has been lithographed at Teherān, a.H. 1271 (A.D. 1854).

8.

غرر الحكم و درر الكلم

Ghurar al-Hikam wa Durar al-Kalim.

Fols. 244; 10 in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{9}{4}$  in. long; written in good Naskh; the headings are in various colours; slightly damaged by insects; binding artistic; retains traces of gilt both outside and inside; copied at Herāt from a MS. in Najaf Ashraf, A.H. 1023 (A.D. 1614), by Al-Wāfī Muḥammad Jān b. Ḥusainī al-Harawī.

An excellent MS., which contains a collection of the numerous wise sayings of the same 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib, the son-in-law of the Prophet. The apothegms were gathered and arranged by 'Abd al-Wāḥid b. Muḥammad b. 'Abd al-Wāḥid Amīdī Tamīmī in the sixth century Hijrah.

Begins:

الحمدلله الذي هدانا بتوفيقه الى جادة طريقه وفضلنا بتوفيقه _ المخ

See Hāj. Khal., ii, 646 sq., and iv, 318; B.M.A. Cat., 331 sq.; Leyden Cat., 193; Loth (I.O. Cat.), 162; Brockelmann, i, p. 44; etc.

III. LAW.

كنز الدقائق

Kanz al-Daqā'iq.

Fols. 304; 10½ in. by 8 in.; 7 lines, each 4½ in. long; well written in large Naskh on thin yellowish paper; numerous marginal as well as interlinear glosses in Persian; damaged by insects; bound in plain leather; not dated.

A work on Ḥanafī Law, by Abū al-Barakāt 'Abd-allāh b. Aḥmad b. Maḥmūd al-Nasafī (d. A.H. 710, A.D. 1310). It is an abridgement of his الرافي (Al-Wāfī), and is divided into 49 parts:—

This is a digest of Muḥammadan law according to the sect of the twelve Imāms, and was written (so states a note at the beginning and another at the end in the hand of Col. John Baillie) by the direction of Sir William Jones. A translation of it (most probably in English) was commenced at Lucknow on the 16th March, 1798 (24th Ramaḍān, 1212), and completed on the 20th February, 1799 (13th Ramaḍān, 1213).

The author is Sirāj al-Haqq, who divided his work into eleven parts:—

Fols. 124;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 6 in.; 9 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; clear Naskh; written in the same handwriting as the Kanz al-Daqā'iq and Fiqh al-Sirājiyyah; slightly stained by damp; bound in plain leather; not dated.

It is stated in the introduction (fols. 1-4) that this work, which treats of Legal Punishment, Retribution, and Penal Laws, was compiled in the time of Messrs. Henry Colbrooke and John Harris Harrington by a Muftī, whose name however does not appear, at the direction of Capt. (afterwards Lieut.-Col.) Baillie. Probably the Muftī was Nizām al-Dīn, a great-grandson of the famous Shaikh 'Abd al-Haqq of Dehlī, who, it is stated by his son Al-Muftī Ikrām al-Dīn Khān, having accompanied Shāh-'ālam in his memorable campaigns in the East, had settled down temporarily at Benāres, and was at the request of some English officials engaged in some similar work.

The introduction begins:

Fols. 242;  $10\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 25 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in very neat small Naskh; bound in plain leather; dated A.H. 876 (A.D. 1471); bears signature in English of C. Gladwin.

A general history of the world, from the earliest times, by the celebrated Abū Ja'far Mnḥammad b. Jazīr b. Yazīd al-Ṭabarī of Ṭabaristān, who was a famous Imām of Baghdād and a great author. He finished his history in A.H. 302 (A.D. 914), and at the request of his friends reduced his work of 30,000 sheets to a much more reasonable size. This work was translated into Persian and continued by Abū Muḥammad of Tabrīz. Al-Ṭabarī died, in great renown for learning and sanctity, at Baghdād in A.H. 310 (A.D. 922).

The present excellent MS. is an abridgement of the original extensive history, but nothing important has been omitted, and its contents extend from the Creation to the year A.H. 133 (A.D. 750), the closing scene of Khalīfah Marwān II b. Muhammad b. Ḥakam, when he was slain at the battle of Kūfah.

150 Jāmi' al-Tawārīkh.

Fols. 277; 17\(\frac{3}{4}\) in. by 13\(\frac{1}{4}\) in.; 35 lines, each 10 in. long; clear Naskh; headings and verses in red; the texts of the Quran in larger hand; contains seventy illustrations; each part has an illuminated frontispiece; a very old copy, written in the lifetime of the author; dated A.H. 707 (A.D. 1306).

An authentic general history of the world from the earliest times, by Amīr Fadl-allāh Rashīd al-Dīn b. 'Imād al-Daulah Abū al-Khair b. Muwaffiq al-Daulah, d. A.H. 718 (A.D. 1318), aged 73 years, at According to a note in Persian on fol.  $105\hat{a}$ , "this, the history of Al-Tabari (?), was completed in A.H. 703 (A.D. 1306), but the whole work, including supplements on special history, was finished three years later." The author was a physician in Hamadan, the city of his birth, and it was on account of his skill in his profession that he rose in the favour of Tartar kings of Persia. He commenced the present work by command of Ghāzān Khān, who was a patron of literature, and who had appointed him Wazīr in A.H. 697 (A.D. 1298), which post he held under Ghāzān's son and successor. He was charged with administering poison to his patron Uljāitū, by his son Abū Sa'īd, and Besides the above work he wrote several others, e.g., Kitāb al-Tauzihāt, Miftāh al-Tafāsīr amd al-Risālah al-Sultāniyyah, etc.

The present MS., which is one of the oldest extant, has unfortunately fols. 1-3 and 70-103 missing, and is also incomplete at the end. It is divided into three principal parts:—

Part I, in two sections :--

Section i begins from an account of the reign of Shaddād: Prophet Hūd (Eber), the tribes of 'Ād and Ṣamūd, Prophet Sāliḥ; the Kings of Persia from Kayumars to Yazdajird—these are treated in one faṣl and four ṭabaqāt:—

(1) Fols. 4a–13b. Al-Bishdiyyah: Hūshang, Jamshīd, Dahḥāk, Prophet Abraham, Farīdūn, Prophet Joseph, Zaww b. Tahmāsp, Prophet Jethro, Prophet Moses, Aaron, Minūchihr, Nūdar, Prophets Al-Khiḍr and Moses (continued), Tubbā's, Prophet Joshua, Zaww b. Tahmāsp b. Minūchihr.

- (2) Fols. 13b-21b. Al-Kayāniyyah: Kaiqubād, the Israelites, Prophets Ilyās and 'Īsāiyyah, Luhrāsp, Suhrāb, Bukhtanassar, Gushtāsp b. Luhrāsp, the Kings of Yaman from the time of Kaikāwus to that of Bahman, Bahman b. Isfandiyār, Kaikāwus b. Qubād, Prophets David and Solomon, Queen Humāi Chehr-zād, Darius b. Bahman, Darius b. Darius, Alexander the Great, Jama-Ashk b. Ashkān.
- (3) Fols. 21b-26b. Al-Ashkāniyyah: Ashk b. Ashkān, the Kings of Greece, the Cæsars of Rūm after Alexander (Ptolemus), the Kings of the Arabs before Islām, Aṣḥāb al-Kahf (the seven sleepers), Prophet Jonah, Prophets George and Khālid.
- (4) Fols. 26b-46a. Al-Sāsāniyyah: Ardashīr b. Bābak, his son Shāpūr, his son Hurmuz, his son Bahrām, his son Tarsī, his son Hurmuz, his son Shāpūr, his brother Ardashīr, Bahrām b. Shāpūr, Yazdajird al-Aṣīm, Bahrāmgūr, his son Yazdajird, his son Fīrūz, his son Balāsh, Qubād b. Fīrūz, the Kings of Yaman, Nūshīrwān the Just, Aṣḥāb al-Fīl (the owners of elephants), Nūshīrwān (continued), Ṣaif b. Zī al-Yazān, Hurmuz b. Nūshīrwān, his son Khusrau Parwīz, death of Al-N'umān b. al-Munzir, Shīrūyah b. Khusrau Parwīz, his son Ardashīr, Shahrzād, Būrān daughter of Khusrau Parwīz, Parwīz b. Bahrām, Azarmī b. Khusrau Parwīz, his brother Farrukhzād, Yazdajird b. Shahriyār b. Khusrau Parwīz.

Section ii.—Fols. 46a-69b. 'Adnān:—digging of a well called Zam - zam; marriage of 'Abd-allāh with Amīnah; birth of Muḥammad, his childhood, genealogy, history of his life, of his companions. Here from the beginning of the era of Al-Hijrah the account breaks off till A.H. 122 (A.D. 739).

On fol. 108a, the history again begins with the events of the above year, describing the rule of the 11th Khalīfah, Walīd b. Yazīd II, of the house of Umayyah, and his successors to Marwān II, who was the last of his race.

On fol. 110b, the history of the thirty-eight Khalīfahs of the 'Abbāsiyah dynasty begins with the reign of Abū al-'Abbās 'Abd-allāh al-Saffāḥ, A.H. 132 (A.D. 749), and goes down to the last Khalīfah al-Musta'ṣim bi-allāh, A.H. 656 (A.D. 1258), fol. 154b.

Part II.—Fol. 1$\mathbb{1}$5b, history of Sulṭān Maḥmūd b. Sabuktagīn, his ancestors and descendants, extending down to the death of Khusrau-Shāh. This portion also includes a history of the Dailamis, $\bar{A}$l-i Buwaih, and $\bar{A}$l-i Sāmān, for the same period.

Part III.—Fol. 185b, history of the Saljūq Turks from their first establishment to the death of Tughril b. Arslān in A.H. 590 (A.D. 1193). This is followed by a zail (supplement), which had been written, as it is stated, eight years and two months after the death of Tughril. The author of this portion calls himself Abū Ḥāmid Muḥammad b. Ibrāhīm. It treats in a khātimah on the last episode of the reign of Tughril.

Part IV.—Fol. 217, history of the Sultans of Khwarizm from the beginning to the end of the dynasty. This part abruptly comes to a close in the account of the relief of Fīrūzkūh and Ghaznī.

The introduction to the third part begins:

This MS. is identical with the one of the five mentioned by Morley in the Royal Asiatic Society Cat., p. 5, I. Also cf. for the work in general, Hāj. Khal., ii, p. 509; Flügel (Vienna Cat.), ii, p. 179; Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), i, p. 74; Aumer (Munich Cat.), p. 69; Dorn (St. Petersb. A treatise on general arithmetic by the celebrated astronomer Ghiyās al-Dīn Jamshīd b. Mas'ūd b. Maḥmūd al-Ṭayyib al-Kāshī, commonly known as Al-Ghayyās, who dedicated the work to Mirzā Ulugh Beg, grandson of Tīmūr (see fol. 4b).

The author, who is reputed to have possessed rough manners, with little or no knowledge of the etiquette of the Court, was nevertheless a favourite with Ulugh Beg, who had appointed him one of the four keepers of his observatory, which had been built in the north-east of Samarqand in A.H. 823 (A.D. 1420). Al-Ghayyās wrote a series of works on mathematics, chiefly astronomy, some of which are enumerated in the preface to the present work. He died probably much earlier than A.H. 887 (A.D. 1482), as stated in the St. Petersburg Catalogue, p. 118.

فى تعريف The subject is divided into a muqaddimah or introduction (فى تعريف on fol. 8a, and five maqālahs or chapters:—

- I (في حساب السحاح بالارقام الهندية), in six bābs or sections, on fols. 8b, 9b, 12b, 18a, 23a, and 36b.
- II (غ حساب الكسور), in twelve bābs, on fols. 37b, 39b, 41b, 42b, 45b, 47b, 49a, 51a, 51b, 54b, and 56b.
- III (في طريق حساب المنجمين), in six bābs, on fols. 58b, 60a, 62a, 67a, 70, and 74a.
- IV (في المساحة), on fol. 79b, in eight bābs, on fols. 80b, 88a, 92b, 97a, 106a, 112a, 121b, and 124b.
- فى استخراج المجهولات بالجبر والمقابله والخطائين وغير همامن V (القواعد الحسابيه in four babs, on fols. 139b, 153b, 155a, and 177a.

تحرير اقليدس Taḥrīr Uqlīdus.

Fols. 142; 6% in. by 4 in.; 21 lines, each 2 in. long; written in small hand in good Naskh; stamped leather binding; much damaged by insects; dated on fol. 140, Ramaḍān, A.H. 882 (A.D. 1477), and on fol. 142, Shawwāl, A.H. 982 (A.D. 1573).

This is a much more complete work of Euclid than the Greek text that has come down to us. It was translated from the Greek by the famous philosopher and astronomer Khwājah Naṣīr al-Dīn al-Ṭūsī (d. a.h. 672, a.d. 1274) b. Imām Fakhr al-Dīn, and was brought to Spain by the Arabs, thence a knowledge of its contents was diffused throughout Europe long before the Greek original was discovered. In this work Naṣīr al-Dīn proves most of the propositions, sometimes in two, three, and four ways, wholly different from the demonstrations of the Greek author.

This work on geometry consists of fifteen maqālahs (books), and is illustrated with numerous neat diagrams in red ink.

The maqālahs begin:—

مخروطاط ابلونيوس

Makhrūtāt Ibloniyūs.

Fols. 98;  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 5 in.; cursive Nasta'līq; 20 lines, each  $2\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; gold-lined round the page; diagrams in red ink; bears two 'arz-dīdahs and four seals, one of the latter of the time of Emperor Ālamgīr; much soiled by damp and injured by insects; plain leather binding, which retains traces of gold lines round the margins; copyist, Muhammad Bāqir Radī.

The treatise on conic sections by Apollonius of Perga, who was born in the reign of Ptolemy Euergetes, and died during that of Ptolemy Philopater, who ruled 222-205 B.C. It is stated on fol. 52b that Apollonius dedicated the first three books of his conic sections to lucate. (Eudemus).

The treatise was originally in eight books, of which only the first four were known in Europe. About the middle of the seventeenth century the next three books were translated from an Arabic MS. dated A.D. 1250. The complete eighth book is still missing. In A.D. 1710 Edmund Halley, Savilian Professor of Geometry at Oxford, tried to restore the last book on the basis of the introductory lemmata of Pappus. The present MS. is divided into 8 parts:—

I.	Folio	1a,	contains	60	propositions.
II.	,,	22a,	,,	63	,,
III.	,,	34a,	:,	$55^{1}$	,,
1V.	,,	53a,	,,	53	,,
V.	,,	61b,	,,	77	,,
VI.	,,	80a,	,,	32	,,
VII.	,,	90a,	,,	50	,,

(The subject treated of in the above-mentioned books is very much the same as described in Florian Cajori's History of Mathematics, p. 48.)

Folio 97a.

(This part, though written by the same hand, has a gap of a page separating it from the preceding book, hence it looks like a new portion.)

It may be observed also that there is no تم المخروطاط (end of conic sections) written at the end of the 7th book. Much would be required to decipher this last part of the MS., since the handwriting is not only more cursive than in the preceding books, but also devoid of vowels and diacritical points. Only by a careful scrutiny of its contents can it be determined whether the portion is the 8th book of the treatise on conic sections or some other work of Apollonius; but as Mersenne (Synopsis Geometriæ) states that Aben Nedim (about 400 a.m.) mentioned that part of the 8th book of Apollonius's conics was known in Arabic, it is not improbable that this MS. contains the last missing part.

It has been established that this is merely the last part of Book VII, beginning with Boposition 40.

The first part begins:

بسم الله . . . المقالة الاولى من كتاب ابلو نيوس فى المخر وطات ستون شكلا . . . الخط الواصل من راى المخر وطات واية نقط _ الخ

The eighth or last part begins:

بسمالله . . . واقول انه ان كان ادم ثلث منقبه _ المخ

اخوان الصفا Ikhwān al-Ṣafā.

Fols. 442; 9 in. by  $5\frac{3}{4}$  in.; Naskh; printed at Calcutta, A.H. 1227 (A.D. 1812).

The first twenty of the treatises of the Ikhwān al-Ṣafā on the dispute between the animals and man. The authorship of this work has never been certainly discovered; but in the introduction, which is written by Aḥmad b. Muḥammad al - Anṣārī al' - Ṣhirwānī (d. A.H. 1227, A.D. 1812), the work is attributed to Ibn al-Juldī, whose full name, however, does not appear.

It has been translated into Persian and Urdū (both described elsewhere), and into German by Dieterici, Berlin, A.D. 1858. See Loth (I.O. Cat.), 474; Aumer (Munich Cat.), 295; etc.

Mawārid al-Kilam wa silk Durar al-Ḥikam.

Fols. 90;  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 4 in.; 11 lines, each  $2\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; gold-lined round the pages; written in good Naskh with vowels; headings in red; worm-eaten; repaired, badly obliterating a few words; bears an 'arz-dīdah and a seal of Nawwāb Āṣif al-Daulah of the year A.H. 1182 (A.D. 1768).

A work on ethics by the celebrated Shaikh Abū al-Faid, eldest son of Shaikh Mubarak Nagūri, and brother of the equally celebrated Abū al-Fadl. He was born at Agra, A.H. 954 (A.D. 1547), and on account of his literary talents became a great favourite with Akbar, who upon the death of Ghazālī Mashhadī bestowed upon him the honorary title of الشعراء (poet laureate), and also created He wrote poetry under the name of Faidī, but subsequently, two months before his death, changed it to Fayyadi. Faidī was a most prolific writer, and in all is said to have composed 101 works. He was amongst the first Muslims to devote himself to the study of Sanskrit literature, and his knowledge of Arabic and Hebrew was also very profound. He died at Agra, A.H. 1004 (A.D. 1595), leaving, according to Bada'uni, "a library of four thousand and six hundred volumes, some of them exquisitely copied with, what may be said to be, even unnecessary care and expense. Most of them were autographs of the respective authors, or at least copied by their contemporaries. They were all transferred to the king's library, after being catalogued and numbered in three different The first included Poetry, Medicine, Astrology, and Music; the second, Philosophy, Sufyism, Astronomy, and Geometry; and the third, or lowest grade, included Commentaries, Traditions, Theology, and Law. There were also 101 different copies of his poem 'Nal-Daman.' "

In the composition of the present work, the author has made use of only thirteen out of the twenty-eight letters of the alphabet, which have no discritical points (except in the last page, where the name occurs, every letter inscribed bears dot or dots). According to the index given on fols. 8b and 9, the work is divided into fifty mawārid, e.g.:

Faidī also compiled another work, a commentary upon the Qurān, similar in description to the present, and entitled "Sawāṭi al-Ilhām."

The introduction begins:

X. GRAMMAR.

المفصّل في صنعة الاعراب

Al-Mufașșal fī San'at al-I'rāb.

Fols. 274; 8 in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 13 lines, each  $2\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; clear Naskh; the last 6 fols. are written in a different hand; numerous notes, both interlinear and marginal; an old copy; bears a seal, A.H. 1185 (A.D. 1771).

A treatise on grammar, dealing chiefly and extensively with etymology and syntax, by the celebrated Abū al-Qāsim Maḥmūd b. 'Umar al-Zamakhsharī (d. A.H. 538, A.D. 1143), see Supplement.

It was composed in A.H. 515 (A.D. 1121), and is divided into four sections:

- i. Nouns, on fol. 8b.
- ii. Verbs, on fol. 142b.
- iii. Prepositions, conjunctions, etc., on fol. 181b.
- iv. Adjectives, on fol. 206.

No adjectives have been dealt with as the author promised, but the section is devoted entirely to Al-Mushtarak, and is written in a different hand. A couplet in Persian has been described round a margin by the hand of the copyist and also the 'Unwān. This suggests that the work was written either in India or in Persia. It is interesting, however, to note the extensive insight which the author had into the subject. The authorities from whom he mostly derived materials are too numerous to be all noted, but we may mention a few: Al-Akhṭal, Abū Jandal, Ibn al-'Abbās, Al-Khālidain (the two Khālids), Ka'b b. Rabī', 'Amr b. Mālik b. Ja'far, 'Amr b. al-Tufail, Qais b. 'Innāb, Qais b. Ḥamzah, Al-Qa'bain, Al-'Amrain (the two 'Amrs), Al-Qaisāin (the two Qais), Ibn Sa'd, Sībāwāihi (the most celebrated grammarian of his time), Oas, Al-Nu'mān, Al-Kisā'ī, etc.

شرح الشافية Sharh al-Shāfiyah.

Fols. 231;  $9\frac{\pi}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 23 lines, each  $3\frac{\pi}{4}$  in. long; written in small Nasta'līq; bound in stamped leather; bears a seal of Muḥammad Ikrām al-Haqq (A.H. 1167, A.D. 1753); slightly injured by insects.

A commentary upon the Al-Shāfiyah fī al-Ṣarf, a well-known treatise on inflection of Ibn Ḥājib (d. A.H. 646, A.D. 1248).

The author of the commentary is Raḍī al-Dīn Muḥammad b. al-Ḥasan al-Raḍī al-Astarābādī (d. A.H. 686, A.D. 1287), who also wrote a commentary upon the Al-Kāfiyah. Al-Raḍī has been confounded with Rukn al-Dīn Ḥasan b. Muḥammad al-Astarābādī, who was the author of three commentaries upon Al-Kāfiyah, and died in A.H. 715 or 717 (A.D. 1315 or 1317).

Begins:

اما بعد حمدالله والصلوة على محمد وعترته والمعصو مسيس فقد عنومت على أن اشرح مقدمة ابن المحاجب رح في التصريف والخط وابسط الكلام في شرحها ـ الخ

For other copies see Rieu (B.M.A. Cat. Supplt.), 955; Loth (I.O. Cat.), 952-953. It has been printed at Lucknow, A.H. 1262 (A.D. 1845), and lithographed at Dehlī, A.H. 1283 (A.D. 1866). Hāj. Khal., iv, 5, confounds it with Rukn al-Dīn's commentary.

الوافية في شرح الكافية Al-Wāfiyah fī Sharh al-Kāfiyah.

Fols. 149;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 6 in.; 17 lines, each 4 in. long; clear Nasta'līq; bound in stamped leather; much damaged; not dated; an old copy.

A commentary upon the Kāfiyah (الكافية), a well-known grammar of Ibn al-Ḥājib (d. A.H. 646, A.D. 1248). It is the middle-sized of the three commentaries. A few pages at the end are missing. The author was Sayyid Rukn al-Dīn Ḥasan b. Muḥammad al-Astarābādī (d. A.H. 715 or 717, A.D. 1315 or 1317).

مغنى اللبيب عن كتب الاعاريب

Mughnī al-Labīb 'an Kutub al-A'ārīb.

Fols. 296; 11½ in. by 6¾ in.; 17-18 lines, each 3½ in. long. The binding is covered with green cloth stamped with gilt; not dated; bears two seals, of the third year of Emperor Muḥammad Shāh and A.H. 1210 (A.D. 1795) respectively; the first half is written in good Naskh, and the second portion is nearer to Nasta'līq, and more condensed; there are copious minute notes round the margins.

A famous treatise on grammar, by Jamāl al-Dīn 'Abd-allāh b. Yūsuf b. Hishām al-Anṣārī (d. a.h. 761, a.d. 1359). In the introduction the author states that he began a work on this subject, a.h. 749 (a.d. 1348), in Mecca, and after his return from Egypt he set to work at it again. It is divided into eight sections:—

- i. Words and their aḥkāms.
- ii. Sentences, their analysis and ahkāms.
- iii. Prepositions, conjunctions, etc.

- iv. General information, which is frequently needed in parsing.
- v. Errors which occur in parsing.
- vi. List of some of the errors commonly regarded as correct.
- vii. How to parse.
- viii. Hints on the subject as a whole.

The marginal notes which have been copiously added in the first portion are quotations bearing on the subject from scores of famous grammarians, most of whom preceded the author, while some were his contemporaries.

Begins:

See Ḥāj. Khal., 655; B.M.A. Cat., 239; Loth (I.O. Cat.), 966; Aumer (Munich Cat.), 328; Ahlwardt (Berlin Cat.), 6725; Brockelmann, ii, p. 23; etc.

مغنى اللبيب عن كتب الاعاريب Mughnī al-Labīb 'an Kutub al-A'ārīb.

Fols. 327;  $9\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $5\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each 4 in. long; written in Nasta'līq; copious notes, both the marginal and interlinear; injured by insects; bears two seals of Ḥimāyat  $\underline{Kh}$ ān; not dated; an old copy.

Another complete copy of the preceding work is divided, like above, into eight  $b\bar{a}bs$  (chapters), see fol. 2b:

Begins:

رسالة فى علم الاعراب Risālat fī 'Ilm al-I'rāb.

Fols. 180;  $9\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 17 lines, each 3 in. long; good Naskh; dated in Persian, A.H. 1225 (A.D. 1810).

It is stated in the introduction that in Hindūstān some learned grammarian had written a work based on the grammar of Al-Shaikh al-'Allāmah Ib al-Ḥājib (d. A.H. 646, A.D. 1248), and because this MS. was getting much injured through age the present copy was made.

The work treats of etymology and syntax, in good readable style. Begins:

عباب اللباب في توضيح دقائق الاعراب 'Ubāb al-Lubāb fī Taudīh Dagā'iq al-I'rāb.

Fols. 303; 10 in. by 6½ in.; first 8 fols. are written in good Nasta'liq, thence to fol. 221 in bad Naskh, and in the last portion the writing is clear again; much injured by insects; dated A.H. 843 (A.D. 1434).

A commentary upon the Lubāb al-I'rāb of Tāj al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Muḥammad b. Aḥmad b. al-Saif Isfarā'īnī Fāḍil (معدد بن أحمد السفرائيني, see fol. 3a, last line), who flourished about the end of the seventh century A.H. The author is not mentioned. It begins with a preface:

and was compiled during the reign of Sultān Muḥammad b. Tughluq Shāh of Dehlī. The text of the Lubāb is written in red in the first few pages, and subsequently overlined; when combined they begin:

The minute notes written on the margins were compiled at a school in Nīshāpūr, in A.H. 736 (A.D. 1335), see last page.

At the end there are written a few instructions to prayers by Abū al-Lais Naṣr b. Muḥammad b. Ibrāhīm al-Samarqandī.

Fols. 252;  $9\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; distinct Naskh; plain leather binding; gilt-lined; two vols.

An entire and correct edition of five famous books upon Arabic grammar collated with the most ancient MSS. in India by Lieut. (afterwards Col.) John Baillie.

Vol. I contains:

- 1. (Al-Mi'at 'Āmil) المايته عامل or (Al-'Awāmil fī al-Naḥw) والمايته عامل في النحو (pp. 1-11), by 'Abd al-Qāhir b. 'Abd al-Raḥmān, known as al-Jurjānī (d. А.н. 471 or 472, A D. 1078 or 1079).
- 2. (Sharḥ al-Mi'at 'Āmil) شرح المايتة عامل (pp. 1-65), a commentary upon Al-Jurjānī's grammar, without author's name.
- 3. (Al-Miṣbāḥ) المصباح (pp. 1-79), a commentary upon Al-Jurjānī's grammar by Abū al-Fatḥ Nāṣir b. 'Abd al-Sayyid al-Muṭarrizzī (d. а.н. 610, а.д. 1213), see B.M.A. Cat. Supplt., 930 (ii).

Vol. II contains: (Hidāyat al-Naḥw) هدايته النحو (pp. 1-171), a short treatise on grammar, founded upon the (Kāfiyah) كافية of Jamāl al-Dīn Abū 'Amr 'Uṣmān b. 'Umar Ibn al-Ḥājib (d. A.H. 646, A.D. 1248) by an unknown author. Cf. Stewart's Cat. and B M. Cat., 643.

انوار الربيع فى انواع البديع Anwār al-Rabī' fī Anwā' al-Badī'.

Fols. 423; 9 in. by 5\frac{1}{2} in.; 24 lines, each 3\frac{1}{2} in. long; neatly written in small Naskh; bound in gilt-stamped leather; slightly soiled; copied at the desire of Khāfī Khān, the Wazīr, in the 45th year of the reign of Aurangzīb, A.H. 1113 (A.D. 1701), at Mustaqarr al-Khilāfah Akbarabād (Agra) by Muḥammad Isḥāq Kāshī.

This is a commentary upon the Badī'iyyah of 'Alī Ṣadr al-Dīn al-Madanī b. Aḥmad Nizām al-Dīn al-Ḥusainī al-Ḥasanī (see Sulāfat al-'Aṣr, No. 48) by the author himself, who wrote it in India in A.H. 1077 (A.D. 1666).

The last ten folios are devoted to the description of the nine other Badī'iyyahs and their authors; an index to this has been given at the beginning in the hand of Muḥammad, known as Al-Sa'īd, in A.H. 1130 (A.D. 1717).

Fols. 6;  $11\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 16 lines in double columns, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; fair Naskh; paper covers; injured; not dated; probably copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

This  $qa\bar{s}\bar{\iota}dah$ , which consists of 133 lines in praise of the descendants of the Prophet, was copied from the history of Al-Ṭabarī. It is stated that Abū al-Salṭ al-Harawī was the person, probably the author of the  $qa\bar{s}\bar{\iota}dah$ , who had dictated it to Al-Ṭabarī (see No. 19).

The qaṣīdah begins:

44. شرح لامية العجم Sharh Lāmiyat al-'Ajam.

Fols. 370;  $9\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 25 lines, each 4 in. long; written in good Naskh in small hand; illuminated frontispiece; coloured lines round the pages; slightly injured by insects; plain leather binding; bears an 'arz-dīdah; dated A.H. 979 (A.D. 1571).

This is an elaborate commentary by Ṣalāḥ al-Dīn Khalīl b. Aibak al-Ṣafadī upon the Lāmiyat al-'Ajam of the celebrated poet Abū Ismā'īl al-Ḥusain b. 'Alī b. Muḥammad b. 'Abd al-Ṣamad al-Iṣfahānī al-Madanī, commonly known as "Al-Tughrā'ī" (d. A.H. 515, A.D. 1121). The verses of the Lāmiyat are written in red ink.

The commentary begins:

قصيدة البرده سترجمة

Qaṣīdat al-Burdah Mutarjamah.

Fols. 28;  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 5 in.; 12 lines, each 2 in. long; fair Naskh; stamped leather binding; dated A.H. 972 (A.D. 1564).

This quṣādah, written in praise of the Prophet Muḥammad after the battle fought at Badr, consists of 176 couplets. The Persian translation under each line, inscribed in red ink, is also in verse and rhymes with the Arabic verse. The author of the Arabic original was Muḥammad b. Saʿīd al Būṣīrī (d. A.H. 694, 696, or 697, A.D. 1294, 1296, or 1297).

The qaṣīdah begins:

امن تذكر جيران بذى سلم من جت دمعاجرى من قصلة بدم

The anonymous metric Persian translation, which was written in A.H. 887 (A.D. 1482), begins:

Sulāfat al-'Aṣr fī Mahāsin A'yān al-'Aṣr.

Fols. 279;  $10\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 29 lines, in double columns; good Naskh; bound in strong leather; dated A.H. 1082 (A.D. 1671).

A collection of verses. The author is 'Alī Ṣadr al-Dīn al-Madanī b. Aḥmad Nizām al-Dīn al-Ḥusainī al-Ḥasanī, who accompanied his father to Ḥaidarābād. He was imprisoned by Sulṭān Abū al-Ḥasan, but was favoured by the Emperor 'Ālamgīr. He died at Ṣbīrāz, a.h. 1117 (a.d. 1705). His first qaṣīdah is dedicated to 'Abd-allāh Muhammad Qutb-Shāh.

The work is divided into five sections, one of which is devoted to the poets who flourished in the eleventh century A.H. in each of the following sets of countries:

- i. Mecca and Medina.
- ii. Syria and Egypt.
- iii. Yemen.
- iv. Persia, Babylonia, and Asia Minor.
- v. Morocco, etc.

مقامات البديعي

Magāmāt al-Badī'ī.

Fols. 76; 8\frac{2}{3} in. by 5\frac{3}{3} in.; 11 lines, each 3\frac{3}{3} in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; injured by insects close to binding; bound in plain leather; not dated, probably copied in the eleventh century A.H.

A collection of forty maqāmahs (discourses) and three additional novelettes, compiled by Badī' al-Zamān b. al-Ḥusain, better known as Al-Hamadānī, a disciple of the celebrated scholar Abū al-Ḥasan b. Fāris al-Zanjānī. From his native place the author travelled to Gūrgan in A.H. 380 (A.D. 990), thence to Nīshāpūr, and finally settled in Ghaznī. He was one of the earliest to attempt to write pleasantries, to which the 'Abbaside Khalīfahs and nobles had begun to take a liking. He died at Herāt in A.H. 398 (A.D. 1007), when he was only 40 years of age.

In the present work, an imaginary person under the name of  $\bar{1}$ sā b. Hishām has been made a witness of all the adventures narrated in the maqāmahs.

Begins:

Cf. Brockelmann, i, pp. 93 (3)-95. The work has been published with a commentary at Beirūt in A.H. 1315 (A.D. 1889).

50. مقامات الحريرى Magāmāt al-Ḥarīrī.

Fols. 125; 12½ in. by 8 in.; 17 lines, each 5 in. long; written in splendid Naskh, with headings in red ink, on thin paper; numerous notes in small and clear Nasta'līq; slightly soiled and patched; plain leather binding; not dated; bears an 'arz-dīdah, and a seal of Fakhr al-Dīn Aḥmad Khān, A.H. 1188 (A.D. 1774).

These are the ever popular stories of Abū Muḥammad al-Qāsim b. 'Alī al-Ḥarīrī (d. A.H. 516, A.D. 1122), who was the most famous prose-writer of his time. The work is divided into 50 maqāmahs (discourses), and towards the end are the two treatises: Al-Risālah al-Sīniyyah (fol. 123b) and Al-Risālah al-Shīniyyah (fol. 124). As the names of these Risālahs suggest, every word in the former, which was composed in A.H. 497 (A.D. 1103), contains the letter (w) (s), while the letter (is) is contained in every word of the latter.

المستطرف من كل فن مستظرف Al-Mustatraf min Kulli fannin Mustazraf.

Fols. 248; 14 in. by  $9\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 27 lines, each 7 in. long; first portion is written in neater and smaller, the latter half in larger and more distinct Naskh, with headings in red ink; bound in plain leather; stained by damp; dated Bisrah, A.H. 1093 (A.D. 1681); copyist, 'Abd-allāh b. Ja'far al-Jazā'īrī.

The famous anthology in prose and verse of Muḥammad al-Khaṭīb al-Abshīhī (about A.H. 800, A.D. 1397). It is stated that material for this work was mostly taken from the Rabī' al-Abrār, by Al-Zamakhsharī (d. A.H. 538, A.D. 1143), and the Al-Iqd al-Farīd, by Shihāb al-Dīn Ahmad, commonly known as Ibn 'Abd Rabboh al-Andalūsī. The latter work has been ascribed by Hājī Khalfah (iv, 232) to Al-Wazīr Abū Salīm Muḥammad b. Talḥaḥ Qurashī (d. A.H. 652, A.D. 1254), while Casiri (i, 215) calls him Shams al-Dīn Abū 'Abd-allāh Muḥammad b. Talḥah Miṣrī Shāfi'ī.

The present work is divided into eighty-four  $b\bar{a}bs$  (chapters), see index at the beginning.

A famous zoological dictionary, but it is something more. The work contains chapters on the history of the Arab rulers, on religion and law, annotations on the Qurān, and dissertations on science, poetry, diction, etc. The author was Kamāl al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Mūṣā b. 'Īṣā b. 'Alī al-Damīrī (d. A.H. 808, A.D. 1406), who compiled it in A.H. 773 (A.D. 1371).

At the beginning a bibliography of 560 books in prose and 197 in verse has been added, which indicates the sources from which the author gathered material for his work.

Fols. 127;  $11\frac{\pi}{4}$  in. by 9 in.; 29 lines, each  $6\frac{\pi}{2}$  in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; bound in plain leather; copyist, Jagan-Nāth; bears signature of J. W. Urquhart.

A work on the doctrines and ethics of the Christian religion, differences between its tenets and those of Islām, containing evidences to prove its superiority over other religions. It was written and completed in A.H. 1018 (A.D. 1609) and dedicated to the Emperor Jahāngīr, by Geronimo, or, as some write it, Hieronymo Xavier, a native of Navarre, and a Jesuit, who came from Goa, where he was attached to the Catholic mission from A.D. 1571 till his death at the same place in A.D. 1617. He was the author of several other works, e.g., a Life of Christ, a translation into Persian of the Psalms, a history of St. Peter, a Guide to Kings, Lives of the Apostles, etc.

On the flyleaf is found the following note in English:-

"The Gospel of Geronimo Xavier:—

"The Mogul Emperor Akbar, who was fixed to no religion, wrote to the King of Portugal in 1852 (?) asking him for a translation of the Scriptures into Arabic or Persian, and at the same time one who was capable of explaining to him the Christian religion. One Geronimo Xavier, a Jesuit, and relation of the famous St. Francis Xavier, was appointed for this purpose, having learned, as he says, the Persian language in eight years, composed this book, and presented it to the Great Mogul in April, 1862 (?)."

Probably this account is more appropriate to the Life of Christ, which the author had written and dedicated to Akbar in the 47th year of his reign, A.H. 1011 (A.D. 1602); even then the dates could never be reconciled.

The present work, which is in the form of a dialogue between the author as exponent of the Christian dogmas and a Ḥakīm (philosopher) or Mullā (Muḥammadan priest), consists of five  $b\bar{a}bs$  or chapters with numerous subdivisions (see index on fols. 4b-5a):

- Bāb I. در بیان احتیاج آدسیان بدین خدا in five faşls (sections): fols. 5a, 8b, 11a, 14b, and 18b.
- Bāb II. در آنچه دین عیسویان از خدامی آموزد in eight faṣls: fols. 20b, 24a, 29b, 34b, 38a, 41b, 45a, and 48a.
- Bāb III. در الوهيت عيسى صاحب ما in nine faṣls: fols. 51a, 54a, 57b, 60b, 65a, and 68b (the rubrics from fifth, seventh, and eighth faṣls are absent).
- Bāb IV. در تفاوت احكام دين عيسويان ومحمديان in eight faṣls: fols. 73a, 76b, 81b, 84b, 88a, 93a, 96a, and 99b.
- Bāb V. در بیان تائیدات دین عیسویان وفضیلت آن بر دیگرادیان in eight faṣls: fols. 102b, 107a, 110a, 112b, 113b, 116b, 120a, and 123a.

The preface begins:

Cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), i, p. 4; etc. A reply to the work was written a little after in A.H. 1031 (A.D. 1622) by Aḥmad b. Zain al-'Ābidīn al-'Alawī.

Fols. 239; 10½ in. by 7¾ in.; 15 lines, each 4¾ in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah; headings in red; illuminated frontispiece; bound in gilt-stamped leather; copied by Dānā-Rām, A.H. 1215 (A.D. 1800).

An exposition of the religious creeds and philosophical systems of the East. The author's name does not appear, but the work is probably due to Mubād-Shāh, who completed it shortly after A.H. 1063 (A.D. 1653).

Comprising fifteen sections with numerous subsections, it gives a fair insight into the beliefs of the Pārsīs, Hindūs, Buddhists, Jews, Christians, Muslims, Muwaḥḥids (unitarians), Philosophers, Ṣūfīs (theosophists), and several others.

This MS. comprises the first two juz' or part of the third volume of the well-known general history, which was originally written, A.H. 927-930 (A.D. 1521-1524), by the same grandson of Mīr Khwānd (see No. 71), Ghiyās al-Dīn, called Khwānd-Amīr, who had completed the Rauzat al-Ṣafā' (see above). The present work was undertaken by the author at the desire of his patron, Sayyid Ghiyās al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Yūsuf al-Ḥusainī, who was a favourite on account of his learning with Sulṭān Ḥusain and his successors, and was appointed first a teacher in the College at Herāt, and subsequently rose to the judgeship of Herāt and Khurāsān under Ṣhāh Ismā'īl Ṣafawī, but was mercilessly deprived of life in A.H. 927 (A.D. 1521) by the Governor, Amīr Khān.

The first juz' of the present volume, fols. 1–193, contains history of the Khāns of Turkestān, an account of Chingīz Khān and his descendants in Persia and Turkestān.

The second juz, fols. 193b-end, comprises a history of the royal dynastics contemporary with Chingīz Khān and successors.

Fols. 632; 9½ in. by 6 in.; 15 lines, each 2½ in. long; written in excellent small Nasta'līq; frontispiece illuminated with gold; gold lines round the pages; headings in gold and red ink; bound in red velvet; probably transcribed in the ninth century of the Hijrah; new margins have been pasted; bears an inscription at the end "That this copy was read for a few days by Sultān Muhammad Mirzā Safawī."

An authentic history of the great conqueror Tīmūr (Tamerlane) from his birth, A.H. 736 (A.D. 1336), to his death, A.H. 807 (A.D. 1405), collected from official records, by Maulānā Sharaf al-Dīn 'Alī Yazdī (d. A.H. 858, A.D. 1454), who was attached to the court of Sulṭān Shāhrukh Mirzā and subsequently of his son, Sulṭān Ibrāhīm Mirzā, at whose desire the present work was compiled at Shīrāz in four years and dedicated to Shāhrukh in A.H. 828 (A.D. 1425). The Zafarnāmah, or, as it is often called, Tīmūr-nāmah, is written in such a style that it is considered a very model of elegance in Persian prose composition. Sharaf al-Dīn, besides other works, wrote the Sharh or commentary on the Qaṣīdah Burdah (see No. 45). He also wrote poetry and used as poetical name "Sharaf."

طبقات اكبرشاهي

Țabaqāt-i Akbar-Shāhī.

Fols. 752;  $9\frac{5}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 19 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in beautiful Nasta'līq, mostly on gold-sprinkled paper; gilt and coloured lines round the pages; headings in red; slightly injured and repaired; an old copy.

A most celebrated general history of India from the time of the Muslim conquest (A.H. 367, A.D. 977) to the 38th year of Akbar's reign (A.H. 1002, A.D. 1593). The work, which is the earliest pertaining exclusively to India, is also known under the titles of Ṭabaqāt-i Akbarī, Ta'rīkh-i Niẓāmī, and Ta'rīkh-i Sulṭān-i Niẓāmī. It was compiled by Niẓām al-Dīn Aḥmad b. Muḥammad Muqīm al-Harawī (d. aged 45 years, A.H. 1003, A.D. 1594), whom Akbar had appointed Bakhshī of Gujarāt in the 19th year of his reigu, and subsequently in the 37th year Bakhshī of the whole empire. The author claimed descent from the celebrated saint Khwājah 'Abd-allāh al-Anṣārī al-Harawī; and his father, Khwājah Muqīm, in the latter part of Bābar's reign was raised to the Dīwān-ship of the Emperor's household, and after Bābar's death, when Gujarāt was conquered by Humāyūn, and Mirzā 'Askarī was entrusted with the government of the province of Aḥmadābād, Muqīm was appointed Wazīr to the Mirzā. The Khwājah also held high military command under Akbar.

In the preface the author quotes 29 standard authorities (see fol. 2b) for his work. Most of the histories which followed have made copious extracts from the Tabaqāt, which is divided into a muqaddimah (introduction), nine tabaqāt (books), and a khātimah (conclusion).

Muqaddimah, on fol. 3b: History of the Ghaznavides, from Nāṣir al-Dīn Sabuktagīn, who was raised to the throne in A.H. 367 (A.D. 977), to the death of Khusran-Malik, Sulṭān of Lahore, in A.H. 583 (A.D. 1187).

Tabaqah I, on fol. 17b: History of the Sulţāns of Dehlī, from Mu'izz al-Dīn Muḥammad Sām Ghūrī, known as Shihāb al-Dīn, to Akbar, A.H. 574–1002 (A.D. 1178–1593). This book comprises notices of Quṭb al-Dīn Aibak, fol. 20a; Tāj al-Dīn Yaldūz, fol. 21a; Nāṣir al-Dīn Qubāchah, fol. 22a; Bahā al-Dīn Tughril, fol. 22b; Malik Bakhtiyār al-Dīn Khiljī, prince of Lakhnautī, and his three successors, fol. 22b; Ārām-Shāh, son of Quṭb al-Dīn, and his successors, fol. 26b; Sulṭān Jalāl al-Dīn Khiljī and successors, fol. 68b; Ghiyāṣ al-Dīn Tughluq and successors, fol. 94b; the Sayyids, from Khizr Khān, fol. 130b; the house of Afghān kings, from Bahlūl Lūdī, fol. 145a, to the defeat at Pānīpat of Ibrāhīm by Bābar in A.H. 932 (A.D. 1525); Bābar, fol. 173b; Humāyūn, fol. 187b; Shīr-Shāh Sūr and successors, to their final overthrow, fol. 215a; a concise history of the reign of Akbar, fol. 234b; the Amīrs who flourished in Akbar's reign, fol. 374b; 'Ulamā' and Fuzalā' (literary men), fol. 382b; Mashā'ikh (holy persons), fol. 386a; Ḥukamā' (physicians), fol. 388b; Shu'arā' (poets), fol. 389b.

Tabaqah II, on fol. 395: History of the Sultāns of the Deccan, A.H. 748-1002 (A.D. 1347-1593): the Bahamanīs, fol. 400b; the Nizām al-Mulkīs, fol. 433a; the 'Ādil Khānīs, fol. 438a; the Quṭb al-Mulkīs, fol. 439b (here a few rubrics are missing).

Ţabaqah III, fol. 440a: History of the kingdom of Gujarāt, from а.н. 793 (а.д. 1390) to its annexation to the Moghul Empire, а.н. 980 (а.д. 1572).

Tabaqah IV, fol. 519a: The kingdom of Bengal and Lakhnautī, from Sultān Fakhr al-Dīn, а.н. 741 (а.д. 1340) to а.н. 984 (а.д. 1576), when Dā'ūd Khān was slain by Khān-Khānān, commander of Akbar's forces, and his kingdom annexed.

Ţabaqah V, fol. 523a: History of the Sharqī Kings of Jaunpūr, from Khwājah Jahān, а.н. 784 (а.р. 1382), to the defeat of Sulṭān Ḥusain after a reign of 19 years by Sikandar b. Bahlūl, Sulṭān of Dehlī, а.н. 881 (а.р. 1476).

Tabaqah VI, fol. 529: History of the kingdom of Mālwah, from а.н. 809 (а.д. 1406), comprising an account of its amalgamation with Gujarāt in а.н. 937 (а.д. 1530), to the surrender of Bāz-Bahādur b. Shujā' Khān, fol. 595b, to Akbar, а.н. 977 (а.д. 1569).

Tabaqah VII, fol. 597α: The Sultāns of Kashmīr, from its conquest by Shāh-Mīr, who assumed the title of Shams al-Dīn, A.H. 747 (A.D. 1346) to A.H. 995 (A.D. 1587), when Yūsuf b. 'Alī-Shāh submitted to pay tribute to Akbar.

Ţabaqah VIII, fol. 633b: The kingdom of Sind from а.н. 86 (а.р. 705), the time of its conquest by the Arabs during the reign of Khalīfah Walīd b. 'Abd al-Malik, to а.н. 1001 (а.р. 1592), when Mirzā Jānī Beg submitted to Akbar and his kingdom was annexed to the Moghul Empire.

Tabaqah IX, fol. 641a: History of the Sultāns of Multān, from its first conquest by the Muslims under Muḥammad Qāsim during the governorship of the Arab, Ḥajjāj b. Yūsuf, but more especially from the time of Shaikh Yūsuf, A.H. 847 (A.D. 1443), to the annexation of the kingdom by the Moghuls in A.H. 932 (A.D. 1525).

Khātimah, on fol. 651b: Short geographical sketch consisting of eleven lines and confined merely to the area of the empire under Akbar, and the number of its cities and villages; it breaks off abruptly with the following words:—

اكبرنامه

Akbar-nāmah.

Fols. 694;  $11\frac{1}{3}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 23 lines, each  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq by different hands; bound in plain leather; repaired at many places; injured; an old copy.

The well-known history of the Emperor Akbar the Great, by his favourite Prime Minister and Secretary, Shaikh Abū al-Fazl "'Allāmī" b. Shaikh Mubārak Nāgūrī. The author was in his time the most learned and elegant writer in the East. Abū al-Fazl was first brought to the notice of the Emperor in the 20th year of his reign, A.H. 982 (A.D. 1574), by his equally celebrated elder brother Faizī (see No. 30). For nearly twenty-eight years Abū al-Fazl remained a favourite with Akbar and held his offices with great distinction. He was the author of several works: the Ā'īn-i Akbarī, the Maktūbāt, the 'Iyār-i Dānish, etc. He was also a Sanskrit scholar, and under his supervision several translations were made: the Mahābhārata, the Rāmāyana, the Jog Bāshisht, etc. (All these works except the last but one are described in this catalogue.) Abū al-Fazl, when he was returning from the Deccan, whither he had been sent as Commander-in-Chief of the Imperial Troops for five years, was assassinated, though he defended himself with great valour up to the last, by Rājah Narsingh-Deo Bundela, as is alleged at the instigation of Prince Salīm (afterwards Jahāngīr), near Gwālior, A.H. 1011 (A.D. 1602).

The Akbar-nāmah comprises a history of Akbar from his birth to the beginning of the 47th year of his reign, to which is appended an account of his ancestors. It was continued down to within a year of the author's death, and the whole work was from time to time modified with a view to secure complete accuracy by Akbar himself.

In other catalogues of MSS, this work has been conveniently divided into three different volumes, of which the Ā'īn-i Akbarī forms the last, but the present copy is one uniform whole, and does not contain the last work.

Begins:

Large extracts with an account of the work are given in Elliot, Hist. of India, iv, pp. 1-102. See also Morley (R.A.S. Cat.), p. 108 sq.; Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), i, p. 247 sq.; Bodl. Cat.), pp. 162-166; etc. The work was lithographed at Lucknow, A.H. 1284 (A.D. 1867), and has been published in three volumes in the Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta Series (see Supplement).

دستور العمل اكبرى

Dastūr al-'Amal-i-Akbarī.

Fols. 106; 9½ in. by 6 in.; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; bound in plain leather; copied by Khiyālī-Rām in л.н. 1230 (л.р. 1814).

An account of the 22 sūbahs or provinces of the Indian Empire, their subdivisions and revenue in the time of the Moghul sovereignty, compiled by Thākur-La<sup>q</sup> Munshī, son of Chhatarbhūj-Dās of Burhān-pūr. It is stated on fol. 104b that the notices in regard to the sūbahs in the Deccan were taken and enlarged from the notes of Rāi Braj Ishwar-Dās. (Rieu in B.M.P. Cat., i, p. 404b, has Rāi Braj b. Ishrī-Dās.)

The book contains no preface. Tables of Arabic, Persian, and Hindī days, months, and years are appended at the beginning. In the case of the sābahs of Hindūstān only their subdivisions into sarkārs, etc., are mentioned:—Shāhjahānābād (Dehlī), fol. 4b; Akbarābād (Agra), fol. 6a; Lahore, fol. 7b; Kābul, fol. 8b; Kashmīr, fol. 9b; Multān, fol. 9b; Tattah, fol. 10b; Aḥmadābād (Gujarāt), fol. 11a; Ajmere, fol. 12a; Mālwah, fol. 13a; Orissa, fol. 14a; Bihār (Patna), fol. 14a; Bengal, fol. 15b; Oudh, fol. 16a; Allahābād, fol. 16b.

Of the provinces of the Deccan brief historical accounts from the origin of Muhammadan dynasties to the time of Muhammad-Shāh are also given:—Khāndes, fol. 18a; Berār, fol. 32a; Aurangābād, fol. 50a; Bījāpūr, fol. 69a; Ḥaidarābād, fol. 85a; Karnātic, fol. 97b.

This is followed by a chronology of the Moghul Emperors (fol. 108a) from Akbar to Muhammad-Shāh.

The MS. has been earelessly written, but the mistakes have been corrected in pencil. Fol. 1 should be included in Bengal.

Fols. 245;  $8\frac{3}{8}$  in. by  $4\frac{7}{8}$  in.; 14 lines, each  $2\frac{7}{8}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; bound in stamped leather; copyist, Muḥammad 'Alī; dated A.H. 1224 (A.D. 1809).

A history of the Emperor Shāhjahān's life and reign, and containing a short history of his predecessors, beginning with Tīmūr. On the flyleaf the work is entitled "Ikhtiṣār-i Shāhjahān-nāmah," and in the colophon it is stated that the original copy was in the possession of Sulṭān Muḥammad Ṣafawī Bahādur Khān Īrānī, but contained neither the name of the author nor the usual Praise to the Almighty. At the request of an Englishman, who did not wish his name to be inserted, the present copy was transcribed with brief Praise added by the Sulṭān Muḥammad Ṣafawī himself. It is written in plain readable style, and begins:

الحمدلله رافع الدرجات لمن عظم جلاله و فایض البرکات لمن کرم کماله . . . . اما بعد توالدو تناسب وجلوس طبقه تیموریه برینمنوالست ـ امیر تیمورگورگان شب سه شبب بیست و پنج ماه شعبان ـ الح

The work apparently is an abridgement of Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ's history of Shāhjahān entitled "'Amal-i Ṣāliḥ." The following short extract taken from the biographies of the literary men of the reign (fol. 219a, l. 7) may serve to identify the work:

مولانا عبد الحق دهلوی که مظهر فیض حق ومهیط نور مطلق است از خاکپاک دهلی بپایه ظهور وسیله وجمع علم راجامع گردیده در فقه تفسیر وحدیث ممتاز است ودر منطق ومعانی وکلام بی انباردر مبادی جوانی در مقدمه زندگانی باتحصیل علوم دینیه پرداخت انگاه بافاده واضافه مشغول گردید . . . . ویکصد وچند کتاب از تصانیف مختصر ومطول روزگارگذ اشته از دامگاه فنا بارام گاه عالم بقاشتافت وپس از رحلتش خلف الصدق که در فضل وعلم شهرهٔ آفاق بودمد تی مدید صدر راه مدرسه استفاده گشته اونیز الخ

In the present copy only a few rubrics are present, and in most part the work is written without spacing or punctuation.

The author, Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ, has been mentioned in the work, Bahār-i Dānish (described elsewhere), of his elder brother, Shaikh 'Ināyat-allāh Kanbū. He completed this work A.H. 1070 (A.D. 1659-60).

وقائع حيدرآباد Waqā'i' Ḥaidarābād.

Fols. 55; 9 in. by  $5\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in good Nasta Iq, with headings in red; bound in plain leather; slightly injured by insects.

A diary of the siege and conquest of Golkundah, near Ḥaidarābād, by the Emperor 'Ālamgīr in A.H. 1107 (A.D. 1695). It was compiled by Mirzā Nūr al-Dīn Muḥammad, who was descended from a Persian family of physicians in Dehlī. He was Comptroller of the Royal Kitchen, and received the title of Ni'mat Khān from the same Emperor 'Ālamgīr, and near the end of the reign, on account of his constant attendance upon that monarch, he received the title of Muqarrab Khān. Bahādur-Shāh also conferred upon him the title of Dānishmand Khān. Ni'mat Khān wrote several works, both in prose and verse. As a poet he signed himself "'Ālī," and his compositions exhibit rare wit and satire. He died in A.H. 1121 (A.D. 1710).

The present work, which is written in mixed prose and verse in the usual satirical style, is also popular under the titles of Waqāi' Ni'mat Khān-i 'Ālī and Wāqi'āt-i Ḥaidarābād. It is divided into six chapters, called waqāi' or events of the 13th, 14th, 15th Rajab, 14th Sha'bān, and two more which do not bear dates (on fols. 1b, 7a, 13b, 17a, 36b, and 42b), beginning:

The work has been lithographed (together with an allegorical story in prose and verse called Ḥusn-u 'Ishq of the same author) in India without name of place, A.H. 1248 (A.D. 1832), and Cawnpore, A.H. 1287 (A.D. 1870), and printed with marginal notes by Maulawi Maqbūl Aḥmad at Lucknow, A.H. 1259 (A.D. 1843).

دستور العمل سررشتجات Dastür al-'Amal-i-Sarrishtajāt.

Fols. 56; 10½ in. by 7½ in.; written in Nasta Iq-shikastah; not dated.

A collection of useful instructions and tables for the education of those who work in the revenue offices. It gives a fair insight into the sort of departmental work carried on during the times of the Moghul sovereignty. Copies of a few farmāns and dispatches of the Premiers have also been added. The author is Udai-Chand of Salīmābād (Bengal), who compiled it during the reign of the Emperor Aurangzīb. Begins:

تحفته العالم

Tuhfat al-'Alam.

Fols. 206; 10 in. by 5\(^3_4\) in.; 22 lines, each 3\(^3_4\) in. long; written in small Nasta'līq, with headings in red; dated A.H. 1222 (A.D. 1807); transcribed by the author's cousin, Lutf-allāh b. Bahā al-Dīn Muḥammad b. 'Abd-allāh b. Nūr al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Ni'mat-allāh al-Mūsawī al-Jazā'irī al-Shūstarī.

A descriptive account of the city of Shūstar, to which is appended a story of the life and travels of the author, 'Abd al-Laṭīf b. Abī Ṭālib b. Nūr al-Dīn b. Ni'mat-allāh al-Ḥusainī al-Mūsawī al-Shūstarī.

The author compiled this work in India, dedicated to, and named it after, the Sayyid Abū al-Qāsim b. Sayyid Razī-al-Dīn, entitled Mīr 'Ālam Khān (d. a.h. 1223, a.d. 1808), the Prime Minister of Ḥaidarābād (see fol. 1a).

The historical part of this work is based upon the work of Sayyid 'Abd-allāh b. Nūr al-Dīn, most probably an uncle of the anthor, as his name frequently occurs.

The work is divided into numerous fasts (chapters), which are not numbered, and their contents are much mixed:—

The ancient kings of Persia, the Pīshdādians, fol. 2b, and the Kayānians, fol. 6a; the boundaries of Shūstar, fol. 7a; the Sāsānians, fol. 7b; the climate of Shūstar, fol. 11a; its buildings, etc., fol. 14a; its mosques, fol. 20a; its cities, fol. 22a; its forests, fol. 26b; account of the Nūrī Sayyids, from the time of Sayyid Ni'mat-allāh, born A.H. 1050 (A.D. 1641), to the author's time, including an account of Mīr 'Ālam Khān at Haidarābād, fol. 29b; the life of the author, his birth in A.H. 1172 (A.D. 1758), and early pursuits, fol. 64a; his journeys to Ispahān, Shīrāz, Kirmanshāhān, Baghdād, and other places, including notices on numerous learned men with whom he came in contact in those places (the names of these are written in red on the margins), fol. 68b; his journey to Bengal in A.H. 1202 (A.D. 1787), fol. 90b; account of the continents, beginning with Europe; notes on British arts, sciences, manners, customs, cities, etc., fol. 95a; the early settlements and the rise of the British power in India, fol. 109a; account of America and some of the important European states, fol. 139a; account of India, its divisions, ancient religious services, etc., fol. 145a; description of Bengal and Calcutta, fol. 151b; account of Lord Cornwallis, Tafazzul Ḥusain Khān, Abū Ṭālib Khān, and others, fol. 155b; his journey to Murshidabad, and notes on some Hindū customs, fol. 161a; account of Pegū, fol. 166b; the author's illness at Calcutta; his journey to Lucknow in A.H. 1211 (A.D. 1796), fol. 172b; account of Rājmaḥall, Bhāgalpūr, Monghīr, 'Azīmābād, Benāres, Jaunpūr, Lucknow, Pabīpūr, and Shāhjāhānābād (Dehlī), etc., fol. 175a; his journey from Bengal to the Decean, fol. 195b; account of Jaggannāth, fol. 196a; Ḥaidarābād, fol. 200a; notes on the Moghul Emperors descendants of Bābar, and the invasion of Nādir-Shāh, fol. 202b.

Begins:

At the end of the book there are two bands of a margiyyah or poem in mourning for Imām Husain, the son of Khalīfah 'Alī. It is written in large Naskh, and has no connection with the main work.

فوائد صفويه wā'id.i Safawiyyah

Fawā'id-i Ṣafawiyyah.

Fols. 34; 5\frac{3}{4} in. by 3 in.; 12 lines, each 1\frac{1}{6} in. long; written in excellent small Nasta'līq, with headings in red; bound in plain leather; copied for the donor in A.H. 1223 (A.D. 1808).

This is only the fifth maqālah or chapter of the Fawā'id-i Ṣafawiyyah, a history of the Ṣafawī dynasty of Persia, which was originally written, according to the chronogram "קליל," а.н. 1211 (A.D. 1796), and dedicated to Abū al-Fatḥ Sulṭān Muḥammad Mirzā Khān Bahādur, the last of the Ṣafawī dynasty, who lived as an exile at Lucknow and received a pension from the East India Company. The author is Abū al-Ḥasan b. Ibrāhīm Qazwīnī, who had come over to his royal patron from Persia in а.н. 1205 (A.D. 1790).

The present maqālah, which was copied for Colonel Baillie from the original copy by the author himself, contains (فاجاريه قزلباشيه a brief account of the Qajārs, the present rulers of Persia, and the events go down to the end of А.Н. 1219 (AD. 1801–4805).

Zuhūriyya-i Safawīyyah.

Fols. 11; 8½ in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each 2¾ in. long; written in clear Nasta līq, with headings in red, in the same handwriting as the Mi rāj al-Tauḥīd; bound in plain leather; dated A.H. 1222 (A.D. 1807).

A treatise on the rise and rule of the Wahābīs in Najaf Ashraf, containing a few prophecies connected with their expulsion from that region and the restoration of the holy places to the descendants of the martyrs. The author probably is Abū al-Fath Sultān Muḥammad Ṣafawī (see No. 86). At the end there is given a copy of a letter complaining that the practice of grave-worship among the people was not in accordance with the laws of Islām.

The letter, which is addressed to Sulṭān Fatḥ 'Alī Shāh Qājār of Persia, was sent by Shaikh 'Abd al-'Azīz, the chief of the Wahābīs.

Ahwāl-i Aulād-u Jā'idād-i Sayyid Ahmad Sāndwī.

Fols. 159; 10 in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 14 lines, each 4 in. long; written in ordinary Nasta'līq; bound in gilt-stamped leather; dated A.H. 1230 (A.D. 1814).

This work was compiled by 'Alī Naqī Khān, under instructions from the Governor-General of India, to clear up certain complications which had arisen in regard to the disposal of the estate in Oudh in the possession of the descendants of Sayyid Ahmad Sāndwī. It is divided into two parts:

I. The preface, followed by a history of the descendants of Sayyid Aḥmad Sāndwī, in twelve maqālahs (chapters) and a khātimah (conclusion).

II. Contains besides other matter the copy of a farmān of the Emperor Shāhjahān, which was issued in the twenty-fifth year of his reign, A.H. 1062 (A.D. 1652).

At the beginning there is given a family tree, and a large coloured map of Fath Ganj at the end.

The preface begins:

مسير طالبي

Masīr-i Tālibī.

Fols. 298; 8\frac{3}{2} in. by 5\frac{3}{4} in.; 15 lines, each 3\frac{1}{4} in. long; coloured lines round the pages; written in clear Nasta'līq; headings in red; bound in plain leather; according to a note on the flyleaf the book was presented, probably to the donor's library, in A.H. 1227 (A.D. 1812), by Mirzā Ja'far.

An account of the travels in Europe, A.H. 1213-1218 (A.D. 1798-1803), of Mirzā Abū Tālib Khān b. Hājī Muḥammad Beg Khān Hindī Ispahānī (d. A.H. 1220 or 1221, A.D. 1805-1806) written by himself. The author, who was a Turk by descent, was born and brought up at Lucknow. Mukhtār al-Daulah, the Prime Minister of Nawwāb Āṣif al-Daulah, had appointed him 'Amal-dar of Etawah and several other districts, but after the death of his patron he was superseded in his military command and pensioned. Later he succeeded, under the employment of Mr. Middleton, British resident at Lucknow, in suppressing the rebellion raised by Rāja Balbhaddar-Singh. He was well known in London during his visit there. Abū Ṭālib also wrote several other works, e.g., Notices on ancient and modern Persian poets, called خلاصة الانكار (the Khulāṣat al-Afkār), and a poem in praise of London, styled مشنوى سرور افزا (the Masnawī-i Surūr Afzā'), described elsewhere; his poems have been edited with an English translation by G. Swinton, London, A.D. 1807.

The present work was written soon after the author's return to Calcutta, and completed, according to a chronogram, in A.H. 1219 (A.D. 1804).

Begins:

Fols. 181; 11 in. by 7 in.; written in Shikastah-āmīz-Nasta'līq; gold-lined round the columns; bound in gilt-stamped leather; not dated.

The author, Mīr 'Izzat-allāh (died at Kabul, A.H. 1241, A.D. 1825), states that under instructions from William Moorcroft he started from Shāhjahānābād (Dehlī) on the 7th of Rajab, A.H. 1227 (20th April, A.D. 1812), and travelled through Kashmīr, Tibet, Tāshqand, Kāshghar, Bhājan, Qoqan, Samarqand, Peshāwar, and returned to Atak in Zulḥijjah, A.H. 1228 (16th December, A.D. 1813). He was assisted in compiling an account of his travels by his companion, Ḥāfiz Fāzil Khān, whom he had sent from Atak to Bukhārā. 'Izzat-allāh again accompanied (A.D. 1819–1824) Mr. William Moorcroft to Central Asia.

The work contains a record of the distances between the places visited, with brief references to the towns, country, inhabitants, climate, etc. An index is given at the beginning.

Tuhfat al-Mulūk.

Fols. 14; 12½ in. by 7½ in.; eight lines, each 3¾ in. long; richly illuminated throughout; written in excellent Nasta'līq on gold-sprinkled paper; not dated, probably copied in the early part of the thirteenth century of the Hijrah.

This MS. was transcribed for Colonel John Baillie by the royal caligrapher Muḥammad Sa'd al-Dīn of Lucknow. The work is a short treatise intended for the instruction of princes and rulers, and consists of forty chapters, each containing four different pieces of advice. The author, whose name in this instance is not mentioned, was 'Abd-allāh Muḥammad al-Anṣārī of Herāt (d. a.h. 481, a.d. 1088). From the preface it would appear that the work is a compilation of the wise sayings of old philosophers and statesmen. At the end there is a beautiful qiṭ'ah or quatrain, transcribed by the same hand, in praise of Colonel John Baillie, and complimenting him upon the three titles, "Arslān Jang, 'Imād al-Daulah, and Afẓal al-Mulk," received by him, a.h. 1223 (a.d. 1804), from the Emperor Akbar II.

A famous treatise on ethics, by Naṣīr al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Muḥammad b. al-Ḥasan al-Ṭūsī, known as Naṣīr-i Ṭūsī, who was born, A.H. 597 (A.D. 1201) and died, A.H. 672 (A.D. 1274). He also wrote several other works on philosophy, and was considered one of the greatest astronomers of his time (see No. 27).

It is stated in the chapter following the preface (fol. 3), that the work was compiled at the desire of King Nāṣir al-Dīn 'Abd al-Raḥīm b. Abī Manṣūr, hence called after his name. It was based on a valuable work in Arabic, the Kitāb Ṭahārat al-Nafs of Abū 'Alī Aḥmad b. Muḥammad Ya'qūb b. Miskawaih (d. A.H. 421, A.D. 1030).

A chapter (fol. 4) treats of the science of philosophy, and the index to the work may be found on fols. 7 and 8, according to which the work is divided into 3 magālahs (sections) and 30 fasls (subsections).

Kulliyyāt-i Khāqānī.

Fols. 447; 9½ in. by 5½ in.; 17 lines in gold-ruled double columns, each 2½ in. long; illuminated frontispieces; written in fair Nasta'līq; bound in plain black leather which is lined in yellow tint round the margins; bears a seal of Al-Muḥammad-allāh; and an inscription of the owner, who received it through Ḥuzūr-allāh in A.H.1172(A.D.1758).

The poetical compositions of the celebrated Imām Afzal al-Dīn Badil Ibrāhīm b. 'Alī Najjār '' Khāqānī'' of Shīrwān, who originally wrote poetry under the name of Haqā'iqī, but subsequently, at the suggestion of his spiritual guide Abū al-'Alā al-Ganjawī, changed it to Khāqānī, out of respect to Khāqān-i Kabīr Minūchihr and his son Akhtasān, the two successive Sulṭāns of Shīrwān, under whom the poet flourished. According to Daulat-Shāh, the Haft Iqlīm, the Ātashkadah, and the Ta'rīkh-i Guzīdah, Khāqānī died at Tabrīz in A.H. 582 (A.D. 1186) and is buried at Surkhāb, close to the tombs of Zahīr al-Dīn Faryābī and Shāh Ghafūr Nīshāpūrī. In the Mukhbir al-Wāsilīn and the Ḥabīb al-Siyar, however, he lived longer and died in A.H. 595 (A.D. 1199). He was called "Badil" by his father on account of his being a great mystic and a substitute for Ḥakīm Sanā'ī, who had died in A.H. 525 (A.D. 1131).

Khāqānī was the author of the Tuḥfat al-'Irāqain, a poetical description of 'Irāq-i 'Arab and 'Irāq-i 'Ajam, which is described elsewhere.

The contents of the present copy, which are miscellaneous, incomplete, and somewhat wanting in order, may be classified as follows:—

I. The Na't (Praise) begins on fol. 1b:

ای پنج نوبه کوفته در دار ملک لا لا در چهار بالش وحدت کشد ترا

II. The named qaṣādahs, on fol. 14a, beginning:

زد نفس سر مهرصبح ملمع نقاب خيمهٔ روحانيان گشت معنبر طناب

III. The qaṣīdahs in praise of Sultāns, etc., fol. 56a:

IV. The  $muqatta^i \bar{a}t$ , poems on unitarianism, the Praise, complaints, satires, pleasantries, etc., fol. 303b:

V. The marāṣī, or mourning poems, on fol. 343a, beginning:

VI. The majāziyāt or metaphoric ghazals, and haqīqāt or spiritual ghazals, on fol. 352a, beginning:

VII. The rubā'iyyāt or quatrains, on fol. 429a, beginning:

قصائد خاقاني

Qasā'id-i Khāgānī.

Fols. 170; 10¼ in. by 6¾ in.; 17 lines in double columns, each about 3¾ in. long; written in Nasta dīq, with numerous glosses, both marginal and interlinear; not dated; bears inscriptions in Hindī at the end; the name of the Emperor Muḥammad-Shāh is written on fol. 25; much injured and pasted with patches all through; bound in stamped leather.

A collection of eighty-eight  $qas\bar{\imath}dahs$  by the same Khāqānī (see above). The Qasīdah I, on fol. 1b, begins:

اسكندر نامهٔ برّى

Iskandar-nāma-i Barrī.

Fols. 226; 9\frac{3}{4} in. by 6\frac{1}{4} in.; 15 lines in two central columns, each 2\frac{1}{4} in. long; written in fair Nasta līq; in a few parts the rubrics are absent; bound in plain leather; probably copied in the twelfth century A.H.; copyist, Mahdī.

A complete MS., in good preservation, of the first part of one of the most celebrated romances of the East. It contains an account of the exploits of Alexander the Great as a conqueror, and was written in admirable verse by the famous Shaikh Jamāl al-Dīn Abū Muḥammad Ilyās b. Mu'ayyad Nizām al-Dīn, poetically named "Nizāmī," of Ganjah (now called Elisabetpol), who was born at Qum, A.H. 535 (A.D. 1140), and probably died A.H. 599 (A.D. 1203), though the dates of his death are variously described, A.H. 576-607 (A.D. 1180-1210). Iskandarnāmah, probably composed, A.H. 597-598 (A.D. 1200-1202), was the last work of the poet, and this, the first part, he dedicated to the nephew and successor in Tabrīz of Atābak Qizil Arslān, Atābak Nuṣrat al-Dīn Abū Bakr b. Jahān Pahlawān Muḥammad, who died after reigning over 20 years, A.H. 607 (A.D. 1210).

Begins:

102. مخخزن الاسرار Makhzan al-Asrār.

Fols. 78;  $9\frac{\pi}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{\pi}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, in two central columns, each  $2\frac{\pi}{4}$  in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the above work, by Mahdī.

A mystic poem by the same Nizāmī (see above) on the Ṣūfīs. It is divided into twenty maqālahs (chapters), and illustrated by means of short instructive anecdotes. Various MSS. of this poem bear different dates of the composition, ranging between A.H. 552 and 582 (A.D. 1157–1186), but A.H. 572 or 573 (A.D. 1176–1178) is the probable one. It was dedicated to Bahrām-Shāh b. Dā'ūd, Sulṭān of Armenia.

Begins:

Cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 565a; Bodl. Cat., 585, i; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 972, i; etc. The poem has been edited by Nathaniel Bland, London, A.D. 1844 (with an account of Nizāmī from Daulat-Shāh's and Lutf 'Alī Beg's biographies prefixed); lithographed at Lucknow, A.H. 1286, 1289 (A.D. 1869, 1872), and with a commentary, A.H. 1299 (A.D. 1881); Cawnpore, A.H. 1286 (A.D. 1869). Shāmī (d. A.H. 1009 or 1010, A.D. 1600–1602) wrote a commentary upon it in Turkish.

خسرو وشيرين

Khusrau-u Shīrīn.

Fols. 225; 9\frac{3}{4} in. by 6\frac{1}{4} in.; 15 lines in two central columns, each 2\frac{1}{4} in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the above work, by Mahdī.

A celebrated poem on the loves of Khusrau and Sbīrīn, by the same Nizāmī (see above). It contains eulogies on Sulṭān Sa'īd Tughrul b. Arslān, who ascended the throne in A.H. 573 (A.D. 1177-1178), Atābak Abū Ja'far Muḥammad, and his brother and successor Qizil Arslān (A.H. 582-587, A.D. 1186-1191).

Begins:

For description of its contents see Hammer's "Schirin, ein perisches romantisches Gedicht nach morgenläandischen Quellen," Leipzig, A.D. 1809. It has been lithographed at Lahore, A.H. 1288 (A.D. 1871):

كىلىيات سعدى

Kulliyyāt-i Sa'dī.

Fols. 497; 11½ in. by 7½ in.; 10 lines in the centre of page, each 2½ in. long, with 24 lines written on the margins, each 1½ in. long; written on gold-sprinkled paper in elegant Nasta'līq; the first four pages are richly illuminated in gold and blue colour; all the headings are ornamental, and each part possesses an illuminated frontispiece; gold lined round the pages, with three triangular ornaments in each page; bound in highly-gilt leather; contains 17 miniatures, mostly full-page, on fols. 35b, 103b, 123b, 142a, 178b, 196a, 216b, 224b, 235b, 244a, 252b, 300b, 316b, 339b, 385a, 328a, and 542a; bears an 'arṣ-dīdah; transcribed, A.H. 964 (A.D. 1556), by 'Īnāyat-allāh Shīrāzī.

A magnificent copy of the complete collected works of pre-eminently the most popular of Persian anthors, Sa'dī, whose full appellation was Shaikh Musharraf al-Dīn (according to the oldest copy extant and several others transcribed directly from the author's autograph, and in the preface to the present copy, fol. 2b, l. 8, the author is called by the honorific title of

b. Muṣliḥ al-Dīn Shīrāzī. He used "Sa'dī" as poetical name out of respect for his father's patron, Atābak Sa'd b. Zingī of Fārs (d. A.H. 623, A.D. 1226). Sa'dī received his early education as a man both of letters and the sword at Baghdād, and in religious tendencies he had adopted the opinions of the venerated Shaikh 'Abd al-Qādir Jilānī. Sa'dī was also one of the greatest travellers of his time. He died at the advanced age of 110 years, A.H. 690 (A.D. 1291), or, according to Daulat-Shāh, Jāmī, and others, a year later.

Sa'dī's works were collected and arranged by 'Alī b. Aḥmad b. Abū Naṣr b. Bīsutūn (fol. 4a, 1. 9), who, as is stated, having eight years previously arranged the ghazals, compiled an index to the same, A.H. 734 (A.D. 1333).

Contents.

I. The collector's preface, fol. 3b, begins:

(The preface has been translated into English by J. H. Harington in the introduction to his Calcutta edition of the Kulliyyāt, described in the Supplement. Also cf. Dr. W. Bacher, Sa'di-Studien, p. 82; and Rosen, Persian MSS., p. 175.)

II. رسالهٔ تخستین در تقریر دیباچه Fol. 7a. This preface is by Sa'dī, and begins:

سپاس بیغایت وستایش بی نهایت آفرید کاری را _ النج (see Bacher, loc. cit.).

Begins with رسالهٔ ثانی در مجلس پنجگانه Begins with

(1) المجلس الأوّل Fol. 15a:

الحمدلله الذي خلق الوجود من العدم فبدت على صفحاته انوار الرار القدم

(2) المجلس الثاني Fol. 20b. The heading to this part was never ornamented, only a blank is left. Begins:

(3) المجلس الثالث Fol. 28a. Begins:

قال رسول الله صلى الله عليه وآله وسلم من اصبح . . . . چنين مى فرمايد كه هركسى كه بامداد ـ الخ

(4) المجلس الرابع Fol. 32a. Begins :

The third and the fourth Majlis have been edited with translation and commentary by M. Guedemann, Breslau, A.D. 1858.

(5) المجلس النحامس (5) Fol. 386. Begins: بسم الله . . . . ملكا مارا ازهمه معاصى نگاه دار - الخ

The fifth Majlis has been rendered into English by James Ross, in the Bombay Translations, i, p. 146 sq.

IV. رسالهٔ سوم در سوال صاحب دیوان Fol. 51a. Begins: خواجه صاحب صاحب قران زمان ینکو سیرت وصورت جهان – المخ

This risālah contains the five questions which were put by Shams al-Dīn Juwainī to Sa'dī, with the answers of the latter. This part has been translated into English by Harington in the introduction, pp. 14-17, and into German by Graf, Lustgarten, ii, pp. 136-142.

۷. رسالهٔ چهارم در عقل وعشق Fol. 55a. Begins:
 سالک راه خدا پادشه ملک سخن ای زالطاف تو آفاق پراز دریتیم

The above was written in answer to a question of Maulānā Sa'd al-Dīn on reason and love.

VI. رسالهٔ پنجم در نصیحت الملوک Fol. 596. Begins: العمدلله تعالی وهو اولی من حمده والصلوة علی رسول الله ـ الخ

This was written at the request of some friend. Cf. Bacher, loc. cit., pp. 93-102. Edited by Latouche (Zenker, ii, 484) and by Barb (Vienna, A.D. 1856).

VII. رسائل ثلاثه Three short pieces.

(1) داستان سلطان اباقا خان (1) Fol. 19a. Begins شیخ رحمته الله علیه فرمود که در وقت مراجعت از کعبه چون بدار الملک تبریز رسیدم – المخ

This interview of Sa'dī with Sulṭān Abāqā Khān was described by an anonymous writer after learning the details from the poet. It has been translated into English by Harington in the introduction, pp. 17-19, and into German by Graf, Lustgarten, ii, pp. 142-146.

(2) رسالهٔ دوم در نصیحت انکیانو (2) Fol. 81. Begins معلوم شد که خسر وِ عادل انکیانو دام دولت قابلِ تربیت است ـ النخ

This tract contains advice given by the poet to Ankiyānū, the Moghul governor of Fārs (A.H. 667-670, A.D. 1268-1272).

رسالهٔ ثالث در حكايت ملك مرحوم شمس الدين تازى كوى (3) Fol. 88a. Begins:

The above illustrates an anecdote connected with Malik Shams al-Dīn, who was Chief Revenue Collector of Fārs since A.H. 676 (A.D. 1277). It was drawn up by an anonymous writer. For English and German versions see Harington, pp. 19-21, and Graf, ii, pp. 146-148.

VIII. گلستان Fol. 896. Begins:

مسّت خدای راعز وجل که طاعتش موجب قربت است ـ النح

All people able to read Persian must have read the Gulistān. It is the most popular book with people of all ages, and even in ordinary conversation it is the habit with them to quote phrases from it. The Gulistān was completed by the author, A.H. 656 (A.D. 1258).

The Gulistān is divided into a dībāchah (preface), fol. 87b (which contains a heading illuminated with gold on fol. 96b, entitled ذكر الدين ابو نصر أنخر الدين ابو نصر أنجر الدين ابو نصر fihrist or index on fol. 99b).

در اخلاق در ویشان (2) fol. 100a, (2 در اخلاق در ویشان (1) fol. 140b, (3) در فضیات سخن (6 fol. 140b, (3) در فضیات سخن (6 fol. 193b, (5) در فضیات (6 fol. 193b, (5) در عشق وجوانی (6 fol. 217b, (7 در آداب صحبت (6 fol. 224a, (8) در آداب شخبت (8 fol. 224a, (8) در آداب شخبت (6 fol. 244b (this part is dated A.H. 976, A.D. 1568).

The Gulistān has been translated into French by A. du Ryer (A.D. 1634), by D'Alégre (A.D. 1704), by Gaudin (A.D. 1789), by Semelet (Paris, A.D. 1828), and by C. Defrémery (Paris, A.D. 1858); into Latin, by Gentius (A.D. 1651), reprinted four years later; into German, by Adam Olearius (Schlesswig, A.D. 1654, 1660, etc.), by B. Dorn (Hamburg, A.D. 1827), by Ph. Wolff (Stuttgart, A.D. 1841), and by K. H. Graf (A.D. 1846); into English, by Francis Gladwin, containing text, two vols. (Calcutta, A.H. 1221, A.D. 1806), reprinted, London, A.D. 1809 and 1833; by Dumoulin (A.D. 1807), by James Ross (London, A.D. 1823 and 1890), by E. B. Eastwick (Hertford,

A.D. 1852 and 1880), by J. T. Platts (London, A.D. 1873), another translation privately printed at Benāres by the Kāma Shāstra Society, A.H. 1306 (A.D. 1888), selected portions have been published in Robertson's "Persian Poetry for English Readers," A.D. 1883; into Urdū, by Mīr Shīr 'Alī Afsūs, published under the supervision of Dr. John Gilchrist and entitled "The Rose Garden of Hindoostan," Calcutta, A.H. 1217 (A.D. 1802), and by Nizām al-Dīn, Poona, A.H. 1272 (A.D. 1855); into Arabic, Būlāq, A.H. 1263 (A.D. 1846); into Russian, by S. Nasarianz, Moscow, A.D. 1857; into Turkish, Persian text, with Sūdī's translation and notes, Constantinople, A.H. 1286 (A.D. 1869) and A.H. 1293 (A.D. 1876), etc.; into Polish, by Otwinowski, edited by Janicki, Warsaw, A.D. 1879; into Hindī, by Mihr-Chand-Dās, Dehlī, A.H. 1307 (A.D. 1889); etc.

The text editions are too numerous to be all noted (a few are described in the Supplement), the most correct and best ones being: Calcutta, A.H. 1268 (A.D. 1851), by Dr. A. Sprenger; Hertford, A.D. 1850, by Eastwick (with glossary), and 1863, by Johuson (with notes); and London, A.D. 1874, by John T. Platts. Cf. Zenker, i, p. 520 sq.; and ii, p. 467 sq.

IX. بوستان Fol. 3b (written on the margins). Begins:

The Būstān was completed by Sa'dī in A.H. 655 (A.D. 1257). It is divided after the Praise of the Almighty, his Prophet, and 'Alī, a tribute to the virtues of the last Atābak Sa'd b. Zingī and eulogy of Atābak Muḥammad (b. Abū Bakr b. Sa'd b. Zingī), into ten bābs:—

(1) در انصاف ورعیت پروری وجهان داری وعدل گستری (1) در انصاف ورعیت پروری وجهان داری وعدل گستری (2) درعشق وطریقت اولیا وصحبت (3) fol. 54b, (3) د احسان (2) در رضا (5) fol. 76a, (4) در توا ضح (6) fol. 92b, (5) با ایشان fol. 131b, (6) در قناعت (6) fol. 155a, (6) در شکر برعافیت (8) fol. 151a, (9) در شکر برعافیت (8) fol. 157a.

The Būstān has been translated into German, by K. H. Graf, Jena, A.D. 1850; by Schlechta-Wssehrd, Vienna, A.D. 1852; and by Fr. Rückert, Leipzig, A.D. 1882. The French version is by Barbier de Meynard, Paris, A.D. 1880. The English translations are by H. Wilberforce Clarke, London, A.D. 1879, and by G. S. Davie styled "The Garden of Fragrance," London, A.D. 1882. English, under the name of "Flowers from the Bustan," were published at Calcutta, A.H. 1295 (A.D. 1877), and are also found in S. Robertson's "Persian Poetry for English Readers," A.D. 1883. It has also been translated into Turkish in two vols., Constantinople, A.H. 1288 (A.D. 1871). The text editions, both printed and lithographed, are numerous; only a few earlier ones may be noted here: Calcutta, A.H. 1225 and 1244 (A.D. 1810 and 1828); Hughli, а.н. 1264 (а р. 1847); Cawnpore, а.н. 1248, 1273 (а.р. 1832, 1856); the latter was reprinted with notes, A.H. 1297 (A.D. 1879), A.H. 1285 (A.D. 1868), etc.; Lucknow, A.H. 1262 (A.D. 1845), 1263 (1846), 1265 (1848), 1279 (1862), 1286 (1869), etc.; Lahore, A.H. 1280 and 1297 (A.D. 1863 and 1879), etc.; Tabrīz, A.H. 1285 (A.D. 1868); Dehlī, A.H. 1300 (A.D. 1882). It has also been printed, Vienna, A.D. 1850, by K. H. Graf, with Persian commentary, the best edition; London, A.D. 1891, photographed from a MS. (see Supplement).

شرح قصیده برده Sharh-i Qasīda-i Burdah.

Probably unique MS

Fols. 113;  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in ordinary Naskh; bound in stamped leather; probably copied in the tenth century A.H.

A commentary upon the Persian version of the Qaṣīda-i Burdah of Al-Būṣīrī (see No. 45) by Fazl-allāh b. Rūzbahān, better known as Khwājah Maulānā Ispahānī. It was compiled in A.H. 921 (A.D. 1515). The last folio is missing, but the commentary otherwise is complete.

The introduction (fols. 1-4) begins:

المحمدللة رب العالمين والصلوة والسلام الاتمان الاكمان على سيد نا محمد وآله واصحابه اجمعين ـ قال الفقير الى لطف الله ـ النخ

106.

ديوان حافظ Dīwān-i Hāfig.

Fols. 248;  $7\frac{3}{4}$  in. by 4 in.; 12 lines in double columns, each  $2\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; richly illuminated throughout; contains twelve highly finished miniatures in Indian style, on fols. 6, 13, 21, 48, 91, 109, 129, 212, 224, 225, 240, and 241; written in excellent Nasta līq, on glazed paper; bound in plain leather; probably copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

The  $D\bar{\imath}w\bar{a}n$  or collected poetical works of Khwājah Shams al-Dīn Muḥammad, poetically styled "Ḥāfiẓ" of Shīrāz, who has always been regarded as the most elegant of Persian lyric poets and a Ṣūfī of the highest order. He died at Shīrāz, A.H. 791 (A.D. 1389). His tombstone at Muṣallā, according to best authorities, bears the above date of his death, and it is recorded also in this copy, fol. 5a, l. 8. Ḥāfiẓ lived in the time of the Muẓaffarīs, and was still alive when Tīmūr (Tamerlane) defeated Shāh - Manṣūr, the last Sulṭān of that dynasty.

The present excellent MS. begins with the preface of Muḥammad Gulaudām, the friend of the poet, and the collector, after his death, of his odes:

The first qaṣīdah, containing the praise of Shāh-Shujā', Sulṭān of the Muzaffarīs (d. A.H. 786, A.D. 1384), begins on fol. 6b:

The second qaṣādah, on the excellency of the premier, Muḥammad b. 'Alī, begins, fol. 8a:

The third, on the virtues of Shaikh Abū al-Isḥāq, fol. 10a:

The fourth, in which the author solicits aid on his behalf, fol. 11b:

جوز اسمر نهاد حمایل برابرم یعنی غلام شاهم وسوگند می خورم The ghazals, arranged in alphabetical order, begin, fol. 15b:

كه عشق آسان نمودا ول ولى افتاد مشكلها

The  $muqatta'\bar{a}t$ , fol. 225b:

دل منه بردنیل او اسباب او زانکه از وی کس و فادری ندید

One tarjī'band (styled ماقي نامه), fol. 232b:

ساقی اگرت هواست بامی جز باده میار پیش ماشی

The first masnawī, fol. 234a:

سرِ فتنه دارد دگرروزگار من ومستی و فتنهٔ چشم یار

The second, fol. 236b:

بياساقى از من بروپيشِ شاه بگواين سخن كاى شير جم كلاه The third, fol. 239a:

الا ای آهوی وحشی کیجائی مرا با تست بسیار آشنائی

The  $rub\bar{a}'iyy\bar{a}t$ , fol. 241b:

For Ḥāfiz and his works, cf. S. de Sacy, Notices et Extraits, iv, p. 238 sq., which is a translation of Daulat-Shāh's account of Ḥāfiz, but in this the death of the poet is placed three years later (this work has further been edited in Wilken's Chrestomathia Persica, Leipzig, 1805, and in Vullers, Vitæ Poetarum Persicorum); Ouseley's Biographical Notices, p. 23 sq.; Hammer's Redekünste, p. 261; M. The principal earlier editions have been published at Calcutta, A.H. 1206 (A.D. 1791), by Abū Ṭālib Khān, and again, A.H. 1242 (A.D. 1826); Bombay, A.H. 1228, and 1277 (A.D. 1812–1813, and 1860); Cawnpore, A.H. 1247 (A.D. 1831); Būlāq, A.H. 1250, 1256, and 1281 (A.D. 1834, 1840, and 1864); Constantinople, A.H. 1257 (A.D. 1841); Leipzig, A.D. 1854–1856 (by Brockhaus, with the Turkish commentary to the first eighty odes by Sūdī); Vienna, A.D. 1856–1864 (by Rosenweig-Shawannau, containing text and metrical German translation in three vols.); Tabrīz, A.H. 1257 (A.D. 1841); Ţeherān, A.H. 1258 (A.D. 1842); Maṣhhad, A.H. 1262 (A.D. 1845); Dehlī, A.H. 1269 (A.D. 1852); Calcutta, A.H. 1275 (A.D. 1858), with the commentary by Fath 'Alī; etc. Numerous editions have followed in most of the above places.

A complete German translation in prose is by J. von Hammer, Tübingen, A.D. 1812, also another in verse by Rosenweig, loc. cit. The English translation with notes and commentary is by H. Wilberforce Clark, two vols., London, A.D. 1891. Selected pieces have been translated into Latin (only the first ode) by Meninski, Vienna, A.D. 1680, and the first sixteen odes by Revisky, in Specimina Poeseos Persicæ, Vienna, A.D. 1771; into German, by Wahl, in Neue Arabische Anthologie, p. 46 sq., Leipzig, A.D. 1791; Nesselmann, Berlin, A.D. 1865; Bodenstedt, ib., A.D. 1877; into English, by J. Richardson, London, A.D. 1774; J. Nott, A.D. 1787; W. Ouseley, in Persian Miscellanies, London, A.D. 1795; J. H. Hindley, A.D. 1800; S. Robinson, A.D. 1875; H. Bicknell, A.D. 1875; W. H. ### .... كىتيات عرفى

Kulliyyāt-i 'Urfī.

Fols. 348;  $10\frac{5}{5}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines in double columns, each  $4\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; clear Nasta'līq; illuminated 'unwāns and frontispieces from some more ancient MS. have been pasted on at the commencement of the three parts into which the book is divided; plain leather binding; the first part is dated A.H. 1065 (A.D. 1655), but the owner's inscription on the second part is dated A.H. 1063 (A.D. 1652).

The collected works of the celebrated poet Sayyid Muḥammad Jamāl al-Dīn "'Urfī" Shīrāzī, who came to India, A.H. 994 (A.D. 1586), first proceeded to the Deccan, where he soon entered into the service of Ḥakīm Masīḥ al-Dīn Abū al-Fatḥ Jīlānī, but subsequently, on the death of his patron, A.H. 997 (A.D. 1589), he went to seek his fortune at Agra. Here he soon rose in the favour of the Khān-i Khānān, Mirzā 'Abd al-Raḥīm (the son of Bairam Khān, who had been Akbar's regent), who had translated from Turki into Persian the Memoirs of Bābar (see No. 76), and died at the age of 72, A.H. 1036 (A.D. 1627). 'Urfī was brought into the notice of Akbar through the Khān-i Khānān at Fatḥpūr-Sīkrī. For some time he was an object of envy with a few of the Court poets. He died at an early age at Lahore, A.H. 999 (A.D. 1591), and the following chronogram of his death is quoted by Badā'ūnī in his history: "نعرف مرك شدى"

The MS. is divided into seven parts.

I. Ghazals, arranged alphabetically, beginning:

المخفه مرهم نگيرد خاطر افكار ما سايهٔ گل بر نتابد گوشهٔ دستار ما II. On fol. 142b, rubā<sup>1</sup>7s, beginning:

یارب نفسی ده که ثنا پر دازم وین نغمه بآهنگ سزا پر دازم

III. On fol. 161b, the qaṣīdahs, beginning:

ای متاع درد در بازار جان انداخته

عافیت را سود در جیب زیان انداخته

IV. On fol. 254b, the magnawī, styled Farhād-wa Shīrīn, begins:

خداوندا دلم بی نور تنگست دل من سنگ وکوه طور سنگست

V. On fol. 270a, muqatta'āt, beginning:

طمع می از مستی بی بهره بود باده بخمیازه کشی شهره بود

VI. On fol. 280a, the maṣṇawī, named "Majma al-Abkār," begins:

(In Sprenger, p. 529, this magnawī is wrongly styled بخفزن الاسرار, which is the title of Nizāmi's poem, see No. 102.)

VII. On fol. 322b, the  $makt\bar{u}b$ , which was composed during illness, begins: امتان حرمان گفت وشنو حاضر از مولد \_ المخ

Cf. for 'Urfī and his works, Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, pp. 667, 788, and 845; Bodl. Cat., 1051-1054 and 1991; Ethé (I.O. # شرح قصائد عرفى

Sharh-i Qaşa'id-i 'Urfī.

Fols. 109; 8½ in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each 2½ in. long; written in clear Nasta līq; bound in plain leather; probably copied in the twelfth century of the Hijrah.

An anonymous commentary upon the difficult lines in the qasai'd of 'Urfī (see above).

The qaṣīdah begins:

ای متاع درد در بازار جان انداخته

گوهر هر سود در جیب زیان انداخته

The commentary begins:

Other commentaries upon the Qaṣīdahs are: by Mirzā Jān (completed in A H. 1073, A.D. 1662–1663, and styled النكات by "Munīr" (probably Mullā Abū al-Barakāt "Munīr" Lāhūrī, d. A.H. 1054, A.D. 1644, the author of a منشأت by Quṭb al-Dīn (A.H. 1101, A.D. 1689–1690); and by Rājū'ulwī (completed A.H. 1111, A.D. 1699–1700, and styled نگار نامهٔ فیضی). For description of the above see Rieu, ii, p. 668b; Bodl. Cat., 1054; Sprenger, pp. 529–530. In Flügel, i, pp. 594, 595, there are notices of five Turkī commentaries on selected Qaṣīdahs and Muqaṭṭa'āt. The Qaṣīdahs have been printed at Calcutta with Aḥmad b. 'Abd al-Raḥīm's commentary (described also in Sprenger, p. 530). The Lucknow edition of the Qaṣīdahs with a few Muqaṭṭa'āt and Tarjī'bands, bears no date, but a Dīwān with comments upon the Qaṣīdahs was published at the same place in A.H. 1297 (A.D. 1880).

Masnawī-i Ni'mat Khān-i 'Alī.

Fols. 109; 9½ in. by 5 in.; 15 lines in two central columns, each 14 in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the Waqāi' Ḥaidarābād; bound in plain leather; not dated.

A collection of short stories of a mystical and didactic character, written in verse in the form of a magnawī, by the same Ni'mat Khān-i 'Ālī (see No. 82), beginning:

حمد وشكر اوراكه هرچه هست از وست

دام هستی حلقه دار از های هوست

Cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, pp. 703a and 796b (xii); Bodl. Cat., 1157 (4) and 1161; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1659 (6); Sprenger (Oude Cat.), p. 329 (top); etc.

110.

دروان وحشت Diwan i Wahshat.

Fols. 73; 9 in. by  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 17 lines in two central columns, each 1½ in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz, on fine brown paper; not dated.

The collected qhazals of Shaikh 'Abd al-Wāḥid Thānīsarī, who claimed his descent from the celebrated Imām Ghazālī. He flourished during the reign of 'Alamgir, and poetically styled himself "Wahshat."

The ghazals, which are in alphabetical order, begin:

الهي شورآشوب قيامت كن فغانمرا زبان رستخيز روز محشرده بيانمار Cf. Beale, Orient. Biogr. Dict., p. 413b; etc.

111.

دروان ثاست

Dīwān-i Sābit.

Fols. 148;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 12 lines in two central columns, each 13 in. long; written in clear small Nasta'līq, on thin paper; bound in plain leather; probably copied in the twelfth century A.H.

The collected poems of Sayyid Muhammad Afzal al-Dīn, poetically styled, "Sābit," of Dehlī, who was a man of great learning, and died at the city of his birth, A.H. 1151 (A.D. 1738). His uncle, Mīr 'Īsā, better known as Himmat Khān, was for some time Mīr Bakhshī under the Emperor 'Ālamgīr. According to the copy described by Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.). ii, p. 709, these poems were collected after the poet's death by his pupil Banda-i 'Alī.

تحفة بيلويه

Tuḥfa-i Bailawiyyah.

Fols. 242;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 14 lines in double rows, each  $1\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in Nasta'līq; bound in gilt-stamped leather.

A selection from the poets, compiled by Tārī-Chand, at the request of, and named after, Colonel John Baillie. The author states in the introduction that this work is based on that of Sultan Muhammad Shāh Ṣafawī (see No. 86), and, referring to his patron, he adds that Colonel Baillie composed poems under the nom de plume "John."

The present copy, which most probably is the original, is divided into 90 samrahs or sections. The samrahs, which are arranged according to subjects, contain short selections from the poets upon the same subjects.

Begins:

Sprenger, in his Oude Catalogue, p. 164, has described a copy of this MS. made in A.H. 1224 (A.D. 1810).

113.

اشعار سختلف

Ash'ār-i Mukhtalif.

Fols. 28;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{4}$  in.; written in Nasta'līq on one side only; thin white paper; red cloth covers; not dated.

Contains short selections from miscellaneous poems. A few of the ghazals, etc., are in Urdū. The most favoured poet seems to be Walī (see his Dīwān described elsewhere), who was the first to attempt to write a Dīwān in the Urdū language. The name of the person who selected the fragments is not given.

Begins with a rīkhtah of Walī:

Dagā'iq al-Inshā'.

Fols. 157; 10 in. by  $7\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in Nasta  $4\overline{1q} - \underline{sh}$  ikastah  $-\overline{am}\overline{z}$ , with headings in red; bound in plain leather; dated, A.H. 1204 (A.D. 1789).

This important work, which deals with the subtilties of style in the composition of both prose and poetry, was compiled, A.H. 1145 (A.D. 1732–1733), by Ranjhūr-Dās (also called Ranchūr-Dās), son of Ranjīt-Rāi, a Kāyath of Jaunpūr. In the preface the author quotes the following authorities from whom he gathered material for his work:—

- (1) دستور الكتاب By Abū al-Barakāt Nīshāpūrī.
- (2) ارياض الانشاء By Jānī Maḥmūd b. Shaikh Muḥammad Jīlānī (who also compiled احمناظر الانشاء).

جامع النمثيل Jāmi' al-Tamsīl.

Fols. 189; 12\frac{3}{4} in. by 8\frac{1}{4} in.; 21 lines, each 5 in. long; written in excellent Nasta'līq, on dark-brown thick paper; dated, A.H. 1226 (A.D. 1810).

A collection of proverbs arranged in alphabetical order according to the first letter of each proverb; thus there are as many chapters as there are letters in the alphabet. Their origin and use are also explained, and illustrated by means of short historical anecdotes. Texts from the Qurān and poetical quotations are also introduced towards the end.

This is one of the most celebrated works of the author, Muḥammad 'Alī Jabalwardī (عجمد على جبل وردى, see his name very distinctly written, fol. 1b, 1. 12). This name is of the same type as Sunrawardī, In all other collections he is, however, called Jabalrūdī, and in the Berlin Catalogue his work has the title of جامع التماثيل. It was written, A.H. 1054 (A.D. 1644), during the reign of Sultan 'Abd-allāh Qutb-Shāh, at Haidarābād, in the Deccan. The circumstances which led the author to compile this work, which is the first of its kind written in Persian, are mentioned in the preface. He writes that while present on an occasion in the assembly of learned persons, including بحمد كانون, who in other catalogues is called Muhammad al-Khātūn, the Shaikh al-Islām, a discussion arose on the proverbs, and someone in the company remarked that while there were elaborate works to be found containing collected proverbs in Arabic, and that one had been recently written during the reign of Shāh-'Abbās Ṣafawī on proverbs in Turkī, there was none of a similar description for Persian proverbs. It was partly this hint and partly because he had written a much smaller work called الامشال before, A.H. 1049 (A.D. 1639-1640), he at once undertook to enlarge it. Begins:

سپاس بی حد وستایش بی عدبی مثلی را سزد دکه با یمای دلکشای والله المثل الاعلی ـ المخ

Cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 773b; Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), p. 325; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 2209. This work has been printed at Ţeherān in а.н. 1278 (а.р. 1861). Other copies are noticed in Mélanges Asiatiques, v, p. 522; and Rehatsek, Cat. raisonné, No. 22, p. 223.

الف لبله

Alf Lailah.

Fols. 325; 10 in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; bears the signature in English of C. G. Gladwin; not dated; most probably the MS. is the original copy.

The Alf Lailah (on the flyleaf it is styled قصّهٔ هزارویک شب ), or the "One Thousand and One Nights" in Persian, translated from the original Arabic (see Nos. 58-59), with the omission of the verses, by Abū al-Qāsim b. Muḥammad 'Alī Simnāni Sāsānī, at the desire of Mr. Gladwin, the well-known Persian and Urdū scholar.

The introduction begins:

For Arabic version see above, Nos. 58-59, and below, No. 169, etc.

اعدان من العالميات ولوامع الروايات (١٩٤٤) من الموايات العالمية العالمية Jawāmi' al-Ḥikayāt-u Lawāmi' al-Riwāyāt.

Fols. 380; 13 in. by 8½ in.; 20 lines, each 5 in. long; written in good Naskh; illuminated frontispieces and gold-ruled margins; illustrated with 30 miniatures; bound in plain leather; dated A.H. 842-843 (A.D. 1439-1440).

A celebrated collection of historical tales and anecdotes, by Maulānā Nūr al-Dīn Muḥammad 'Aufī, also known as Ṣadr al-Dīn, or Jamāl al-Dīn 'Aufī, who compiled also one of the earliest biography of poets, called the Lubāb al-Albāb (see Sprenger, Oude Cat., pp. 1-6, and Bland, Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, ix, p. 112 sq.). 'Aufī was a native of Merv, when it was the capital of Persia under the Saljūq monarchs. When Nizām al-Mulk Qiwām al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Abī Sa'd al-Junaidī, the Wazīr of Sulṭān Abū al-Muzaffar Ṣhams al-Dīn Iltamish of Delulī, laid siege and captured the fortress of Bhakar, A.H. 625 (A.D. 1227), in which Sulṭān Nāṣir al-Dīn Qubachah had taken refuge, 'Aufī was present and soon taken into favour. 'Aufī completed the present work in the same year and dedicated it to the Wazīr.

The Jawāmi' al-Ḥikāyāt consists of four qisms or parts, each of which is subdivided into five and twenty bābs or chapters:

Qism I, on fol. 1b, در معرفت حضرت آفریدگار (The Knowledge of the Creator), beginning:

(For the  $b\bar{a}bs$  of this and other qisms see complete index at the end.)

Qism II, on fol. 203b, در بیان اخلاق حمیده وسیر مرضیّه (Good Morals and Qualities), beginning:

Qism III, on fol. 286b, در بیان اخلاق صذموم (Bad Conduct and Qualities), beginning:

قصّهٔ چهار درویش

Qiṣṣa-i Chahār Darwīsh.

Fols. 105; 83 in. by 6 in.; written in ordinary Nasta'līq; bears the name of Nawwāb Aḥmad 'Alī Khān Bahādur Zulfuqār Khān written in English; not dated.

The story of King Āzād Bakhsh, his son Bakhtiyār, and the four Darwīshes. It is written in florid style with verses interspersed. The work is commonly ascribed to the most celebrated Persian poet of India, Amīr Khusrau of Dehlī (d. A.H. 725, A.D. 1324, see his Dīwān). The present copy has at the end an extensive vocabulary of the difficult words occurring in the text. The tales of the four Darwīshes begin respectively on fols. 4b, 22b, 71a, and 83b. The Urdū translation is called the Bāgh-u Bahār (see Supplement).

The introduction begins:

Cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 762; Bodl. Cat., 443; Eastwick, translation of the Bāgh-u Bahār, Hertford, A.D. 1852 (preface, p. vii); Mehren (Copenhagen Cat.), p. 32; etc. It is to be noted that in the Bāgh-u Bahār, the order of the Darwishes is changed—the third has become second and the second third. For Indian editions of the Bāgh-u Bahār see Supplement.

The work has been lithographed at Bombay, A.H. 1295 (A.D. 1877).

Vol. I: fols. 239;  $8\frac{1}{12}$  in. by 6 in.; written in fair Nasta'līq, with headings in red; bound in stamped leather; not dated.

Vol. II: fols. 179;  $9\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; written in clear Nasta'līq, with headings in red; bound in plain leather; copied at Dānāpūr, A.H. 1203 (A.H. 1788), by 'Azīm Khān.

Though the two volumes are not uniform in size, etc., the second is a continuation of the first and contains an index to it.

The work is a romance of Jahāndār-Sulṭān and Bahrawar-Bānū, told by means of a number of amusing tales. It was compiled by Shaikh 'Ināyat-allāh of Dehlī (d. A.H. 1082, A.D. 1671). There are two prefaces to the work; the first is by Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ, the author's younger brother and pupil, and author of the 'Amal-i Ṣāliḥ, a very large and detailed history of Shāhjahān's reign (see No. 81).

In the second preface (fol. 7b) the author praises the Emperor Shāhjahān, during whose reign this work, which is based upon a Hindū tale, was completed (according to the first preface), a.H. 1061 (A.D. 1651).

The first preface begins:

Editions of the text were published at Calcutta, A.H. 1224 and 1252 (A.D. 1809 and 1836); Dehlī, A.H. 1266 (A.D. 1849), Lucknow (with no date); and Bombay, A.H. 1293 (A.D. 1876), described elsewhere. It has been translated into English by Alexander Dow, London, A.D. 1768, and by Jonathan Scott, in three vols., Shrewsbury, A.D. 1799, and the latter version rendered into German by A. H. Hartmann, Leipzig, A.D.1802. A poetical version in Persian was made by Ḥasan 'Alī, poetically named "'Izzat," and dedicated to Tippū-Ṣāḥib, the Sulṭān of Mysore.

Farmān.

Fol. 1;  $42\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 28 in.; written in excellent large Nasta'līq on thick gilded paper, which is pasted on silver-printed red cloth; bears a large seal in black ink of the Emperor Akbar II, containing the names of his royal ancestors in the Tīmūrid line, and a large royal  $tughr\bar{a}$ ' or monogram in gold and red colour on the top.

This is the original MS. of a farmān or royal order of the Emperor Abū al-Naṣr Mu'īn al-Dīn Muḥammad Akbar-Shāh II (d. at the age of about 80 years, after a reign of nearly thirty-two years, 28th Jumādā II, A.H. 1253, 28th September, A.D. 1837, at Dehlī), conferring upon Colonel John Baillie (see preface), British Resident at the Court of Oudh, the three titles of "'Imād al-Daulah, Afzal al-Mulk Bahādur, Arslān Jang." The farmān was issued on the 2nd of Sha'bān, A.H. 1222 (5th October, A.D. 1807), in the first year of that Emperor's reign.

The wording of the  $farm\bar{a}n$  is as follows:—

Fol. 1; 27½ in. by 17 in.; written in good Nasta'līq on one side only; richly illuminated with gold; bears on the back three seals respectively of Prince Mirzā Muḥammad Jahāngīr, Muḥammad 'Alī Khān (Mu'azzam al-Daulah), and Muḥkim-Singh; written in the hand of the last-named person, who held the post of Wāqi'a-nawīs or recorder.

It is another original MS. of a farmān, upon the same subject as above, but bears the name of Shāhzādah Mirzā Muḥammad Jahāngīr on the top, and it was issued on the 19th Sha'bān, A.H. 1222 (22nd October, A.D. 1807), the first year of the reign of the same Akbar-Shāh II. This farmān, in addition to the three titles mentioned in the preceding one, confers upon Colonel Baillie the manṣab or dignity of a commander of 4,000 horse, along with the gifts of a  $p\bar{a}lk\bar{\imath}$  or litter with hangings, standard, and drum.

The following account relating to Prince Jahangir is given in Beale's Oriental Biographical Dictionary (London, A.D. 1894), p. 191b:

"Jahāngīr Mirzā (جهانگر مرزا), the eldest son of Akbar-Shāh II, King of Dehlī.—He was, in consequence of having fired a pistol at Mr. Seton, the Resident at Dehlī, sent as a State prisoner to Allahābād, where he resided in the garden at Sulṭān Khusro for several years, and died there in A.D. 1821, A.H. 1236, aged 31 years; a salute of 31 guns was fired from the ramparts of the fort of Allahābād at the time of his burial. He was at first interred in the same garden, and subsequently his remains were transferred to Dehlī and buried in the courtyard of the Mausoleum of Nizām-uddin Aulia."

It is to be remembered that the Prince was only 17 years of age when the present farmān was issued, and he had then probably been living as an exile at Allahābād.

Fol. 1; 13 in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; written in Nasta Inq-shikastah-āmīz, in two columns; much soiled.

An inscription in English on the back states that this letter of the Nawwāb (Mīr Ja'far of Bengal) to Lord Clive was given by the latter to a Mr. William Hanbury, who gave it to Mr. J. T. Samuell A.D. 1762. The substance of the letter, however, does not show that it was sent by the Nawwāb. The probability is that it was written by Omi-chand (whose proper name was Amīr-Chand), and contains an appeal from the banker for the payment of his claims.

Fols. 248; 14\(\frac{7}{8}\) in. by 9 in.; 21 lines, each 6 in. long; written in Nasta \(\text{liq-sh}\) ikastah-\(\text{amiz}\); bound in stamped leather; slightly soiled by damp.

This volume contains a collection of eight hundred and sixty-nine letters, dispatches, etc., which were sent to the Nawwāb Wazīr al-Mumālik Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān of Oudh by Colonel John Baillie, British Resident at Lucknow (see preface), between the 2nd Jumādā I, A.H. 1222 (9th July, A.D. 1807), and the 28th Zulhijjah, A.H. 1224 (4th February, A.D. 1810).

Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān, who is better known by his name than surname of Yamīn al-Daulah, assumed the reins of the government of Oudh on the dethronement of his elder brother Āṣif al-Daulah's son, Wazīr 'Alī Khān. He died after a reign of seventeen lunar years on the 22nd Rajab, A.H. 1229 (11th July, A.D. 1814).

The contents of these letters are miscellaneous and deal with the affairs of the Sūbah of Oudh.

For replies to some of these letters see the correspondence below. The first letter begins:

This is another collection containing seven hundred and seventy-six letters, which were sent by the same Nawwāb Wazīr al-Mamālik Saʻādat 'Alī Khān to Colonel John Baillie, between the 12th Jumādā I, A.H. 1222 (19th July, A.D. 1807), and the 28th Zulḥijjah, A.H. 1224 (4th February, A.D. 1810).

The contents of these letters are miscellaneous. They consist mostly of replies to the enquiries of the British Resident regarding the affairs of the Ṣūbah of Oudh, under the administration of the Nawwāb-Wazīrs.

Of the ninety-five letters contained in this MS., 37 were sent to the same Nawwāb-Wazīr-Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān, between July 28th, A.D. 1808, and June 18th, A.D. 1814, by the three Governors-General:

Sir George Barlow (1).

Lord Minto (26).

Lord Moira (10).

Further, there are copies of ten letters addressed to the Governors-General by the Bīgams of Oudh. The remaining forty-eight letters contain dispatches from the Nawwāb-Wazīr to the Governors-General (44) and Colonel John Baillie (4).

The subject-matter of these letters is briefly as follows:-

- i. Affairs of exchange and octroi.
- ii. Compliments which were paid on the occasions of appointments, promotions, victories, recovery of health, etc.
- iii. Lists of rewards and presents.
- iv. An account of the expedition undertaken by the British against the French possessions in  $J\bar{a}v\bar{a}$ .
  - v. Affairs of Ḥusain 'Alī Khān, etc.
- vi. References to General Hewat's dispatches.
- vii. Dispatch of troops for the suppression of minor disturbances.
- viii. Affairs of the Bigams and their wards.

- ix. Exploits and escape of dacoits across the boundary between the territory of the E.I. Company and the Nawwāb-Wazīr's dominions.
  - x. Revenue settlement of lands.
- xi. Allusions to Dr. George Campbell, the surgeon who attended the Nawwāb-Wazīr, etc.

Fols. 462; 14½ in. by 9 in.; 21 lines, each 6 in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; bound in stamped leather; slightly stained by damp.

Another large collection of one thousand four hundred and eightyeight letters, which were originally sent to the same Nawwāb-Wazīr by Colonel Baillie between the 1st Muḥarram, A.H. 1225 (6th February, A.D. 1810), and the 28th Zulḥijjah, A.H. 1227 (2nd January, A.D. 1813).

The contents of these letters relate mostly to the subjects mentioned in the previous collections.

For replies to some of these letters see correspondence described below.

Fols. 439; 14½ in. by 9 in.; 21 lines, each 6¼ in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; bound in stamped leather.

Another and larger collection of letters; these were sent by the same Nawwāb-Wazīr to Colonel John Baillie between the 1st Muḥarram, A.H. 1225 (6th February, A.D. 1810), and the 24th Zulḥijjah, A.H. 1227 (9th December, A.D. 1812).

Like the preceding letters, these deal also with the affairs of the Sūbah of Oudh.

The first letter begins:

Fols. 76; 10 in. by  $6\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 14 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in good Shikastah-Nasta'līq; bound in red  $\underline{kh}$ ārwā eloth.

These are copies of thirty-four letters. The first, dated 28th December, a.d. 1810, was sent by Lord Minto, the Governor-General, to the same Nawwāb-Wazīr al-Mamālik. It referred to the disturbed state of the  $mahall\bar{a}t$  (districts) of Partābgarh and Sulṭānpūr, for the pacification of which the assistance of the English troops had often been sought. Some other matters are also touched upon in the letter, e.g., the collection of the land revenue from the landholders, the revenue settlement, the administration of the Jāgīr of Almās 'Alī Khān, etc.

The second letter is a reply from the Nawwāb, and is written on the left half column, while the eight principal clauses of the Governor-General's letter are inserted for immediate reference on the right side.

The third letter contains a detailed reply of Colonel John Baillie to the second letter. This is followed by two proclamations issued by the Nawwāb-Wazīr:

- To the Zamindars, intimating the new form of revenue settlement.
- To the Amīns, describing in detail the various duties attached to them.

The rest of the letters, which passed between the Nawwāb-Wazīr and Colonel Baillie, deal chiefly with the above-mentioned matters, and also contain references to the rebellion of Amān-Singh and the proposed sacking of his  $garh\bar{\imath}$  (small fortress) at Qāyampūr.

The last letter is dated 1st Jumādā I, а.н. 1227 (10th Мау, а.р. 1812).

Fols. 136;  $11\frac{3}{4}$  in. by 9 in.; 21 lines, each  $4\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in Shikastah-Nasta'līq; bound in red  $\underline{kh}\tilde{a}rw\tilde{a}$  cloth.

This is a collection of five hundred letters, etc., which were sent to the same Nawwāb-Wazīr Saʻādat 'Alī Khān between the 1st Muḥarram, A.H. 1228 (5th January, A.D. 1813), and the 1st Rajab, A.H. 1229 (10th July, A.D. 1814), by Colonel John Baillie.

The majority of these letters refer to matters mentioned in dispatches received from other English officials, and deal with various topics connected with the administration of the country, virtually Hindūstān.

The subjects of the letters are briefly as follows:—

Revenue, judicial, and criminal affairs.

Suppression of dacoits and rebels.

Jail, octroi, and police affairs.

Description of forts, and the payment, transport, and equipment of troops.

Price of grain.

Receptions and presents.

Traffic and merchandise.

Pensions and awards, etc.

The following are names of some of the officials from whom Colonel Baillie received reports and reported their substances to the Nawwāb-Wazīr:—

Lieutenant-Colonel Birrel (Chatarpūr).

Mr. Wilson, Magistrate (Shāhjāhānpūr).

Mr. Reid, Magistrate (Farrukhābād).

Major Richardson (Sulțānpūr).

Mr. Raleigh, Magistrate (Cawnpore).

Sir Edward Colebrook, Resident at the Court of Scindhia.

Major Lane (Chatarpūr).

Mr. Strachey, Political Department, Calcutta.

Colonel Fraser (Sakrūra).

Mr. Russell, Resident at Haidarābād.

Major Clark (Bundelkhand).

Captain Campbell (Farrukhābād).

Colonel Hudson, Colonel Edwards, Captains Brooke, Taylor, Grant, Adams, Blackie, Todd, Grant, Messrs. Rutherford, MacMahon, Dr. Law, and others.

The following are the names of a few of the principal places where the East India Company's officials were stationed, dispatches from whom are mentioned in this MS.: Agra, 'Alīgarh, Allahābād, Bahrā'ich, Bahrāmghāt, Bardwān, Bareilly, Bundelkhand, Cawnpore, Dehlī, Etāwah, Farrukhābād, Gorakhpūr, Jaunpūr, Khairnagar, Lucknow, Mirzāpūr, Partābgarh, Sakrūra, Shāhjahānpūr, Sulṭānpūr, etc.

Fols. 156; 143 in. by 9 in.; 21 lines, each 64 in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah; bound in red khārwā eloth.

This is another collection of four hundred and twenty letters and dispatches, which were sent originally by the same Nawwāb-Wazīr Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān to Colonel Baillie between the 1st Muḥarram, A.H. 1228 (5th February, A.D. 1813), and the 20th Rajab, A.H. 1229 (9th July, A.D. 1814).

These letters, like the preceding ones, deal largely with the affairs of the Ṣūbah of Oudh, and their subject-matter may be roughly summarised as follows:—

Dispatch of troops for the suppression of minor disturbances.

Affairs of the zamīndārī, irrigation, etc.

Presents and rewards.

Judicial affairs, which predominate all through.

Current prices of grain, etc.

Affairs of the ta'alluqdarī.

A complete list of allowances paid to the Mahalls or Princesses of Faizābād.

Decision of the case of the Jagir of Shams al-Nisa' Bigam.

Commerce, etc.

Terms of the treaty between the Governor-General and the Nawwāb-Wazīr.

Dacoits.

Revenue settlement.

A descriptive record of the appeal in the case at Benāres between Durgā-Parshād and Audān and other defendants, as submitted by the Judge, containing the evidence of the witnesses, etc.

Account of the personal allowance and Jāgīr of Nawwāb Bahū Bīgam.

Account of evidence in the appeal case at Bareilly, submitted by the officer stationed there.

A list of the English officials and others who attended a reception given in their honour.

This correspondence was carried on between the 2nd Sh'abān, A.H. 1229 (20th July, A.D. 1814), and the 15th Zulḥijjah, A.H. 1230 (18th November, A.D. 1815), between the Governor-General and the Nawwāb-Wazīr Ghāzī al-Dīn Ḥaidar Khān. This Nawwāb was installed as Nawwāb-Wazīr on the death of his father, Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān, on the 22nd Rajab, A.H. 1229 (1st August, A.D. 1814). Five years later, with the full consent of the British, he assumed regal dignity, on the 18th Zulḥijjah, A.H. 1234 (9th October, A.D. 1819), and died at the age of 58, on the 27th Rabi' I, A.H. 1243 (19th October, A.D. 1827). The contents consist of three parts: the first part contains copies of letters received by the Nawwāb-Wazīr, and the other two parts of communications received by the Governor-General.

The subjects of the three parts may be classified roughly thus:-

I. Fols. 1-18:

Condolence on the death of the Nawwab's father.

Enquiry after health, etc.

The arrival of the Bīgams, Najm al-Nisā', and others at Allahābād, etc.

The salary of the troops, etc.

The appointment, etc., of Mīr Ghulām 'Alī Khān and Dr. Wilson.

The discussion and subsequent confirmation of the Nawwab-Wazīr's rights and authority.

II. Fols. 20-25:

Compliments, etc.

Lists of articles of clothing, etc., sent to the Bīgams through the Governor-General.

Affairs of Muḥammad Taḥsīn 'Alī Khān, etc.

Reception, etc.

Purchase of Arab horses, etc.

III. Fols. 26-35:

Lists of eatables sent by the Nawwāb-Wazīr to the Governor-General.

Copy of the petition presented by Nawwāb Mahdī 'Alī Khān in regard to his affairs, etc.

منتخب اللغات شاهجهاني

Muntakhab al-Lughāt-i Shāhjahānī.

Fols. 366; 8½ in. by 5¾ in.; 20 lines, each 4 in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq, with headings in red; bound in plain leather; bears signature of C. Gladwin; probably copied in the twelfth century of the Hijrah.

A well-known dictionary of Arabic words explained in Persian. It was compiled, according to the chronogram "בּבּיב יִבְּבּיל," א.H. 1046 (A.D. 1636–1637), and dedicated to the Emperor Shāhjahān, by 'Abd al-Rashīd b. 'Abd al-Ghafūr al-Ḥusainī al-Madanī al-Tatawī (still alive, A.H. 1069, A.D. 1659). The following reliable authorities for this work are quoted by the author at the end:—

The Qāmūs (see Nos. 63-64), the Ṣaḥāḥ (see Nos. 139-140), and the Tāj al-Asāmī-u Tāj al-Maṣādir (here written كتر الاسامىي والمصادر), see above (No. 61).

The dictionary, which even now is extremely popular in the East, contains only those words which are most common in use. All words beginning from the same letter are alphabetically arranged in reference to their last letter, and in its present form it is divided after the preface and dedication as follows:—

رسالهٔ زراعت Risāla-i Zirā'at.

Fols. 19;  $8\frac{7}{3}$  in. by  $5\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 12–15 lines, each 3 in. long; written in Nasta līq, with headings in red ink; bears the seal of James Graham, A.H. 1200 (A.D. 1785).

A short treatise on agriculture. In the introduction the author, who does not wish to disclose his name, states that he undertook the work at the desire of some person unnamed, and at the time of writing he was reduced to extreme poverty, so much so that he could not afford to obtain proper paper to write upon. Further, he laments the state of misgovernment into which his country has fallen, and attributes it to the appointment of princes to various provinces, who, entrusting their duties to the hands of nntrustworthy persons, neglect their own responsibilities, and have brought about the decay.

This work is divided into nine sections, and the references are chiefly to the affairs of Bengal proper.

- i. The soil and its varieties.
- ii. The crops.
- iii. Ryots or cultivators.
- iv. Method of employing labourers.
- v. Sources of revenue.
- vi. Expenses in country districts.
- vii. Mofussil (country districts).
- viii. Rules binding upon tenants.
  - ix. Customs of the Nazims or administrators of former times.

دستور جهان گشائ Dastūr-i Jahān Gushā'ī.

Fols. 169;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each 3 in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq; bears an 'arz-dīdah; much damaged by insects; the binding retains traces of gilt, but is much injured; not dated; copied probably towards the close of Shāhjahān's reign.

The author is Khair-allāh, whose father, as is stated in the book, served as Sipahsālār (commander) in Shāhjahān's army. The subject dealt with is the art of war, divided into twelve kilīds (parts).

- 1. Character sketch of the Jahāndār and Sipahsālār.
- 2. Expression of humility and submission to the Supreme Will, with prayer to the Almighty for help.
- 3. Description of the honours paid to the Sardārs and Sepoys on their departure to a campaign.
- 4. The value and the functions of the Council and the duties and responsibilities of the men composing it.
- Regulations laid down for the recognition of the courage and services of the various ranks.
- Appointment of men to posts in accordance with their social position and merits.
- 8. The order of advance and the method of encampment.
- 9. Division of the army into sections and the allotment of positions to these, with the distance separating them, and the time taken to cover it during battle.
- Regulations for the officers and men relating to the formation of columns and their extension in line.

- 11. Advice as to the equipment of the army, the bearing of arms, and the management of the engines of war, with other instructions for the officers and men, including the selection of positions for battle.
- 12. The correct etiquette to be observed in offering battle, in the charge of the cavalry, and finally in victory.

- VII. Fols. 28a-31. Four selections from the Sair al-Muta'akhkhirīu (سير المتا ترين). This work has been described elsewhere.
- VIII. Fol. 32a. Selections from the Tūzuk-i Tīmūrī (توزك تيموري) (see Nos. 75 and 196-199), the Majma' al-Gharā'ib (بالغرائب), "a collection of wonders," a description of the lake Kamam كمه (see Rieu, B.M.P. Cat., ii, p. 742, IV; etc.), by Mullā Tughrā of Mashhad, who lived in India and died in Kashmīr, a few years after the accession of 'Ālamgīr.
- IX. Fols. 33a-41a. Extracts from the Hidāyat al-Muşallīm (هدایته المصلّین).
- X. Fols. 44a-45. Selection from the Haft-Gulshan (هفت گلشي) (see No. 202).
- XI. Fols. 46a-47. A ghazal composed by Ismā'īl 'Ādil-Shāh, and several other odds and ends.
- XII. Fol. 48a. Hikāyat, from Shaikh Abū al-Fazl (see No. 78).
- XIII. Fols. 49a-55, 57b-62. Selections from the Rauzat al-Aḥbāb (روضته الاحباب), described below (see No. 191).
- XIV. Fols. 56a-57. Lines from Farīd al-Dīn 'Aṭṭār (see Supplement); texts in praise of wine; etc.
- XV. Fol. 62b. Selection from the Wāfiyah (وافيمه), see above, No. 33.
- XVI. Fol. 64a. Copy of a letter sent by the Sultan of Turkey to the Sharif of Meccah.
- XVII. Fols. 64b-67. Verses composed by Mirzā Muḥammad Naṣīr Hakīm-Bāshi Karīm Khān.

- XVIII. Fols. 68a-70. A mukhammas or verse consisting of five lines, by Khāliṣ of Astarābād (probably Sayyid Imtiyāz Khān, who came to India in 'Ālamgīr's time, was appointed Governor of Gujarāt, but was slain in Sindh, by Khudā Yār Khān, A.H. 1122, A.D. 1710) and three others.
- XIX. Fols. 71-79. Lines in Arabic and Persian in praise of Colonel John Baillie.
- XX. Fols. 79-81. Verses with notes by the celebrated physician, philosopher, and scholar, Ḥakīm Abū 'Alī al-Ḥusain b. 'Abdallah b. Sīnā (Avicenna), who died at Hamadān, at the age of fifty-four lunar years, A.H. 427 (A.D. 1037).
- XXI. Fols. 81b-86. A qaşīdah with notes by Imru al-Qais b. Ḥajar b. Imri al-Qandī.
- XXII. Fols. 86b-87. A few lines by the great lawgivers of Islām.
- XXIII. Fols. 87*b*–90. Selections in verse from Shaikh Sa'dī Shīrāzī (see above, No. 104).
- Fols. 90-92. From the Akhlāq-i Jalālī (اخلاق جيلال), XXIV. or to give its full title: Lawami'-al-Ishraq fī Makarim al-Akhlāq, a well-known work on ethics by Jalāl al-Dīn, Muhammad b. As'ad al-Ṣiddīqī al-Dawānī, who died at the age of about seventy, A.H. 908 (A.D. 1502-1503). dedicated to Sulțān Haṣan Beg Bahādur, an Āqqoyunlū king, who reigned at 'Iraq, A.H. 872-882 (A.D. 1467-1477). The complete work has been lithographed at the Rājah Nawal - Kishor Press, Lucknow, A.H. 1283 and 1296 (A.D. 1866 and 1878). English translation, by W. F. Thompson, was published in the Oriental Translation Fund, London, London, A.D. 1839. For MS. and details, see Rien, ii, p. 442 sq.; Bodl. Cat., 1298, I, and 145-1459, Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 2183-2187; Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), p. 307; Mehren (Copenhagen Cat.), p. 6; Aumer (Munich Cat.), p. 62; etc. See also Hāj Khal., i, p. 202; v, p. 340.

Al-Qurān al-Karīm.

Fols. 405;  $11\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; written in most excellent large Naskh, with vowels. The titles of the Sūrahs are in large characters in gold; the first two pages are profusely illuminated in gilt and chiefly blue colour; richly illuminated throughout; contains marks for sections, pauses, etc.; the binding bears the following numerous inscriptions illustrated in raised letters:—

"لا الله الآ الله محمد رسول الله " - "لا يمسه الآ المطهرون " - "الله كافى " - " سبحانك لا علم لنا الا ما علمتنا انك انت العليم الحكيم " - " الله محمد على فاطمه حسن حسين " - " حضرة ابوبكر الصديق " - " حضرة عمر الفاروق " - " حضرة عثمان بن عفان " - " حضرة على بن ابى طالب " - " سركار خدادادى " - "

Probably copied in the tenth century A.H.

This very elegant MS. of the complete Qurān, from Tippū-Ṣāḥib's library, was presented to the University by the Court of Directors of the East India Company, A.D. 1805. Tippū was born A.H. 1165 (A.D. 1749), succeeded his father, Ḥaidar 'Alī, as Sulṭān of Mysore, A.H. 1197 (A.D. 1782), and was killed in the fourth Mysore war, while defending his city Seringapatam, against the British and their allies, the Nizām and the Marhattas, A.H. 1214 (A.D. 1799).

152. القرآن الكريم

Al-Qurān al-Karīm.

Fols. 287; 10 in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in Naskh, with vowels; lines round the pages, headings of the Sūrahs, and periods are in bright red; copied by Ḥasan b. Ṣatilmish, A.H. 1067 (A.D. 1656).

A complete copy of the Quran. In the headings of the Surahs the number of  $\bar{a}y\bar{a}t$  or verses occurring in each is also given. On the last folio there is pasted a  $du'\bar{a}$  or prayer, surrounded by gold lines, and written in the hand of the copyist.

The following lines are written in Latin and Greek on the last page: "Purus putus Textus Integer Al-Corani, ut numero 654 adnotavit.

ιδία χειρί ὁ πανηλώσσος βιορνστάλιος πολυΐστωρ."

153.

Fols. 83; 6 in. by 4 in.; 11 lines, each  $2\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in fair Naskh, with vowels; gold-lined round the pages; frontispiece illuminated with gold; bound in pretty gilt-stamped leather; the periods are filled in with gold; written by the same copyist as above.

This copy consists of the following Sūrahs of the Qurān: 1, 6, 36, 44, 48, 55, 56, 67, and 78–114. On the last twenty folios there are some more chapters written irrespective of order, and mixed with these are quotations in Turkish (?) from Shaikh Muhyi al-Dīn Muḥammad b. 'Alī b. Muḥammad al-'Arabī's (d. a.h. 638, a.d. 1240) commentary upon the Qurān, vol. ii; also a few prayers and some notes on the stature of the Prophet, etc.

II. TRADITIONS OF THE PROPHET.

الجامع الصحيح Al-Jāmi' al-Ṣaḥīḥ.

Fols. 579; 9½ in. by 6½ in.; written in good small Naskh, on thin paper, with headings in large character in red; gold-lined round the columns; four frontispieces (on fols. 1b, 136b, 149b, and 303b), illuminated with gold; bears neither date nor name of the scribe, but it was copied by the same hand as the Jāmi al-Rumūz, see below, No. 159 (by Muḥammad b. Jalāl al-Dīn al-Khurāsānī, about the close of the eleventh century A.H.).

This is another good copy, very carefully written and in splendid preservation, of the celebrated Collection of Traditions of Abū 'Abd-allāh Muḥammad b. Ismā'īl al-Bukhārī, d. a. H. 256, a.d. 869 (see above, No. 4). There are microscopic marginal notes, in some parts very copiously written. The subdivisions of the work are all well marked on the margins, but there is no separate index. The text closely agrees with that of the first copy.

The first juz' or volume of the larger history of (Muḥammad the Prophet and) the several classes of the Companions and their successors and Traditionists, by Abū Muḥammad b. Sa'd, who was secretary to the celebrated Al-Wāqidī, and was himself one of the earliest and most eminent historians. He died at Baghdād, at the age of 62, A.H. 230 (A.D. 844), when the work was still unfinished, but it was continued and brought down to A.H. 238 (A.D. 852) by his disciple, Abū 'Alī al-Ḥusain b. Muḥammad b. Fahm al-Baghdādī (d. A.H. 289, A.D. 901).

The present volume contains a detailed life-history of the Prophet (fols. 1b-352), followed by notices of Al-Aṣhāb, Al-Mahājirīn, and Al-Anṣār (Companions, etc.).

Like all the extant copies, our text belongs also to the recension of Abī 'Umar Muḥammad b. al-'Abbās b. Muḥammad b. Zakariyyā b. Yaḥyā b. Mu'ād Ibn Hayyuyah al-Khazzāz (d. a.h. 382, a.d. 992), who gave the present division to the work, and himself was a traditionist of great renown.

Fols. 84;  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 7 lines, each 3 in. long; written in clear Naskh; paper covers; not dated.

These are three short historical extracts relating to the death of the Khalīfah al-Hādī and the accession of his son Hārūn al-Rashīd, taken from the following works:—

- 1. The history of Abū al-Faraj b. Hārūn al-Māliṭī, fols. 1-23.
- 2. Al-Mukhtaṣar fī Akhbār al-Bashar of Prince Abū al-Fidā (d. a.h. 732, a.d. 1331), see Supplement.
- Ta'rīkh al-Muslimin of George b. al-'Amīd b. Ilyās b. Abī al-Makārim b. Abī al-Tayyib, fols. 1-37.

In the last section the accessions of Hārūn's sons, the famous Al-Ma'mūn (who was proclaimed Khalīfah on the 6th Ṣafar, A.H. 198, the 6th October, A.D. 813, and died at the age of 48, on the 27th Rabī'I, A.H. 218, 18th August, A.D. 833, after a reign of about 20 years) and Al-Amīn (who succeeded Hārūn on the 4th Jumādā, A.H. 193, the 25th March, A.D. 809, and died after a reign of a little over four years, on the 6th Ṣafar, A.H. 198, the 6th October, A.D. 813, at the age of 30 years), are also touched upon.

Fols. 165; 101 in. by 7 in.; 25 lines, each 5 in. long; written in small Naskh; bound in plain leather; soiled by damp and injured by insects; dated A.H. 890 (A.D. 1485).

A history from the earliest times of Makkah (Mecca), the birth-place of Muḥammad the Prophet. It was compiled by Al-Imām Abī al-Walīd Muḥammad b. 'Abd-allāh b. Abī al-Walīd Aḥmad b. Muḥammad b. al-Walīd al-Ghassānī al-Azraqī al-Makkī (d. а.н. 244, а.р. 858).

From the present copy the first leaf is unfortunately missing, but for the title and date of transcription see fol. 89b and the colophon. On the flyleaf the following lines are written:

وفى كتاب تحفة الكرام تاريخ البلد الحرام تاليف الحافظ تقى الدين المالكى ثم بد الى اجمع ذلك مرتبا واضم اليه من تاريخ ابى الوليد الازرقى مايلائمه ، وفيه ايضا وللامام الازرقى والفاكهى فضل السبق والتحصيل والتحرير ، وفيه ايضا وكانا يعنى الازرقى والفاكهى فى المايه الثالثه ،

Akhbāru Makkah has been published, the text forming vol. i of Wüstenfeld's Chroniken d. Stadt Mekka, Leipzig, A.D. 1858. See Pertsch (Gotha Cat.), 1705; Browne (Camb. Cat.), p. 3; see also Rieu (B.M.A. Cat. Supplt.), where a work (partly based upon the Akhbāru Makkah) by Sa'd al-Dīn Sa'd-allāh b. 'Umar b. ## كلمه في الاعراب

Kalimah fī al-I'rāb.

Fols. 39;  $9\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; written in Naskh; soiled and incomplete; bears the name of the owner, Sayyid Ahmad b. Sayyid Ahmad of the year A.H. 1212 (A.D. 1797).

In its present form this work treats of analysis in grammar, and consists of two parts, both incomplete. The first part, fols. 1-5, is in verse with copious microscopic notes in prose; the second, fols. 5-39, is entirely in prose, and begins:

The author of the second treatise is Al-'Allāmah Abū 'Abd-allāh Jamāl al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Yūsuf b. Hishām al-Anṣārī (d. A.H. 761, A.D. 1359), who wrote also the Mughnī al-Labīb 'an Kutub al-A'ārīb (see above, No. 34).

IX. DICTIONARY.

171.

Fols. 753; 11 in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; written in small Naskh, mostly on half side of the pages; probably this is the holograph copy.

A dictionary of Arabic words with their explanations in Latin. At the beginning there are five pages of printed matter containing the preface. The title-page unfortunately is missing. The rest of the book is in manuscript, and looks as if it had never been completed in print. The author is Dr. Thomas Erpenius, the Dutch Oriental scholar, who was born A.D. 1584, and died A.D. 1624. His Arabic Grammar, often reprinted, has, almost to the commencement of the nineteenth century A.D., been one of the good elementary books in the West employed by students.

On the flyleaf is found the following inscription in English:-

"Sir John Chessley before the fight of Dunbar Anno 1650 gave this Arabic Dictionary with an ancient Greek copy of the 4 Evangelists (which was brought from the Library of Alexandria in Egypt and supposed to be in the first century of the Church) to the Library of the College of Edinburgh. They lay without being noticed till the year 1672 in the town. At which tyme by the command of the Right Reverend Mr. William Colvill primare care was taken for the right placing of this MS. and binding and putting both in the Catalogue of the Library."

175.

Thirteen scraps of Arabic MSS., the largest measuring 11½ in. by  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in., and the smallest  $7\frac{1}{4}$  in. by 5 in.; much injured and stained; written on vellum in brownish black.

They exhibit the gradual development of Kūfī into Naskhī characters. The following is the historical account attached to them: "They are boldly written in black ink on vellum, the more ancient specimens having five and six lines on each page; the more recent from six to nine lines; red and green marks or spots are scattered throughout the writing, and many of them are ornamented with gilding and colours. The more ancient of these MSS, were taken from the Mosque of Amer in Fostat; the first founded in Egypt about the year 640 J.C., and many lay a fair claim to an antiquity as high as about 980 of j.c., as it appears from Syoothy (see Suyūtī, No. his annals of that Mosque, that 290 Mesaf were sent to it from the citadel in that year (A.H. 403). They were found there in the time of Moorad Bey, when he repaired and nearly rebuilt that mosque, prior to the invasion of the French. How much earlier a date they may claim it is impossible to say. The later MSS, were written about the period of the introduction of the Niskhy character, and the whole collection exhibits the progress of the change."

الحجيل مقدّس

Injīl-i Muqaddas.

Fols. 190; 8 in. by 5½ in.; 15 lines, each 3¼ in. long; gold and colour lined round the pages; written in good Nasta Tiq, on thick paper; the chapters and verses are all marked in red; bound in plain leather; transcribed at Akbarābād (Agra), A.H. 854 (A.D. 1450).

This is an old MS. of the Persian translation of the four Gospels of Matthew, fol. 1b; Mark, fol. 53b; Luke, fol. 88b; and John, fol. 146b. It is stated on the flyleaf in English that this translation differs from that inserted in Walton's Polyglot, but that it is very similar to the one published by Whelock, A.D. 1657.

The heading to the first fași or chapter runs:

The first fasl begins:

فتاوي عالمگيري (كتاب جنايات)

Fatāwī-i 'Ālamgīrī (Kitāb-i Janāyāt).

Fols. 80; 9\frac{3}{4} in. by 6 in.; 17 lines, each 3\frac{3}{4} in. long; written in Nasta'līq, in small handwriting, with headings in red; bound in silver-stamped leather; not dated.

This is a detached part of the Fatāwī-i 'Ālamgīrī. It is incomplete both at the beginning and end, and contains numerous notes scribbled in English on the margins. On the flyleaf it is stated in the hand of the donor that the work was translated into English, A.D. 1773.

The Fatāwī-i 'Ālamgīrī, it is to be noted, is an extensive and highly esteemed work of legal decisions by doctors of the Ḥanafī school. It was originally compiled in Arabic by the order of the Emperor 'Ālamgīr, and was begun, A.H. 1067 (A.D. 1656), by Shaikh Nizām and other Indian jurists. It was translated into Persian by the order of Zīb al-Nisā' Bīgum, daughter of 'Ālamgīr, by Qāzī Muḥammad Najm al-Dīn Khān, who had also compiled a work on legal punishments.

In its present form it contains the following  $b\bar{a}bs$  or chapters:—

هدایهٔ فارسی (جلد دوم) Hidāya-i Fārsī (vol. ii).

Fols. 417; 10 in. by 6½ in.; 17 lines, each 4 in. long; written on reddish paper in good Nasta'līq, and with headings in red, for the owner, A.H. 1201 (A.D. 1786).

This is a splendid MS. of the second volume (for the fourth see below) of a very celebrated treatise on Muḥammadan Jurisprudence, according to the doctrine of Imām Abū Ḥanīfah, and his disciples Abū Yūsuf and Imām Muḥammad.

The Hidāyah, which is a commentary on the Badāyat al-Mubtadā', was originally written in Arabic by Shaikh Burhān al-Dīn 'Alī b. Abū Bakr al-Marghīnānī, who was born in Transoxania, and died at the age of 64, A.H. 593, A.D. 1197 (see above, No. 158).

The Persian version of this work was made, at the desire of the Governor-General, Warren Hastings, by Ghulām Yaḥyā Khān, assisted by Mullā Tāj al-Dīn, Mīr Muḥammad Husain, and Mullā Sharī'at-allāh, A.H. 1190 (A.D. 1776).

The Persian text was published at Calcutta, A.H. 1221 (A.D. 1807), and ably translated into English by Charles Hamilton (published, London, A.D. 1791), assisted by the donor (see preface to this Catalogue).

The present volume begins with the Kitāb or book of marriage, کتاب النگاح, and ends with that of bequests for pious purposes, بوقفي, and corresponds to Hamilton's translation, vol. i, p. 71, to vol. ii, p. 359.

Begins:

کتاب النکاح و آن در لغت عبارتست از وطی وبعضی گفته آند که عبارتست از ضم ودر شرح عبارتست از عقد خاص ــ الیخ

Fols. 234;  $9\frac{1}{4}$  in. by 6 in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta līq, with headings in red; not dated.

This is the fourth and last volume of the work described above. The contents are:

Kitāb I. Shuf'ah (the right of pre-emption), fol. 1b.

Kitāb II. Qismat (partition of inheritance), fol. 43a.

Kitāb III. Muzāra at (giving a field or furnishing seed to sow), fol. 59a.

Kitāb IV. Musāqāt (letting a plantation for part of the produce), fol. 70a.

Kitāb V. Zabā'ih (vietuals), fol. 76a.

Kitāb VI. Uzhiyyah (sacrifices), fol. 86a.

Kitāb VII. Karāhiyyāt (abominations), fol. 91a.

Kitāb VIII. Iḥyā' al-Mawāt (cultivation of waste lands), fol. 117b.

Kitāb IX. Ashribāt (drinks), fol. 134a.

Kitāb X. Şaid (game), fol. 144a.

Begins:

كتاب الشفعة وآن در شرح عبارت است از مالك شدن زمين ـ المخ

The present volume corresponds to Hamilton's translation, vol. iii, p. 561, to vol. iv, p. 574. For other references see above.

تاريح گزيده

Ta'rīkh-i Guzīdah.

Fols. 421;  $8\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 17 lines, each  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in excellent Naskh, with headings in red; the first two pages and the frontispiece richly illuminated; gold-lined throughout; fols. 320–381, on a different quality of paper, are by a more modern hand, and have coloured lines round the pages; dated A.H. 993 (A.D. 1584).

A general history from the earliest times to A.H. 730 (A.D. 1329), the year, as it is stated in the preface, when it was compiled by Ḥamd-allāh b. 'Abī Bakr b. Aḥmad b. Naṣr Mustaufī Qazwīnī (d. A.H. 750, A.D. 1349), dedicated to his late patron's son, Wazīr Ghiyāṣ al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Khwājah Raṣhīd al-Dīn Fazl-allāh, and the present name given to it, which means "the select history." The author had written another well-known work on geography called "Nuzhat al-Qulūb" (نزهت القاوي).

The present work is divided into a fātiḥah (introduction), six bābs (books), and a khātimah (appendix):—

Fātiḥah on the creation of the world, fol. 9b.

Bāb I. In two faṣls (sections):—(1) The first and second races of the Prophets, fol. 11a. (2) The patriarchs, philosophers, and learned men, who, though not prophets, were serviceable to the cause of religion, fol. 40a.

Bāb II. The ancient Kings of Persia anterior to Islām, in four fusls:=(1) Of the Pīshdādian Kings, eleven in number, who reigned 2450 years, fol. 47b. (2) The Kayānian Kings, ten in number, reigning for a period of 634 years, fol. 54a. (3) The successors of Alexander, 32 kings, 317 years, fol. 60b. (4) The race of kings called Akāsirah, 32 in number, 527 years, fol. 62b.

Bāb III. Prophet Muḥammad, his family, companions, etc., in a muqaddimah, on the family of the Prophet and the tribes who joined him, fol. 76b, and six faṣls:—(1) History of the Prophet, fol. 79b. (2) The first five Khalīfahs, 30 years, fol. 99b. (3) The twelve Imāms, from the year A.H. 49 (A.D. 669) to that of A.H. 364 (A.D. 974), fol. 119b. (4) The Companions of the Prophet, and their Companions, fol. 123a. (5) Of the Umayyah Khalīfahs, fourteen in number, from A.H. 41 (A.D. 661) to A.H. 132 (A.D. 749), fol. 146a. (6) Of the 'Abbāsides, 37 Khalīfahs, 523 years.

Bāb IV. Muslim Kings of Persia, etc., in twelve chapters:— (1) Banū Lais Saffār dynasty, who reigned over part of Persia, three in number, from A.H. 153 (A.D. 770) to A.H. 187 (A.D. 802), fol. 212a. (2) The nine Sāmānian Kings, who reigned over Persia from A.H. 187 (A.D. 802) to A.H. 389 (A.D. 998), fol. 215a. (3) The Ghaznawides, 14 kings, who reigned for 30 years over the greatest part of Persia, and 125 years over Ghaznī and Hindūstān, in all 155 years from A.H. 390 (A.D. 999) to A.H. 545 (A.D. 1150), fol. 422. (4) The five kings of the Ghūrī dynasty, A.H. 545-609 (A.D. 1150-1212), fol. 230b. (5) The Dailaman Kings, known as Al-i Buyah, 127 years from а.н. 321 to а.н. 448 (а.д. 932-1056), fol. 234a. (6) The Saljūq dynasty, consisting of three branches: (a) the one which reigned partly over the whole of Persia and partly over a portion of it, A.H. 429-590 (A.D. 1037-1193), and consisted of 14 kings, fol. 245a; (b) the eleven kings who reigned over Kirman, A.H. 433-583 (A.D. 1041-1187), fol. 268b; (c) the fourteen kings who ruled over Rüm, A.H. 480-699 (A.D. 1087-1299), fol. 269a. (7) The fourteen Khwārazmshāhīs, а.п. 491-628 (а.д. 1097-1230), fol. 270b. (8) The Atābegs, in two branches: (a) the nine kings who reigned over Diyārbakr and Fārs, A.H. 481-600 (A.D. 1088-1204), fol. 279b; (b) the eleven kings called Salghurīs, who reigned over Persia A.H. 543-663 (A.D. 1148-1264), fol. 280b. (9) The Ismā'īlian dynasty in two parts: (a) those who ruled over Egypt, Syria, and the West, fourteen in all, A.H. 296-556 (A.D. 908-1160), fol. 282b; (b) those who reigned over Persia, eight in number, A.H. 483-654 (A.D. 1090-1256), fol. 286b. (10) The Turktārī Sultāns of Karmania (the Qarākhitā'ī Sultāns of Kirmān), nine in all, A.H. 621-708 (A.D. 1224-1308), fol. 292a. (11) The Atābegs of Lūristān, consisting of two tribes called Buzurg (great) and Kuchuk (small), fol. 294a. (12) The Moghuls, who ruled over Persia, A.H. 599-730 (A.D. 1202-1329), in three parts, the genealogy of the Turkish tribes, fol. 295a; genealogy of the house of Chingīz-Khān, fol. 298b; history of the Moghuls in Persia, fol. 301a.

Bāb. V. Pious and learned men, in six chapters:—(1) The most celebrated expounders of the Law, fol. 324b. (2) The readers of the Qurān who all agreed in one orthodox text, fol. 327a. (3) Traditionists who were personally acquainted with the Companions of the Prophet, fol. 227b. (4) Shaikhs, in chronological order, fol. 228a. learned men, in alphabetical order, fol. 351b. (6) Poets, arranged in the same way, fol. 356a.

Bāb VI. Account of Qazwīn, the native city of the author, in eight fasls:—(1) Traditions connected with the place, fol. 368a. (2) The origin of its name, fol. 377a. (3) Its buildings, fol. 377b. (4) Its conquest by the Muslims, fol. 379b. (5) Its lakes, canals, mosques, and mausoleums, fol. 380a. (6) The Companions of the Prophet and those of the next generation, and those Imams, who came to Qazwin, fol. 384a. (7) Its officials and artisans, fol. 388a. (8) The families and grandees who left it, fol. 390a.

Conclusion, fol. 397b, descriptive genealogical tables of Prophets, Imāms, Kings, etc.

روضته الصفاء

Rauzat al-Ṣafā'.

Fols. 632; 14 in. by 9 in.; three vols.

A well-known general history in seven volumes, from the earliest times to the time of the author, Sayyid Muḥammad b. Burhān al-Dīn Khāwand-Shāh (born A.H. 837, A.D. 1437), a great scholar, who originally belonged to Bukhārā, but had settled at Balkh, where he was better known as Mīr-Khwānd. He resorted to Herāt, where he was much favoured by Mīr 'Alī-Shīr, the prime minister of Sulṭān Ḥusain Mirzā, to whom the work is dedicated. Very nearly the whole of the work was written by the author himself, but he died at Herāt, A.H. 903 (A.D. 1498), and the work was completed by his grandson Ghiyās al-Dīn Muḥammad b. Ḥāmid al-Dīn Khwānd-Amīr (d. A.H. 942, A.D. 1535), the author of the Ḥabīb al-Siyar fī Akhbār Afrād al-Bashar (see above, No. 72). It would be safe to say that only those events which happened after the death of the author were recorded by Khwānd-Amīr.

This work is divided into seven volumes:—

Vol. I. Fols. 1-83; 41 lines in the central gold-lined column, each 6½ in. long; and 65 written round the gold-lined margins, each 1½ in. long; illuminated froutispiece; slightly stained by damp; written in beautiful small Naskh, with headings in red; copyist, Ja'far b. Fazl-allāh al-Rizwī; dated A.H. 1001 (A.D. 1592).

Contents.

The Preface deals with the importance of the study of history, and further treats of what is requisite for the compilation of a good work on history. Account of the Creation and the Deluge; lives of the Patriarchs, Prophets, Kings of Israel, ancient poets and philosophers; account of the ancient Kings of Persia from Gayūmars to Yazdajird, when the country was entirely conquered by the Muslim Arabs; included therein are also accounts of Philip and Alexander the Great.

Begins:

Vol. II. Fols. 84-172; uniform in every detail with Vol. I, with which it is bound together.

It contains:

The genealogy, birth, actions, prophetic mission, and death of Muḥammad; account of the four great Khalīfahs: Abū Bakr, 'Umar, 'Uṣmān, and 'Alī; a detailed history of the first foundation of the Arabian Empire, the wars undertaken by the Khalīfahs, and the changes which took place in their time.

Begins:

Vol. III. Fols. 173-240; uniform with the above.

Contents.

History of the twelve Imāms, all the Khalīfahs from after 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib to their final overthrow by Hūlāgū-Khān, A.H. 656 (A.D. 1258).

Begins:

Vol. IV. (This is preceded here by the following volume.)
Fols. 240-373; uniform in size with the above, but written only in the centre of the page in small Nasta'līq; 29 lines in a page, each 5½ in. long; frontispiece richly illuminated; slightly injured; bears an 'arz-dīdah and several large seals of the owner (Muḥammad Bashārat Khān, servant of 'Ālamgīr); dated A.H. 999 (A.D. 1590).

It contains:

History of the Kings in Persia, from the time of the Muslim conquest until the subjugation of the country by the sons of Ching $\bar{z}$ - $\underline{K}$ hān. It also includes an account of the minor Muslim dynasties that ruled over the several states of Tartary and the confines of India down to their overthrow by the successors of Ching $\bar{z}$ - $\underline{K}$ hān.

Begins:

Vol. V. Fols. 373-498; uniform in every detail with Vol. IV, with which it is bound together.

Contents.

History of the invasion and conquest of Persia under Chingīz-Khān; account of his reign and that of his descendants.

Begins:

Vol. VI. Fols. 498-593; uniform in every respect with the preceding volume, but bound together with the following one.

It contains:

History of the famous conqueror Tīmūr (Tamerlane), his sons and successors, down to the death of Sulṭān Abū Saʿīd, а.н. 873 (а.в. 1468).

Begins:

Vol. VII. Fols. 593-632; uniform in every detail with Vol. VI, with which it is bound together.

This should be regarded as the eighth volume; the section of the history following Vol. VI, which contains an account of Sultan Husain, is wanting. It is headed

It contains an account of various particulars relative to different parts of the world, forming a sort of geographical appendix.

مقاصد الاوليا في محاسن الانبيا

Maqāsid al-Auliyā fī Mahāsin al-Anbiyā.

Fols. 128; 9½ in. by 5½ in.; 19 lines, each 3½ in. long; written in fair Nasta Iq, with headings in red; coloured lines round the pages; bears an inscription of the owner, A.H. 1186 (A.D. 1776).

An account of the Prophets from Adam to Muḥammad, by Abū al-Qāsim Maḥmūd b. Aḥmad b. Abū al-Ḥasan Fāryābī (d. A.H. 607, A.D. 1210), or, as he is called by Ḥājī Khalfah, Farābī ('Imād al-Dīn Maḥmūd).

At the end there are appended very brief notes on the four great successors of Muḥammad, and the names of the Khalīfahs are also enumerated (after the Imāms Ḥasan and Ḥusain) from Muʻāwiyah to Al-Mustanjid bi-Allāh, who was the 32nd Khalīfah of the race of 'Abbās at Baghdād, and died, A.H. 566 (A.D. 1171).

Begins:

The copy described in Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), iii, p. 1030 (Or. 1839), contains extracts only from this work.

روضة الاحباب

Rauzat al-Ahbāb.

Fols. 368;  $11\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $8\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 23 lines, each 5 in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, with headings in red ink; bound in deerskin; injured both at the beginning and end; dated A.H. 1011 (A.D. 1602).

A famous work, containing a full history of the Prophet Muḥammad, his birth, character, and actions, and also an account of his descendants, friends, disciples, and successors.

It was compiled at the desire of the Wazīr Mīr 'Alī-Shīr of Herāt and completed, A.H. 900 (A.D. 1494), by Amīr Sayyid 'Atā'-allāh (with his real name Jamāl al-Ḥusainī) b. Muḥammad Fazl-allāh of Shīrāz. The author, who was famous for his sanctity, piety, and learning, was a nephew of Amīr Aṣīl al-Dīn 'Abd-allāh al-Ḥusainī, and died at Herāt, A.H. 926 (A.D. 1520).

The whole work was divided into three maq sads (books), of which this MS. contains only the introduction and the first Maqsad, which begins on fol. 3a and contains a full history of the Prophet in three  $b\bar{a}bs$  or chapters:

- Genealogy of the Prophet, including short notices of the Patriarchs and earlier Prophets, on fol. 3b.
- (2) History of his birth, life, and death, on fol. 35a.
- (3) The perfection and excellence of his attributes, his relations, etc., in eight faşls or sections:
  - (i) The wives of the Prophet, on fol. 304a.
  - (ii) His children, on fol. 320a.
  - (iii) His virtues and miracles, on fol. 325a.
  - (iv) His attributes and bodily features, on fol. 340a.
  - (v) His pious observances, on fol. 343b.
  - (vi) His manners and habits, on fol. 347a.
  - (vii) His prerogatives, on fol. 358a.
  - (viii) His servants, followers, nurses, governors, etc., on fol. 361b. The introduction begins:

(c) HISTORY OF THE KHALĪFAHS.

192.

فتوح ابن اعثم

Futūh-i Ibn A'sam.

Fols. 390; 9 in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq, with headings in red; bound in plain leather; gilt-lined round the margins; an old copy.

A history of the early Khalīfahs. It was originally written in Arabie by Khwājah Aḥmad b. al-A'ṣam al-Kūfī (see fol. 2b, 1, 12, here A'ṣam is spelt with عن ($) and again fol. 3b, 1, 8). Ḥājī Khalfah (iv, p. 385) gives the name of the author as Muḥammad b. 'Alī b. A'ṣam (عثر). According to Frähn, Indications Bibliographiques, p. 16, the author died about A.H. 314 (A.D. 926).

This work, which is known also under the name of the Ta'rīkh-i Khulafā-i Rāshidīn (יוֹרָיֵבְיֹ בּוֹאֹם), was rendered into Persian, A.H. 596 (A.D. 1199), by Muḥammad b. Aḥmad al-Mustaufī al-Harawī, at the desire of his patron, a Wazīr in Khwārazm and Khurāsān, who is mentioned by honorific titles only.

After the translator's preface the work begins on fol. 3b, with the election of Abū Bakr Ṣiddīq to the Khilāfat. The work is imperfectly divided, but the following is the general account gathered from the rubrics, which are far between: Apostacy of the people of Ḥaẓramaut and Kindah, fol. 26b; conquests of the Muslims under the Khalīfah Abū Bakr Ṣiddīq, fol. 37b, and in Syria and Asia Minor, fol. 43b; the Khilāfat of 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb, fol. 66a; victories gained over the armies of Persia and 'Irāq, fol. 73a; conquest of Emessa in Syria, fol. 87b; second muster of the Greek armies, fol. 89a; death of Abū 'Ubaidah Jarrāḥ, fol. 119b; appointment of Abū Musā Ash'arī to the command of the army, the conquest of Persia, fol. 141a; second rally of the Persian forces, fol. 151a; conquest of Rai, the capital of the Persian 'Irāq, and دشت دو (a tract of country in Khurāsān), fol. 166b; conquest of Persia (Fars) by Abū Mūsā Ash'arī, fol. 170a; Khilāfat of 'Uṣmān b. 'Affān, fol. 180a; conquest of Cyprus by Mu'āwiyah b. Abī Sufyān, fol. 189a; war between Constantine III, son of Heraclius (the Emperor of Greece), and Mu'awiyah near the River 'Ukā, fol. 194b; conquest of Africa by 'Abd-allāh b. Sa'd b. Abī Sharh, fol. 196b; conquest of the island of Sclavonia (Saglāb) by Mu'āwiyah, fol. 199a; diversity of opinion on the Khilāfat of 'Usmān, fol. 204a; the Khilāfat of 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib, fol. 249a; battle of the Camel, fol. 257a; correspondence between Mu'āwiyah and 'Abd-allah b. 'Umar b. al-Khattab, Sa'd b. Abī Waqqas, Muhammad b. Muslimah al-Anṣārī, and 'Alī, fol. 301a; history of Uwais Qarnī, fol. 311b; correspondence between 'Alī and Mu'āwiyah, fol. 319a; battle between the armies of 'Alī and Mu'āwiyah, on the Euphrates, fol. 325b; correspondence between 'Alī and Mu'āwiyah, fol. 348a; Mu'āwiyah sends troops to the Arabian 'Iraq and Hijaz, and Imam Hasan b. 'Ali makes peace with him, fol. 366a; Hasan promises loyalty to Mu'āwiyah, fol. 369a; 'Alī writes to Ziyād b. Umayyah, fol. 374a; death of Hasan, nomination of Yazīd as successor to the Khilafat, and the sad death of Imam Husain b. 'Alī, Unfortunately the last folio is missing. fol. 375b.

Begins:

فتوح ابن اعثم Futūḥ-i Ibn A'ṣam.

Fols. 259; 8½ in. by 5 in.; 17 lines, each 2½ in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; with imperfect headings; fol. 1 is badly injured, and the last two or three fols. are missing; bears two dates on the flyleaf, the earlier one of the second year, A.H. 1168 (A.D. 1755), of the reign of the Emperor 'Azīz al-Dīn 'Ālamgīr II.

This is another copy of the same history of the Khalīfahs. The rubrics are somewhat far between and marked differently, otherwise it is identical with the copy described above. The reigns of the Khalīfahs begin as follows:—

194.

ظفرنامه

Zafar-nāmah.

Fols. 537; 10½ in. by 7 in.; 19 lines, each 4¾ in. long; written in very clear Naskh, with headings in red; illuminated frontispiece; gold ruled round the pages; new margins have been pasted throughout; an inscription on the flyleaf and another at the end indicate that this very old copy was the property of Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ, a physician of Shīrāz, A.H. 1071 (A.D. 1660), who had bought it at Shāhjahānābād (Dehlī) and repaired it. Probably transcribed in the ninth century of the Hijrah.

This is a celebrated history of the life and reign of Tīmūr, by Maulānā Sharaf al-Dīn 'Alī Yazdī (d. а.н. 858, а.в. 1454).

Begins:

 $\mathrm{Beg}$

ظفرنامه

Zafar-nāmah.

Fols. 478; 8½ in. by 6 in.; 17-21 lines, each 5 in. long; written in clear Nasta Tiq, with headings in red; slightly injured by insects; dated A.H. 1076 (A.D. 1665).

Another complete copy of the history of Tīmūr. It agrees with the first British Museum MS. (see Rieu, i, p. 174, last paragraph) in being likewise headed Maqālah I (book the first).

Begins:

توزکِ تیموری Tūzuk-i Tīmūrī.

Fols. 74; 8 in. by  $4\frac{\pi}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $4\frac{\pi}{4}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; paper covers; copied during the governorship of Prince Muḥammad Mu'izz al-Dīn, in the 50th year (of the reign of 'Ālamgīr, A.H. 1118, A.D. 1707) at Multān, by Mullā Khān Muḥammad b. Shaikh Fath Muḥammad Anṣārī.

This is a Persian version of the institutes, political and military, forming the last part of the autobiographical memoirs of Tīmūr. See the complete memoirs usually named ملفوظات تيمورى (the Malfūzat-i Tīmūrī), described above, No. 75.

The beginning of the present copy is defective. In the colophon it is called واقعات امير تيمور (the Wāqi'āt-i Amīr Tīmūr).

200.

گلشن ابراهیمی ـ جلد اوّل Gulshan-i Ibrāhīmī (vol. i).

Fols. 505;  $11\frac{1}{8}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{8}$  in.; 21 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}-4$  in. long; written in neat Nasta'līq; bound in plain leather, which is gilt-lined round the edges; not dated; it is stated on the flyleaf that some person bought it, A.H. 1178 (A.D. 1764).

This is Vol. I of a general history of India from the earliest times to A.H. 1018 (A.D. 1609), the year in which it was presented to Sulțān Naṣīr al-Dīn Ibrāhīm 'Ādil-Shāh, the King of Bījāpūr (A.H. 988-1037, A.D. 1580-1627), at whose desire it had been compiled by the celebrated Muhammad Qāsim Hindū-Shāh, surnamed "Firishtah," who was born in Astarābād about A.H. 960 (A.D. 1552). He was brought up at the Court of Sulțăn Murtază Nizām-Shāh, who ruled at Ahmadnagar (A.H. 972-996, A.D. 1564-1587), where his father Maulānā Ghulām 'Alī Hindū-Shāh had finally settled. Firishtah left Aḥmadnagar, а.н. 998 (а.д. 1589), after the death of Sultān Mīrān Huşain Nizām-Shāh, from whom he had received many favours. He lived to a good old age, but there is uncertainty about the date of his death. The present work, which is celebrated for the impartial and unassuming style of its composition, is commonly called (the Ta'rīkh-i Firishtah).

The present MS. contains a muqaddimah or introduction (on the tenets and early rule of the Hindūs and discourse on the introduction of Islām into India), two complete maqālahs or books, and part of the third maqālah:

Maqālah I. History of the Sultāns of Lahore, known as the Ghaznawides, fol. 24a, from Sabuktagīn to the deposition of Khusrau-Malik, A.H. 582 (A.D. 1186).

Maqālah II. History of the Sultāns of Dehlī, fol. 79a, from the time of the transference of the rule to Shihāb al-Dīn Muḥammad Ghūrī to the death of Akbar, A.H. 1014 (A.D. 1605). There is included in this book an account of the Turkish dynasty known as Slave Kings, fol. 89b; the house of Khiljī, fol. 131b; the Tughluq Sulṭāns, fol. 178b; Tīmūr's invasion of Hindūstān, fol. 210b; the Sayyid dynasty, fol. 217a; the Lūdhīs, fol. 230a; the Empire of the Moghuls: Bābar, fol. 250a; Humāyūn, fol. 278b; followed by Shīr-Shāh and successors in the Sūr line, fol. 289a; Humāyūn again, fol. 311a; and Akbar, fol. 322a.

- III. History of the Sultans of the Dakkan, fol. 362a, in six rauzahs or chapters, but the present MS. contains only the first chapter:
  - The Kings of Gulbargah and Bīdar, styled the Bahmanīs, on fol. 362α.

The mugaddinah begins:

Index, p. 310 sq., and History of India, vi, pp. 207-236 and 532-569; Stewart's Descriptive Cat., p. 12; etc. A complete translation of the work into English is by J. Briggs in his "History of the Rise of the Muhammadan Power in India," London, A.D. 1829. Selected portions have been translated in the "History of Hindostan," by Alexander Dow, London, A.D. 1768; "History of Dekkan," by Jonathan Scott, Shrewsbury, A.D. 1794; the account of Malabar in the Asiatic Miscellany, A.D. 1786, by James Anderson. The text has been lithographed at Bombay and Poona, A.H. 1248 (A.D. 1832); and the same reprinted at Lucknow, A.D. 1281 (A.D. 1864).

خلاصة التواريح

Khulāṣat al-Tawārīkh.

Fols. 576; 8 in. by 4½ in.; 14 lines, each 3 in. long; some of the pages are written diagonally, and some have red borders; written in clear Nasta'līq; with headings in red; copied at Λḥmadābād, A.π. 1175 (A.D. 1761).

A general history of India from the earliest times to the death of the Emperor 'Ālamgīr (A.H. 1118, A.D. 1707), by Munshī Sujān-Rāi (sometime called Shujān-Rāi) of Patiyāla, who compiled and dedicated it to 'Ālamgīr, A.H. 1107 (A.D. 1695).

The author has been misuamed Sanjān (by Morley and Sprenger) and Subḥān (by Lees and Elliot), see references below.

Contents.

- Preface, on fol. 1b; the author enumerates the numerous sources of his work, see fols. 6b-8a (while in this copy their brief description and authors or translators are mentioned, the names of the works in most cases are left blank).
- Account of Hindūstān and its ancient inhabitants, their sacred books, creeds, and castes, on fol. 9a.
- General description of the 22 Ṣābahs or provinces including the Dakkan, Kābul, and Qandahār over which 'Ālamgīr exercised his sovereignty, on fol. 28a.
- History of the Hindū Rājahs from Judhistir to Pithaura, when the country was conquered by the Muslims, on fol. 92b.
- History of the Muhammadan dynasties of Hindustan, on fol. 159b.
- The Ghaznī kings, on fol. 161b; the Ghūrī kings from Shihāb al-Dīn, on fol. 182a; the Slave kings, on fol. 186a; the Khiljī kings, on fol. 210b; the house of Tughluq, on fol. 235a; the Sayyid kings, on fol. 265b; the Lūdhī, with which is incorporated the Sharqī dynasty of Jaunpūr, on fol. 274b; the house of Tīmūr (Tamerlane), on fol. 289a, from Timur to the death of 'Alamgir. In the course of the last, which is by far the largest section, some accounts of the local dynasties, which had either usurped independence for some time or were independent before their dominions were annexed by the Moghuls, are included, viz., the Sultans of Multan, on fol. 304b; Shīr-Shāh and his successors, on fol. 330b; the rulers of Malwah, on fol. 368a; the kings of Gujarāt, on fol. 388a; the kings of Bengal, on fol. 405a; the Sultans of Kashmir, on fol. 422b; the kings of Sindh and Tattah, on fol. 443b; the Bahmanī-Sultāns, on fol. 458b; the kings of Bījāpūr, called 'Ādil-Shāhs, on fol. 460a; the house of Qutb-Shāhs at Gülkundah and Haidarābād, on fol. 460b; the Nizām al-Mulkiyyah dynasty at Ahmadnagar, on fol. 461a.

Accounts of the successive reigns of the great Moghul emperors are found as follows:-

Haft-Gulshan.

Fols. 291;  $9\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; written in Shikastah-Nasta'līq, with headings in red ink; soiled and injured; bound in stamped leather; probably copied towards the end of twelfth century H.

A general history of the Muhammadan rulers of India, compiled, A.H. 1132 (A.D. 1720), by Muhammad Hādī, better known by his title "Kāmwar Khān" (which he received from Bahādur-Shāh I, in the second year of his reign, A.H. 1120, A.D. 1708).

The author was also the continuator of the Jahangir-namah and compiled besides a general history of the Chaghatā'rī Kings.

The present MS. contains a preface in which an account of the bloody feuds of the sons and grandsons of Aurangzib along with the principal intriguers is given. The remainder of the work is divided as follows:—

First Gulshan (book), in three gulbuns (sections):

i. The Muḥammadan Kings and Rājahs, who reigned at Dehlī and other parts of Hindūstān, on fol. 9b.

- ii. The Kings of Jaunpur, called Sharqī-Sultāns, on fol. 138a.
- iii. The Kings of Malwah, on fol. 142b.

Second Gulshan, in two gulbuns:

- i. The Kings of Ahmadābād and Gujarāt, on fol. 159a.
- ii. The rulers of Khāndesh, on fol. 184b.

Third Gulshan, in one gulbun:

The Kings of Bengal, on fol. 190b.

Fourth Gulshan, in six gulbuns:

- i. The Kings of the Dakkan, called Bahmanī-Sultāns, on fol. 196a.
- ii. The Kings of Bījāpūr, called 'Ādil-Shāhs, on fol. 221b.
- iii. The Kings of Ahmadnagar, called Nizām-Shāhs, on fol. 244b.
- iv. The Kings of Ḥaidarābād and Gūlkundah, called Quṭb-Shāhs, on fol. 258a.
- v. The rulers of Berar, called 'Imad-Shahs, on fol. 262b.
- vi. The Kings of Bidar, called Barid-Shähs, on fol. 264a.

Fifth Gulshan, in two gulbuns:

- i. The rulers of Tattah or Sindh, called Jāmīs, on fol. 267b.
- ii. The Kings of Multan, on fol. 270a.

Sixth Gulshan, in one gulbun:

The rulers of Kashmir, on fol. 273b.

Seventh Gulshan, in one gulbun, which is wanting.

а.н. 1182 (а.д. 1768), for Mr. Morison Robert at the request of Mr. Chamier. It was presented to the owner by Nawwäb Muhammad Rizā Кhān, а.д. 1771.

A general History of India from the earliest times to the reign of Farrukhsiyar. An account of the early Kings of Persia is also included in it. The author is Lāl-Rām b. Rāi Dūlah-Rām b. Rāi Kunjaman, who compiled it, a.h. 1148 (a.d. 1735), in the 18th year of Muḥammad-Shāh's reign. The author in the introduction enumerates the sources of information for his work as follows:—

The first three volumes of the History of Akbar called the Akbarnāmah (see Nos. 78 and 208), the Tabaqāt-i Akbarī (see above, No. 77), the Futuḥāt-i Akbarī of Faizī (for the author see above, No. 30), the Ta'rīkh-i Firishtah (see above, No. 200), the Shāh-nāmah of Firdausī (described elsewhere), the Ta'rīkh-i Shamshīr-Khānī (described elsewhere), the Khulāṣat al-Akhbār (خلاصة الاخبار في بيان احوال الاخيار) an abridgement of universal history from the earliest times, by Ghiyās al-Dīn b. Humām al-Dīn, surnamed "Khwānd-Amīr," the author of the Habib al - Siyar, see above, No. 72, and همايون نامه, the Humāyūn-nāmah, who was much favoured by Bābar and Humāyūn, and died in Gujarāt, A.H. 941, A.D. 1534), the Ajā'ib al-Makhlūqāt written in Arabic originally, by Zakariyyā, عجائب المخملوقات) b. The work consists of four books:

Book I, on fol. 2b. Adam and the Creation of the world according to the belief of the Hindūs, of the ten autūrs, and some particulars regarding the existence and duration of the world from the books of Faizī (see above, No. 30), and others.

Book II, on fol. 21. Description of Hindustan, viz.:

- (1) The Subah of Bengal, fol. 21a.
- (2) ,, Bihār ,, 34b.
- (3) ,, Allahābād ,, 36b.

- (4) The Subah of Oudh, fol. 41b.
- (5) ,, Agra ,, 43a.
- (6) ,, Mālwah ,, 43b.
- (7) ,, Dakkan ,, 98a, in seven sections:—(a) The Kings of Khāndesh, called Fārūqiyyah, on fol. 98b. (b) The rulers of Berār, called 'Imād-Shāhs, on fol. 106b. (e) Gulbargah and the Bahmanī-Sulṭāns, on fol. 111a. (d) The Kings of Bījāpūr, called 'Adil-Shāhs, on fol. 122b. (e) Aḥmadnagar and its Kings, called Nizām-Shāhs, on fol. 132a. (f) The Kings of Tilingānah, called Quṭb al-Mulks, on fol. 146a. (g) The Kings of Bīdar, called Barīd-Shāhs, on fol. 150a.
- (8) The Sūbah of Gujarāt, fol. 151a.
- (9) ,, Ajmere ,, 222a.
- (10) ,, Dehlī ,, 227. This chapter, after brief references to Anangpāl and successors, begins with the conquest of the country by Sulṭān Muʿizz al-Dīn Sām (Shihāb al-Dīn Ghūrī), and is brought down to the third year of the reign of Farrukhsiyar, A.H. 1126, A.D. 1714.
- (11) The Sübah of Lahore, fol. 477b.
- (12) ,, Multān ,, 479a.
- (13) ,, Tattah ,, 482b.
- (14) ,, Kashmir ,, 487b.
- (15) ,, Kābul ,, 516b.
- (16) ,, Ghaznī ,, 517a.
- (17) The Muslim saints, beginning on fol. 535a with an account of Shaikh Muḥyī al-Dīn 'Abd al-Qādir Jīlānī, called "Pīr-i Dastagīr," who died at Baghdād A.H. 561 (A.D. 1166).
- (18) Kings and famous persons who have visited India, on fol. 539b.
- (19) Rājahs and Gentu Princes who governed India before the Muḥammadan invasion, on fol. 547a.

Book III, Īrān (Persia), on fol. 563a, in two sections:

- (1) The Kings from the reign of Gayūmars to the death of Yazdajird, on fol. 563b.
- (2) Ancient Greek Philosophers, on fol. 781b.
- Book IV, various remarkable circumstances and conclusion of the work, on fol. 785b.

The introduction begins:

تاریسخ فیروزشاهی Ta'rīkh-i Fīrūz-Shāhī.

Fols. 199;  $10\frac{3}{4}$  in. by 7 in.; 17 lines, each  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, with headings in red; first three folios badly injured in the middle, and the whole MS. slightly stained by damp; dated A.H. 1074 (A.D. 1663).

A history of the life and reign of Fīrūz-Shāh, Sultān of Dehlī, А.н. 752-790 (A.D. 1351-1388). This work, or rather panegyric, upon Fīrūz-Shāh, is stated by its author, Shams-i Sirāj 'Afīf, a great grandson of Malik Sa'd al-Mulk Shihāb (who was 'Amaldar or Commissioner of Abūhar near Dīpālpūr), to have been undertaken by him as a supplement to the History of Fīrūz-Shāh, which was left unfinished, by Ziyā al-Dīn Baranī, the translator from Arabic of (an account of the Barmakides), who died probably soon after A.H.757 (A.D.1356). 'Afif, who was born A.H.751 (A.D.1350), was living after Hindūstān had been invaded by Tīmūr, A.H. 801 (A.D. 1398-1399). Although this work is not well written, yet it enters more into the minutiæ of the life of the Emperor than Persian histories generally do. It contains some particulars of an interesting nature which are not to be met with elsewhere. The chapter which contains an account of the removal of the two pillars of stone with Hindū inscriptions is particularly interesting. The following is a list of its contents:-

Qism (book) I. In eighteen muqaddimahs or chapters:

- i. The birth and parentage of Fīrūz-Shāh, fol. 17a.
- ii. His acquirement of regal knowledge, fol. 19a.

واقعات بابري

Wāqi'āt-i Bābarī.

Fols. 278;  $11\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 17 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; gold-lined round the columns; written in good Nasta liq, on tinted paper, to which new margins have been pasted; not dated; an old and good copy.

These are the Memoirs of the Emperor Zahīr al-Dīn Muḥammad Bābar Barlās Turk, the conqueror and first Moghul Emperor of India (A.H. 932-937, A.D. 1526-1530), written by himself originally in Chaghatārī Turkī (for MS. see Ethé, I.O. Cat., 214, and edition of this work by Ilminski Kasan, A.D. 1857; and French translation by Pavet de Courteille, Paris, A.D. 1871), and rendered subsequently into Persian at the request of his grandson, the great Akbar, by Mirzā 'Abd al-Raḥīm Khān (d. A.H. 1036, A.D. 1626-1627, see No. 107), son of Bairam-Khān. This translation was commenced, A.H. 998 (A.D. 1590).

The present good copy does not contain the introduction, otherwise it is complete, and has been faithfully copied from some reliable MS. Its contents go down to the third of Muḥarram, A.H. 936 (A.D. 1529), and stop abruptly:

The Memoirs begin:

واقعات بابري

Wāqi'āt-i Bābarī.

Fols. 203; 10½ in. by 7 in.; 15 lines, each 4¼ in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq on glazed paper; bound in plain leather; dated а.н. 1303 (а.в. 1885); copyist, Mirzā Sayyid Muḥammad-Shāh Shāhānī.

Another complete copy of the Memoirs of Bābar, which begins like the first copy.

واقعات بابرى

Wāqi'āt-i Bābarī.

Fols. 318;  $9\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each 4 in. long; written in Nasta Iq; probably copied in the twelfth century of the Hijrah.

This MS. of the Memoirs is incomplete. It contained the usual introduction, but this is mostly gone, and two leaves are wanting at the end.

آئينِ اکب*ری* Ā'īn-i Akbarī.

Fols. 249;  $15\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 27 lines, each  $6\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta liq, with headings in red; coloured lines round the pages; dated A.H. 1197 (A.D. 1782).

This is a good copy containing numerous tables of the well-known  $\bar{A}'\bar{\imath}n$  or institutes of the Emperor Akbar the Great. This work, which is usually regarded as a Third Volume or Supplement to the Akbarnāmah (see above, No. 78), is by the same author, Shaikh Abū al-Fazl "'Allāmī." It contains a most minute description and record of Akbar's government in all its departments, revenues, statistics, languages, sciences, religions, laws, physical character, climate, etc.

Begins:

توزک جهانگیری

Tūzuk-i Jahāngīrī.

Fols. 99;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{8}$  in. long; written in small Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; coloured lines round the pages; bound in stamped leather; copied by Mullā 'Abd al-Wājid in the third year of Farrukhsiyar's reign, A.H. 1127 (A.D. 1716).

A fuller version of the so-called spurious Memoirs of the Emperor Nūr-al-Dīn Muḥammad Jahāngīr (d. A.H. 1037, A.D. 1627), containing an account of the transactions of the first thirteen years of his reign

(A.H. 1014-1027, A.D. 1605-1617). They were translated into English by Major D. Price, London, A.D. 1829. The authentic Memoirs were written originally by Jahāngīr himself, probably like those of Bābar (see above Nos. 205-207), in the Chaghatārī Turkī interspersed with verses in Persian, for the Moghul Emperors down to and including Muḥammad-Shāh spoke that language in their private life. It is a historical fact that in order to extricate himself from the influence of the Sayyids, the two King-makers, inasmuch as these men were unacquainted with Turkī, Muḥammad-Shāh propounded his schemes for their overthrow in the presence of one of them with his trustworthy counsellors on the plea that he was forgetting the tongue The Memoirs, however, were either translated or of his ancestors. copied if they were in Persian, and distributed amongst the governors and commanders by the order of Jahangir. The extracts translated by James Anderson, in the Asiatic Miscellany, vol. ii, pp. 71 and 172, حيانگيرنامه A.D. 1785-1786, are taken from the genuine memoirs styled (the Jahangir-namah), not from the present or the following copy. The oldest copy of the present spurious memoirs, dated A.H. 1040 (A.D. 1630), and made only three years after Jahangir's death, has been described by Morley in his Royal Asiatic Society Catalogue, p. 112 sq.

The present copy, in which unfortunately fol. 1 is missing, contains in addition to the Memoirs a collection of moral maxims, etc., under the title of ستور العمل جهانگيرى ("The Dastūr al-'Amal-i Jahāngūrī"), written on the margin, fol. 82b. It concludes with a genealogy of Jahāngūr traced to Tīmūr and carried down to Farrukhsiyar. It further contains references to Khān-i 'Ālam and the transactions of the thirteenth year. This, the last portion, was added by a new hand in the twenty-sixth year of Muḥammad-Shāh's reign, A.H. 1157 (A.D. 1744).

Cf., for the Memoirs generally, Elliot, Hist. of India, vi, p. 276 sq.; Morley (R.A.S. Cat.), loc. cit.; Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), p. 253 sq.; Bodl. Cat., 219-222; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 305-311; Aumer (Munich Cat.), p. 93 sq.; Browne (Camb. Cat.), pp. 169-171; etc. The authentic memoirs in the above mentioned جهانگيرنامه were continued under the Emperor's supervision by Mu'tamad-Khān (see below) to the nineteenth year of Jahāngīr's reign. They were re-edited, with a preface added to it, and brought down to the end of the reign by Muḥammad Hādī, and this revised edition was published by Sayyid Aḥmad Khān (afterwards Sir) under the title of the "Toozuk-i Jehangeeree," Ally Gurh ('Alīgarh), A.H. 1281 (A.D. 1864).

توزک جهانگیری Tüzuk-i Jahāngīrī,

Fols. 141; 8½ in. by 5½ in.; 12 lines, each 3½ in. long; written in clear Nasta Tq, with headings in red; copied much earlier than A.H. 1157 (A.D. 1744), probably in the reign of Farrukhsiyar.

This is another copy of the spurious Memoirs of Jahāngīr. It agrees closely with exix in Morley's Royal Asiatic Society Catalogue, and contains after the Memoirs the book of advice, the Pand-nāmah (پندناهه), on fol. 131b, which was added by I'timād al-Daulah the Wazīr (see fol. 131a).

اقبال نامهٔ جهانگیری

Iqbāl-Nāma-i Jahāngīrī.

Fols. 143; 8½ in. by 4½ in.; 19 lines, each 3 in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, with headings in red; bears seals of the owner, Muḥammad Shafī', poetically styled "Munshī" (A.H. 1150, A.D. 1737).

This is the third volume of a comprehensive history of the Moghul Emperors Akbar and Jahāngīr, continuing the latter's reign from his accession (A.H. 1014, A.D. 1605) to his death (A.H. 1037, A.D. 1627), by Muḥammad Sharīf of Persia entitled Mu'tamad-Khān, a nobleman of Jahāngīr's time, who after the death of Mīr-Jumlah was appointed Mīr-Bakhshī by Shāhjahān. He died, а.н. 1049 (а.д. 1639). The work was undertaken by the author at the desire of Shāhjahān in the seventeenth year of that monarch's reign. The first and second volumes of the Iqbal-nāmah contained the history of Bābar, Humāyūn, and Akbar.

عالمگيرنامه

'Ālamgīr-nāmah.

Fols. 661; 8\frac{3}{4} in. by 5\frac{1}{4} in.; 15 lines, each 3 in. long; written in neat Nasta'līq, on thin glazed paper of a variety of colours; bound in leather, covered with paper; illuminated frontispiece; probably copied a little after the death of the author; bears an inscription that it was bought through Ḥakīm Muḥammad 'Ādil, A.H. 1177 (A.D. 1763).

A copy in good preservation of a detailed history of the first ten years (a.h. 1067-1078, a.d. 1656-1668) of the reign of Abū-al Zafar Muḥyī al-Dīn Muḥammad Aurangzīb, the Emperor 'Ālamgīr, who died at the age of ninety, a.h. 1118 (a.d. 1707). The work was compiled under the supervision of the Emperor by Mirzā Muḥammad Kāzim, who succeeded his father, Muḥammad Amīn, as secretary to 'Ālamgīr. The composition of this work is in excellent style. A Shāhnāmah, a Rūz-nāmah, and an Akhbār-i Ḥasaniyyah are other works attributed to Muḥammad Kāzim, who, according to Muḥammad b. Rustam b. Qubād in his Ta'rīkh-i Muḥammadī, died, a.h. 1092 (a.d. 1681).

Maāsir-i 'Ālamgīrī.

Fols. 305; 10½ in. by 6½ in.; 15 lines, each 4¼ in. long; written in Nasta'līq; illuminated frontispiece; bound in stamped leather; repaired margins; copied at Shāhjahānābād (Dehlī) by La'l-Chand, a Kāyath, in the fourteenth year of Muḥammad - Shāh's reigu, A.H. 1145 (A.D. 1732).

A history of the complete reign of the Emperor 'Ālamgīr, from A.H. 1067 (A.D. 1656) to his death, A.H. 1118 (A.D. 1707). It was compiled, A.H. 1122 (A.D. 1710), by Musta'idd-Khān, surnamed Muḥammad Sāqī, who was secretary to 'Ināyat-allāh Khān. This nobleman was the favourite record writer of 'Ālamgīr and subsequently rose successively to the dignity of Governor of Kashmīr and Wazīr to Shāh-'Ālam. The author had been an eye-witness of many of the incidents recorded, as he had been connected with the Court for about forty years. He died, according to Muḥammad b. Rustam b. Qubād in his Ta'rīkh-i Muḥammadī, а.н. 1136 (а.р. 1723), at Dehlī at the age of seventy-five.

In this work, which consists of two unequal parts, only the second and larger portion, comprising the history of 'Ālamgīr's reign from the beginning of the eleventh year to the end, is Musta'idd-Khān's own work, while the first portion, fols. 1–38, added to complete the account of the reign, is a mere extract from the history of the first ten years by Muḥammad Kāzim (see above).

The first part begins:

The second part, on fol. 38b, begins with an introduction:

فتوحات عالمكيري

Futūḥāt-i 'Ālamgīrī.

Fols. 156;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 14–19 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in Nasta Irq-shikastah-āmīz; not dated.

A history of the Emperor 'Ālamgīr from the time of his rise to power to the 34th year of his reign (a.m. 1101-1102, a.d. 1689-1690), by Īsar-Dās, of Pattan.

In the preface the author states that most of the valuable information for this history he gathered from his association with the Shaikh al-Islām, who, according to the author of the Maāṣir-i 'Ālamgīrī (see above, No. 216), was a son of Qāẓī 'Abd al-Wahhāb, and had succeeded him, A.H. 1086 (A.D. 1675), in the dignity of a chief judge.

The work is divided into seven sāwānih (chapters):—

- I. Fol. 3b. Shāhjahān's sickness, Dārāshikūh fortifies the capital, his treachery, and the troubles consequent upon it throughout the Empire; defeat of Prince Shujā' by Sulaimānshikūh son of Dārā.
- II. Fol. 12b. Aurāngzīb's offer of friendship to his real brother Murād-Bakhsh, his march on Akbarābād (Agra), meeting and co-operation of the two brothers near Ujjain; they defeat Mahārājah Jaswant-Singh, who had come to oppose them; they next encounter and put to flight Dārā, and occupy Akbarābād.
- III. Fol. 23b. Murād recovers from his wounds; Aurangzīb takes leave of Murād to go towards Shāhjahānābād (Dehlī) in pursuit of Dārā; the confederates of Murād having intimated to him their suspicions of Aurangzīb's treachery, he follows him. Aurangzīb imprisons Murād and his son, and is proclaimed Emperor at Dehlī; Aurangzīb's letter to his brother Shujā' asking him to remain content with the rule of Bengal; Shujā' is incensed and continues his preparations; Aurangzīb marches to encounter him; a battle is fought at Khājūrah in the district of Qurah; Shujā', defeated, flees to Bengal, with Prince Mu'azzam in pursuit; details of Jaswant-Singh's treachery; movements of Dārā; Aurangzīb marches to Ajmere, and there defeats Dārā, who on his way to Tattah is seized by a Zamīndār and put to death. Later Shujā' is defeated, and flees towards Mecca. On the journey he is said to have been drowned; account of the death of Murād; Aurangzīb's Farmāns, Shāyistah-Khān, Jaswant-Singh, and others are despatched against Sīwājī in the Deccan; the Imperial army suffers defeat; Sīwājī's ravages; etc.

IV. Fol. 61a. Aurangzīb leaves Dehlī, and marches towards the Deccan; Sīwājī surrenders to Jey-Singh, and is sent to Dehlī; his subsequent escape.

The remaining events of Aurangzīb's reign are divided by rubrics, but are no longer numbered.

The revolt and subsequent annihilation of a tribe named Mundhai, on fol. 68b.

The affairs of Kābul, on fol. 69a.

Auraugzīb's march against the Rānā of Chitūr, on fol. 81a.

Revolt of Prince Muḥammad Akbar and Aurangzīb's capture of Ḥaidarābād and Bījāpūr, on fol. 82b.

Salere and other forts taken in the Karnātic, on fol. 108a.

Division and allotment of the castles taken from Sambhājī, etc., on fol. 112b.

After recording numerous other captures, the author in the last few pages describes the circumstances of the death of  $\bar{A}g\underline{h}ur-\underline{K}\underline{h}\bar{a}n$  in the neighbourhood of Akbarābād, at the hands of plundering Jāts, on fol. 152b; the transfer, appointment, and increase in the allowances of various personages; submission of Durgā-Dās; etc.

There are no dates given of any of the events, but, from consulting other works on the same subject, the latest events happened in A.H. 1101-1102 (A.D. 1689-1690), in the 34th year of Aurangzīb's reign.

A collection of letters written by 'Ālamgīr to Amīr-Khān and others. These were collected, as stated in the introduction, after the death of Amīr-Khān (circā a.m. 1131, a.d. 1719), by his son Sayyid Ashraf-Khān (Mīr Muḥammad Ḥusainī), from the remnants left by his father. Amīr-Khān Sindhī (Mīr 'Abd al-Karīm) was the son of Amīr-Khān (Abū al-Baqā), and grandson of Qāsim-Khān (Abū al-Qāsim 'Namakīn' of Herāt). He was appointed to various posts during the reign of 'Ālamgīr, Bahādur-Shāh, and Farrukhsiyar. The collection here contains letters mostly written to Amīr-Khān, with brief notes and orders of the Emperor.

This work (copied for the donor by one of the compilers from the holograph copy) is a short history of Kashmir from the earliest times. It was begun originally at the desire of some English officials by Mirzā Saif al-Dīn, who held the post of record writer in Kashmir, and brought down by him to A.H. 1277 (A.D. 1859), but he died a year later. Some time after, the donor, on his appointment as British Agent in Kashmir, requested the brother and successor in office of the deceased, Mirzā Muhyi al-Dīn, to continue and complete it; and he accordingly (see colophon) added a few subsequent events which had come under his own observation and finished the work on the 22nd October, A.D. 1861. In the introduction it is stated that the material for this work was obtained from some old books of the Shastris in Sanskrit, and those of Malik-Ḥaidar Chādavarī (b. Ḥasan-Malik b. Kamāl al-Dīn Muḥammad Nājī b. Malik-Nusrat, better known as Ra'īs al-Mulkī, who completed his work, а.н. 1030, а.д. 1621), Muḥammad 'Azām Dīdahmarī (b. Khair-i Zamān-Khān, who completed his "Wāqi'āt-i Kashmīr," A.H. 1160, A.D. 1747), Narāyan-Kūl (poetically styled "'Azīz," a Brahman, who completed his work, а.н. 1122, а.д. 1710), Mīr Sa'd-allāh Shāhābādī, and Purbar-Pandit Kāchrū.

وقائع سورتهه Waqā'i' Sūrath.

Fols. 105; 8½ in. by 6½ in.; 14 lines, each 4½ in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah, with headings in red; copied at the request of the donor from a MS. belonging to one of the descendants of the author by Mihrbān, son of Farīdūn Pārsī Īrānī, A.H. 1287 (A.D. 1870).

A history of Sūrat (ancient Sūrāshtara) in Gujarāt, compiled for his son Sunkar-Parshād, from official sources and what came under his own observation, by Ranchūrjī, son of Amarjī, Dīwān of Jūnāgaṛh (the largest state in Kāṭhiyāwāṛ). The work, which treats especially of the history of Jūnāgaṛh and Naunagar, from the earliest times, was completed on Wednesday in Jeṭh of Samwat, 1886 (16th Zulḥijjah, A.H. 1245, 9th June, A.D. 1830). It is also known as the Ta'rīkh-i Sūrath. All the dates given are in the Samwat Era.

(iv) Rohilla-Afghāns.

236.

تا ریخ فیض بخش Ta'rīkh-i Faiz Bakhsh.

Fols. 204;  $7\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 13 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; not dated.

A history of the Rohilla-Afghāns from their first settlement in Kāṭhar (Rohilkanḍ) to their defeat, а.н. 1188 (а.в. 1774), by Shiw-Parshād, who was in the service of Nawwāb Faiẓ-allāh Кhān.

In the introduction after the Praise, the anthor dwells on the seven virtues of his master, the beauties of the city of Rāmpūr and the river Kūsī, on which it stands. He further states that when sent to negotiate at Balgrām with the Colonel in command of the British force he became acquainted with Captain Kirkpatrick, who introduced him to his brother, and it was at the latter's request that the present work was compiled and completed by the author, A.H. 1190 (A.D. 1776).

It is supposed that Mr. Charles Hamilton founded his "Historical relation of the origin, progress and final dissolution of the Rohilla-Afghāns," London, A.D. 1787, on this work, but this is doubtful. Although Hamilton's work is substantially the same, he states that the author of the work from which he took his material was an Afghān, whereas in this case the author was a Hindū.

After the introduction the anthor gives a brief account of the former Afghān chiefs from Shīr-Shāh Sūr to 'Ādilī (on fol. 10b). This is followed by the history proper of the Rohilla chiefs from the appointment of Shāh-'Ālam-Khān and his brother Ḥasan-Khān in Rohilkanḍ during Shāhjahān's reign (on fol. 13a), and 'Alī Muḥammad-Khān, the grandson of the former (from fol. 14b). The book ends with the victory gained over the Rohillas by Nawwāb Shuja' al-Daulah assisted by his English allies at Lāl-Dāng, а.н. 1188 (а.р. 1744), the subsequent peace and settlement.

انتظام راج اعظمگره Intigām-i Rāj-i A'gamgarh.

Fols. 114;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 13–16 lines, each 3 in. long; written in clear Nasta līq; copyist, Sayyid Amīr 'Alī Razwī; dated, A.H. 1289 (A.H. 1872).

The story of the rulers of A'zamgarh (a Ta'alluqah in the United Provinces of India), from the time of Abhman-Singh and Sagar-Rāi, sons of Chand-Sen, of the tribe of Rajpūts and Zamīndārs of Mahnagar (in the parganah of Nizāmābād), till the death of the Rānī, wife of the Rājah Muḥammad A'zam Khān, and end of the rāj (rule).

The work, which in its composition is interspersed with numerous verses, was compiled by Girdhāri (see introduction), a muḥarrir or clerk in the office of the Qānān-gūyān or Lawgivers. It was written, A.H. 1216 (A.D. 1801), when the British had newly taken the country into their hands.

سرگذشت راجهای اعظمگره Sarguzasht-i Rājahā-i Aʻzamgarh.

Fols. 20; 8½ in. by 5¼ in.; 14 lines, each 3 in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; bound in plain leather; copied for the donor by the author himself from his holograph copy, A.H. 1289 (A.D. 1872).

Another brief account of the rulers of A'zamgarh by Sayyid Amīr 'Alī Razwī, who mentions several nobles of Nizāmābād, all of whom had attained long ages, as the authority for this work. The history begins from the adventures of Abhman-Singh, son of Chandar-Sen-Rāi, of the tribe of Gōtam, who received the title of Nādir-Daulat-Khān from the great Akbar, and ends with the transfer of the district in Faṣli 1205 (A.D. 1801) by the Nawwāb Wazīr Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān of Oudh (see above, No. 127) to the British. At the end there is given a genealogical tree of the rulers.

لب التواريخ Lubb al-Tawārīkh.

Fols. 171; 9½ in. by 5 in.; 17 lines, each 3 in. long; written in 'good Naskh, with headings in red; bound in stamped leather; injured and stained; the first two fols. are badly foxed; scribe, Shahr-allāh b. Shams al-Dīn; an old copy.

An abridgement of universal history, especially the history of Persia, from the earliest times to A.H. 948 (A.D. 1541). It was compiled, A.H. 948 (A.D. 1541), by Amīr Sayyid Yaḥyā b. 'Abd al-Laṭīf al-Ḥusainī al-Qazwīnī, and dedicated to Prince Abū al-Fatḥ Bahrām-Mirzā, a brother of Shāh-Ṭahmāsp Ṣafawī. The author was much favoured by the latter, but at the instigation of his enemies was put in prison, where he died at the age of seventy-five, A.H. 962 (A.D. 1555). He is mentioned in various Arabic and Persian works, e.g., Maāṣir al-'Umarā' (here he is called Mīr Yaḥyā Ḥusain Saifī), Haft-Iqlīm, Kaṣḥf al-Zunūn of Ḥājī Khalfah (here he is named Ismā'īl b. 'Abd al-Laṭīf), Ā'īn-i Akbarī, etc.

The work is divided into four qisms (parts):

- Qism I, in two faṣls (chapters): (1) History of Muḥammad the Prophet, fol. 2b. (2) The Imāms, fol. 7b.
- Qism II, in four faṣls, on the ante-Islamic history: (1) The Pīshdādians, eleven kings, fol. 17a. (2) The Kayānians, ten in number, fol. 21a. (3) The Sāsānians, from Alexander the Great to Ardashīr-Bābakān, who reigned over Persia for three hundred and eighteen years, fol. 26a. (4) The Mulūk al-Tawā'if, fol. 31a.
- Qism III, in two maqālahs (discourses) and six  $b\bar{a}bs$  (chapters), on the kings posterior to Islām:

Maqālah i. The house of the Banū-Umayyah, fourteen in number, who ruled for ninety-one years, fol. 35a.

Maqālah ii. The Banū-'Abbās, thirty-three, for five hundred and four years, fol. 38b. (In other collections this work contains a third maqālah on the history of the first three Khalīfahs — Abū Bakr Ṣiddīq, 'Umar Fārūq, and 'Uṣmān.)

Bāb i. In eleven faşls, on the history of the minor Kings of Persia in the time of the 'Abbāside Khalīfahs: (1) The Ṭāhiris, these were five, and the Persian poetry began in their time, fol. 46b. (2) The Saffārīs were three, and ruled for thirty-four years, fol. 48b. (3) The Sāmānīs ruled for one hundred and one years, fol. 49b. (4) The Ghaznawides were fourteen, and reigned one hundred and fifty years, fol. 51a. (5) The house of Ghūr, five Sultans, for sixty-four years, fol. 54b. (6) The Al-i Buwaih, seventy kings, whose reign extended over one hundred and twenty-seven years, fol. 56a. (7) The fourteen Saljūqī monarchs for one hundred and sixty years, fol. 60a. (8) Nine Khwārazmshāhīs, reigned over Khurāsān, Māwarā al-Nahr, 'Irāq, etc., for one hundred and thirty-eight years, fol. 67b. (9) The Atābaks, in three shu'bahs (sections), the eleven Salgharis, who ruled over Fars for one hundred and twenty years, fol. 70a; the nine kings, who governed Syria and Mesopotamia for one hundred and seventy-seven years, fol. 71b; and the six rulers of 'Irāq, fol. 73a. (10) The Ismā'īlīs, in two shu'bahs: those of the west, fol. 75a; and those of Īrān, called Khwāndīs and Mulāḥidīs, who reigned for one hundred and seventy-one years, fol. 78a. (11) The nine Qarakhitā'ī-Sultāns who governed Kirman for eighty-seven years, fol. 80b.

Bāb ii. The Moghul sovereigns, twenty-one in number, who ruled over Persia for one hundred and fifty years, from Chingīz-Khān to Abū Saʿīd Mirzā, fol. 82a.

Bāb iii. The Mulūk al-Ṭawā'if, who succeeded the Moghuls in Persia, in five faṣls: (1) The Chūpānīs, fol. 95a. (2) The Ilkānīs, fol. 97a. (3) Amīr Shaikh Abū Ishāq Injū and the Muzaffarīs, in two maqālahs, fol. 99a. (4) The Kurṭ kings who ruled over Herāt, etc., for one hundred and thirty years, fol. 108a. (5) The twelve Sarbadār kings of Khurāsān, who reigned for eighty-five years, fol. 112b.

Bāb iv. The Tīmūrides in Persia, fol. 116b.

Bāb v. The Turkish Qarāquyunlū and Aqquyunlū kings in two fasls; the former reigned for sixty-three, fol. 137b, and the latter were nine and governed for forty-two years, fol. 143a.

Bāb vi. The Uzbaks, who came to Māwarā al-Nahr and Khurāsān, after a.H. 900 (a.D. 1494), fol. 153a.

Qism IV. The history of the Ṣafawīs.

240. آرای عباسی عالم آرای عباسی Ālamārā-i 'Abbāsī.

Fols. 570; 11 in. by  $6\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 25 lines, each  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; the first two pages of the two parts are ornamented with gold and possess illuminated frontispieces; gold-lined round the pages throughout; two parts in one; both written in fair Nasta'līq, with headings in red; the first in a smaller hand by Muhibb 'Alī b. Hājī Yūsuf Shīrāzī, and the second by Hājī Shams al-Dīn b. Hājī Ghiyās al-Dīn Mayānī; dated A.H. 1064 (A.D. 1653).

A complete copy in two parts of the life and reign of Shāh-'Abbās the Great, the seventh King of the Safawi dynasty who reigned over Persia for 44 years and died at the age of 60, A.H. 1038 (A.D. 1629). The work was originally completed and dedicated to 'Abbās, A.H. 1025 (A.D. 1616), but was afterwards continued, brought down to A.H. 1038 (A.D. 1629), including a history of the Shāh's predecessors, and inscribed to Shāh-Safī by Iskandar Beg, better known as Munshī, who was one of the record writers at the Court.

As stated in the preface, the author divided his work into a muqaddimah or introduction, two sahīfahs or books, and a khātimah The introduction deals with the genealogy of 'Abbas or conclusion. and the history of his ancestors and predecessors, including a detailed history of Shāh-Ismā'īl II and his son Shāh-Tahmāsp. The first book contains an account of the birth of 'Abbas, A.H. 978 (A.D. 1571), the principal events of his early days; brief notices on some of the notable men of the period; a history of Shāh-Ismā'īl II, his son Shāh-Tahmāsp (d. A.H. 985, AD. 1577), and his son Muḥammad Khudābandah to the accession of Shāh-'Abbās, A.H. 996 (A.D. 1587), and the high qualities and noble endowments of the Shah. The second book, fol. 199, contains a detailed history of Shāh-'Abbās the Great from his accession to his death, in two magsads, the second part containing an account of the last thirteen years of the reign, which was supplemented by the author as stated above. The khātimah, which was to contain wonderful incidents of the time, and which was to be followed by a third book of history, was never completed.

The preface begins:

Fols. 5;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 14 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the Raqā'im Karā'im, etc.; not dated.

A letter stated to have been sent by Shāh-'Abbās II, of Persia, after his conquest of Qandahār, A.H. 1058 (A.D. 1648), to Jahāngīr (?), the Emperor of India, with the reply of the latter. This is evidently wrong, for 'Abbās II, who ascended the throne, A.H. 1052 (A.D. 1642), was a contemporary of Shāhjahān.

The letter begins:

Fols. 223; 8 in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{3}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; headings in red; frontispiece illuminated with gold; gold-lined round the pages; injured by insects, chiefly on the margins; copyist, Ghulām Ḥusain b. Shaikh Muḥammad 'Alī b. Shaikh Mihr 'Alī Quraishī 'Abbāsī al-Hāshimī; an old copy.

A Persian version of the original in Arabic, termed:

خلاصة المفاخر في مناقب الشيخ عبد القادر و جماعة لمن عظمة الله تعالى من الشيوخ الاكابر _

(see first page, line 4) of Shaikh 'Abd-allāh Yāfi'ī (Yamanī b. As'ad b. 'Alī), who died, A.H. 768 (A.D. 1366), at Mecca, where, and at Medina, he had lived for about fifty years. Before he had finally settled in Hijāz, he had travelled in Syria and Egypt. He belonged to a Himyarite tribe in Yemen, and received his early training at Aden, and for his Ṣūfīism he was indebted to Shaikh 'Alī b. 'Abd-allāh al-Ṭawāṣhī (d. A.H. 748, A.D. 1347). At Mecca he studied law under Shaikh Najm al-Dīn Ispahānī (d. A.H. 730, A.D. 1329), whose name also appears in this work in connection with his approbation of the author's work called المنافقة المنا

The present translation was made by 'Ibād-allāh, on hearing of the merits of the work from Shaikh Jalāl al-Dīn Bukhārī. It contains two hundred and sixteen stories, which mostly refer to the celebrated Muḥammadan saint, Shaikh 'Abd al-Qādir Jīlānī, called also "Pīr-i Dastgīr" and "Ghaus al-A'zam" Muḥyī al-Dīn, who died at Baghdād, A.H. 561 (A.D. 1166). Each story begins with the name of the person on whose authority it is related, and in story No. 215 some of the sayings, etc., of the great Shaikh are also included.

The Persian version, described in Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 643 (without the translator's name), seems to be identical with this.

Rashaḥāt-i 'Ain al-Ḥayāt.

Fols. 350;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 19 lines, each  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; gold-ruled round the pages; written in neat Nasta'līq, with headings in red ink; slightly injured and repaired in some parts; bound in gilt-stamped leather, probably copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

A well-known collection of biographies of spiritual guides of the Naqshbandī order and principally of Khwājah Naṣīr al-Dīn 'Ubaidallāh, by his disciple Maulānā Fakhr al-Dīn 'Alī b. al-Ḥusain al-Wā'iz al-Kāshifī, better known by his poetical name "Ṣafī," who died, A.H. 939 (A.D. 1532). It is stated that the author took sixteen years to compile this work, which he finished (according to the title of the book "," which is its chronogram, and several other ta'rīkhs mentioned at the end), A.H. 909 (A.D. 1503).

The work is divided into a  $maq\bar{a}lah$  (introduction) on fol. 4, which contains notices of the  $\underline{Kh}$  wājahs, who were the spiritual guides of the Naq $\underline{sh}$ bandī order, two  $maq\underline{s}ads$  (parts), and a  $\underline{kh}$ ātimah or epilogue.

- Maqṣad I. Fol. 198a, is subdivided into three faṣls (sections), and contains a graphic account of the ancestors of Khwājah 'Ubaid-allāh, called also Khwājah Aḥrār, the spiritual guide of the author, his birth, A.H. 806 (A.D. 1404), early life, character, and associations in Samarqand and Khurāsān with Sayyid Qāsim Tabrīzī, Shaikh Bahā al-Dīn 'Umar, and Ya'qūb Jarkhī.
- Maqsad II. Fol. 232a, in three fasls, contains principally his sayings.
- Maqṣad III. Also in three faṣls, contains an account of some of the manifestations of his spiritual power as told by his numerous disciples who had witnessed them.
- Khātimah. Fol. 246, contains notice of his death (which occurred at Samarqand, A.H. 895, A.D. 1490, at the age of 89).

مجالس المؤمنين Majālis al-Mu'minīn.

Fols. 648; 11\(\frac{3}{4}\) in. by 7\(\frac{3}{4}\) in.; 23 lines, each 4\(\frac{3}{4}\) in. long; written in distinct Nasta'līq, with headings in red; bound in plain leather; copied by N\(\text{ur}\) 'Alī, A.H. 1157 (A.D. 1744).

These are the biographies of the most notable Muslims who professed the Shi'ah doctrine from the earliest time of Islām to A.H. 905 (A.D. 1499), when the Shī'ah faith was recognised as the state religion in Persia by the Safawī dynasty. This great work was compiled, between A.H. 993 and 1010 (A.D. 1585–1602), by Qāzī Sayyid Nūr-allāh b. Sharīf al-Mar'ashī al-Ḥusainī al-Shūstarī, who was a nobleman at the court of the great Akbar and the author of several Shī'ah works. He was a zealous Shī'ite, and in Jahāngīr's time, A.H. 1019 (A.D. 1610), suffered death for his religious opinions.

The work is divided into a fātiḥah (introduction) and twelve majālis (books):

Fātiḥah, fol. 2b, last line: On the definition of the Shī ah in general and the Imāmiyyah in special.

Majlis I, fol. 10a: On places connected specially with the Imāms and the Shī'ah.

Majlis II, fol. 51b: On some tribes known to profess the Shī'ah faith.

Majlis III, fol. 66a: On the Companions of the Prophet, who were Shī'ites.

Majlis IV, fol. 117a: On the immediate followers and disciples of the Companions.

Majlis V, fol. 142a: On the theologians, commentators, traditionists, dignitaries, legists, ecclesiastical functionaries, grammarians, and lexicographers, in the generation succeeding the Companions.

Majlis VI, fol. 262a: On the Sūfīs.

Majlis VII, fol. 348a: On the philosophers.

Majlis VIII, fol. 378b: On the kings. This majlis is subdivided into a muqaddinah (introduction) on fol. 378b, and sixteen junds (chapters) comprising as many royal dynasties:

(1) fol. 392a, (2) fol. 406a, (3) fol. 407a, (4) fol. 408b,

(5) fol. 410b, (6) fol. 425a, (7) fol. 428b, (8) fol. 436a,

(9) fol. 438a, (10) fol. 440b, (11) fol. 443a, (12) fol. 444b,

(13) fol. 456b, (14) fol. 462a, (15) fol. 464a, and (16) fol. 406b.

Majlis IX, fol. 474a: On the famous governors and generals.

Majlis X, fol. 493b: On the great Wazīrs and secretaries.

Majlis XI, fol. 527b: On the celebrated Arab poets.

Majlis XII, fol. 579b: On the Persian poets. This majlis begins with Firdausī and Asadī, and ends with Ahlī Shīrāzī and Lisānī.

An index has been added at the beginning written by Muhammad 'Alī. At the end it is stated that the copy, from which the present one was evidently made, was collated with the original MS. and completed, according to a chronogram, A.H. 1028 (A.D. 1618).

تأريح بابا نصيب

Ta'rīkh-i Bābā Naṣīb.

Fols. 428;  $9\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in excellent small Naskh, with headings in red, on thin glazed paper; coloured lines round the pages; slightly injured by insects; probably copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

This is a work on history by Bābā Naṣīb, who was a celebrated saint of Kaṣhmīr, and died, A.H. 1047 (A.D. 1637). The work, which is also known as the Rīṣhī-nāmah or the Darwīṣh-nāma-i Mullā Naṣīb, consists in this instance of two parts:

- I. فكر مناقب خلفاء اربع (the virtues, etc., of the first four Khalīfahs), fol. 1b.
- نرویش نامه (the biographies of holy men of Kashmīr), fol. 135a.

Contents of Part I:-

Preliminary remarks on the respect due to the first great Khalīfahs of Islām, fol. 1b. Short anecdotes connected with the Khalīfahs: Abī Bakr Ṣiddīq, fol. 35a; 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb, fol. 68a; 'Uṣmān b. 'Affān, fol. 91b; 'Alī b. Abī Tālib, fol. 100b. The Family of the Prophet, fol. 126a. The forty persons who have been free from sin, fol. 132a.

Contents of Part II :-

At the commencement the author laments (see fol. 135a) that while numerous well-known biographies of holy men have been written in the west and south, none has ever been undertaken in Kashmīr itself dealing with its own great men. It was to fill this literary gap, and imbued as he was with respect and love for the saints as he further states, that he compiled the present work. In its composition are interspersed numerous texts from the Qurān and the Traditions, as well as verses in the Kashmīrī language (all, however, explained in Persian). The biography opens with an account of Shaikh Nūr al-Dīn Walī (who was born A.H. 770, A.D. 1368), and the following are the names of some of the other holy men, who flourished in Kashmīr, stories of whose learning, piety, and spiritual powers are described in this work:—

- (1) Bābā Bām al-Dīn, fol. 205b.
- (2) Bābā Zain al-Dīn, fol. 290b.
- (3) Bābā Laṭīf al-Dīn, fol. 301b.
- (4) Bābā Naṣīr al-Dīn, fol. 303α.
- (5) Bābā Rajab al-Dīn, fol. 304b.
- (6) Bābā Shukr al-Dīn, fol. 318b.
- (7) Bābā Laṭīf al-Dīn's disciples, fol. 331b.
- (8) Bābā Naurūz Rīshī, fol. 336b.
- (9) Malik Saif al-Dīn, fol. 342a.
- (10) Mirzā Ḥaidar Kāshgharī, fol. 347b.
- (11) Hazrat Makhdum Shaikh Hamzah, fol. 351b.

The work concludes with brief notices of a few minor Bābās. The first part begins:

The second part begins on fol. 135a:

المعبود لجمیع العباد . . . . اما بعد می گوید فقیر حقیر نصیب کشمیری خاک روب جمیع عزیزان و بزرگان و فیاضان ـ الخ (David Anderson.)

246.

تواریخ میر سید شریف " راقم " "Tawārīkh-i Mīr Sayyid Sharīf " Rāqim."

Fols. 188; 9 in. by 5½ in.; 15 lines, each 3½ in. long; written in Nasta'līq, with headings in red; coloured lines round the pages; copied at Shāhjahānābād (Dehlī), A.H. 1145 (A.D. 1732), by Mīr Shihāb al-Dīn b. Khwājah Buzurg-Shāh al-Makhdūmiyyah al-Khwārazmiyyah.

A chronological account of some of the kings, learned and holy men who flourished, A.H. 736-1045 (A.D. 1335-1635), during the period of the Moghul sovereignty in Central Asia, Persia, and India. On the flyleaf this work is named, in the hand of the donor, "the Tareekh Keymoors." The name of the author, Mīr Sayyid Sharīf, poetically styled "Rāqim," appears after the end of the work, where a few of his ahazals and qaṣīdahs are written.

The work contains at the beginning a brief history of Tīmūr. In the case of distinguished men, not only their brief biographies are given, but, with no exception, chronograms in verse of their death are also rendered, a few of the latter being of the author's own composition.

The preface, which contains some remarks on the writing of the chronograms, begins:

V. GEOGRAPHY.

247.

بنجته العالم Bahjat al-'Ālam.

Fols. 256;  $9\frac{1}{5}$  in. by  $5\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in neat Nasta'līq, on reddish paper, with headings in red; gold-lined round the pages; frontispieces illuminated with gold; slightly soiled by damp; probably copied about the end of the twelfth century of the Hijrah.

An excellent copy of a work on general geography by Ḥakīm Mahārat-Khān Ispahānī, who resided mostly at Dehlī in the time of the Emperor Bahādur-Shāh I, and completed it a little after the death, а.н. 1124 (а.в. 1712), of that Emperor (cf. Rieu, B.M.P. Cat., iii, p. 992, where a short extract from it is described). In the preface and also in the colophon the author states that after completing this work, which forms the first volume of a larger work, he started writing a second volume which was to be entitled (the colophon the author).

Rauzat al-Afrāḥ), containing a translation from Arabic of حريدة (the Jarīdat al-Ajā'ib), حفة الألباب (the Tuḥfat al-Albāb), and سالة أحوال بهنسا (the Risāla-i Aḥwāl-i Bhansā), the last work containing an account of the place where Jesus was brought up.

The present work, which is principally based upon the celebrated geographical and biographical encyclopædia, entitled the Haft-Iqlīm (هفت اقلیم), of Amīn Aḥmad Razī, contains:

- I. Index to the work, pp. i-iv.
- II. Preface, fols. 1-3, beginning:

الحمدلله والصلواة على رسوله . . . . وبعد چون دريافت غرايب مبدعات وعجايب مصنوعات حكيم قد يركه در اقاليم سبعه وطبقات عناصر اربعه ومواليد ثلاثه است _ الح

The last section includes more detailed notices and deals with objects of special interest, chiefly:

- (a) احوال بعضى از ممالک روم, fol. 153a, taken principally from the Hasht-Bihisht (a history of the first eight Sultāns of Turkey, by Idrīs b. Ḥusām al-Dīn al-Bidlīsī, who died م.н. 926, م.р. 1520).
- (b) تـوصيف بـعـضى از بىلاد هـند (extracted from the fourth (more properly the third) volume of Akbar-nāmah of Abū al-Faẓl (see the Ā'īn-i Akbarī described above, Nos. 208–210), and contains descriptions of Bengal, fol. 17a; Orissa, fol. 181a; Bihār, fol. 183b; Ujjain, fol. 184b; Thānīsar, fol. 185b; and Multān, fol. 186a.
- (و) احوال بلاد متفرقه, gathered principally from the work entitled the "Anīs al-'Ārifīn," and contains accounts of various towns and tracts, fol. 1886.

- (d) د عجایب جزایر, obtained chiefly from the 'Ajā'ib al-Makhlūqāt (the Persian version of the first part of the Arabic Cosmography of Zakariyyā b. Muḥammad b. Maḥmūd al-Qazwīnī, who died а.н. 682, а.р. 1283), containing notices of islands.
- (e) در عجایب, fol. 225b, about mountains, taken from the Tuḥafat al-Gharā'ib, the same as 'Ajā'ib al-Makhlūqāt.

Fols. 15; 8\frac{3}{4} in. by 5\frac{3}{4} in.; 14 lines, each 3\frac{3}{4} in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the Raqā'im-i Karā'im, etc.; not dated.

This is a detached portion taken from the geographical work of the same name, which was written after the death of the Emperor 'Ālamgīr (A.H. 1118, A.D. 1707), by Sayyid Amīn al-Dīn Khān b. Abū al-Makārim Amīr-Khān al-Ḥusainī al-Harawī (see above, No. 219). It contains brief accounts of the titulature of the Emperor, the Princes, the Princesses, and the nobles of the Court of Dehlī. Brief references to the Ṣābahs (provinces), areas, revenues, distances between various places, and accounts of the offices are also included.

دستور الاطتباء "Dastūr al-Atibbā

Fols. 123; 12\frac{2}{4} in. by 8\frac{1}{4} in.; 17 lines, each 5 in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; bound in gilt-stamped leather; bears a seal of the year A.H. 1222 (A.D. 1807); copyist, Muḥammad Badr al-Dīn, known as Shay Aḥmad.

A work on the Indian system of medicine. It was compiled by the celebrated Muḥammad Qāsim Hindū-Shāh, commonly known as Firishtah (see his Gulshan-i Ibrāhīmī, No. 200).

The work is divided into a muqaddinah (introduction), three maqālahs (chapters), and a khātimah (epilogue):

The muqaddimah, on the component parts of the human body and its four humours, viz.: blood, phlegm, yellow bile, and black bile (مر ف کر ار کان بدن و اخلاط و غیره), fol. 1b, in nine fa'idahs or sections with numerous fasls or subsections.

The maqālah I, on the characters and actions of simple drugs and aliments in alphabetical order (عر خواص ادویه و اغذیه مغرده), on fol. 12a, in twenty-three bābs.

The maqālah II, on the compound medicaments (در مرکّبات مشهور), on fol. 45b, in fifteen babs.

در معالجات عليل), on the treatment of diseases (بطريق اجمال), on fol. 72b, in one hundred and sixty fasls.

The khātimah, on the six tastes and savours, and the classification of land with regard to water (در شرح انواع مزه وقسمت ربح مسكون), on fol. 122a.

The preface begins:

In the colophon the book is entitled مرشته فرشته وكتاب طب دستورطب فرشته but in Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), p. 580, and Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 2323, it is entitled المتعاربات قاسمي بدستور الاطبّا See also Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.

شفاء المرض

Shifa' al-Marz.

Fols. 97;  $9\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 15 lines, in two central columns; each  $1\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq, with headings in red; slightly injured by insects; bound in plain leather; not dated.

A compendium of medicine in verse, compiled, A.H. 990 (A.D. 1582), by Shihāb (al-Dīn) b. 'Abd al-Karīm. The author has at the end written an account of himself to the effect that his ancestors originally belonged to Ghaznī (here written (غرني); a few ruled Nāgūr, and that one of them entitled Muḥammad-Malik collected revenues of that province for seven or eight years. The author's father was engaged in mercantile pursuits, and trade again served to sustain the author, who practised medicine only in the service of God. The work consists of 160 bābs or chapters. Two copies of the same work are mentioned in Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 2315–2316.

Fols. 101; 8 in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 13 lines, each 4 in. long; written in Nasta līq, with headings coloured red and technical terms overlined, by the author himself, about A.H. 1133 (A.D. 1720); bound in stamped leather; injured and loose.

A treatise on medicine, of which this is a holograph copy, compiled, as is stated in the preface, for his son Chanpā, by Aithippā, a physician attached to the dispensary at Bījāpūr, who had spent a long time attending for his instruction upon Ḥakīm Muḥammad Ḥusain Yūnānī and Ḥakīm Muḥammad Ma'ṣūm Ispahānī. The material for this work was derived principally from the Zakhīra-i Khwārazmshāhī and Qarābādī (of Zain al-Dīn Abū Ibrāhīm Ismā'īl b. al-Ḥasan b. Muḥammad b. Aḥmad al-Ḥusainī al-Jurjānī, who died а.н. 531 or 535, а.в. 1136–1137 or 1140–1141).

The preface begins:

In the present work there is first a short vocabulary of some parts of the human body and some drugs with their equivalents in Arabic and Hindī. It further contains hints on the examination of patients, and symptoms and treatment of a number of diseases, and pregnancy. A large part of the work is devoted to the various kinds of fevers.

طب نوری Tibb-i Nūrī.

Fols. 61; written in Nasta'līq, mostly on the margins of the Shifa' al-Marz; about A.H. 1133 (A.D. 1720).

A treatise on medicine in verse. No clue to the author is given.

The work is divided into thirty  $b\bar{a}bs$ : (1) The causes of disease in general; (2) The tastes; (3) Headaches; (4) The ear; (5) The eye; (6) Catarrh; (7) Kalaf or  $Jh\bar{a}^2\bar{\imath}$  (spots on the face); (8) The teeth; (9) Khauz $\bar{\imath}r$  (probably Khūrah, viz. leprosy); (10) The chest; (11) The axilla; (12) Skin eruptions; (13) Liver and stomach; (14) Dyspepsia; (15) Dropsy; (16) Thirst; (17) Jholah or sunstroke; (18) Sanpāt (the name of a disease in which the whole body is seized with chilliness); (19) Fevers; (20) Pindaqak (probably bandarkhat or running sore); (21) Daur-i wamasaha; (22) Itch; (23) Guinea worm; (24) Wounds; (25) Ulcers, etc.; (26) Gangrene; (27) Bād-i farang or Erysipelas; (28) Dryness of hands and feet; (29) Piles; (30) Kanūlbād or Kanwalbād.

رساله در علم ٍ وفـــق Risālah dar 'Ilm-i Wafq.

Fols. 18; 9 in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each 3 in. long; written in Nasta līq-shikastah, about A.H. 1108 (A.D. 1696); numerous tables; copyist, Maulānā Ahmad b. Sulaimān.

This is the fourth  $maq\bar{a}lah$  (chapter) from some work on the Theory of Numbers, treating of |a| = 1, in five  $b\bar{a}bs$  or sections:

- اندر وضع کردن اعداد در مسربعات زوج الزوج الزوج five tarāgahs or methods.
- اندروضے کردن اعداد در مسربّے افراد (on fol. 5b, in three methods.
- III. اندر دانستن وضع کردن اعداد مربّعات زوج الفرد , on fol. 8a, in two methods.
- IV. اندر دانستن اقل عددى كه در سرتع وفق دهد ـ الن , on fol. 10a.
  - V. اندر دانستن اعداد که وفق مجموعة ایشان در مربع متحیل بود (the rubric for this chapter is absent).

The folios are all mixed with those of the Risālah dar 'Ilm-i Nujūm (see below), but I have numbered them with lead pencil. Cf. this work with No. 92 above.

VIII. ASTRONOMY.

رساله در علم نجوم Risālah dar 'Ilm-i Nujūm.

Fols. 58; 9 in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each 3 in. long; written in Nasta līq - shikastah about A.H. 1108 (A.D. 1696); numerous tables in red ink.

A treatise on astronomy; neither preface nor author's name is given. It is divided into ten  $b\bar{a}bs$  or chapters:

- در دانستن قوا عدد عدم تکسیر, on fol. 2a, in six faṣls or sections, on fols. 2b, 7b, 9a, 16a, 18a, and 20b.
- .on fol. 21a ,در دانستن خانهای ستارگان.
- .on fol. 21b , در دانستن سيارهٔ سعدونحس , on fol. 21b
- on fol. 22a. در دانستن سایهٔ اصلی, on fol. 22a.
  - V. در دانستن ساعاتِ روز وشب ، on fol. 22b.
- VI. در دانستن طالع شب وروز, on fol. 23a (in the index it is written ماه ستویل ماه, which is the heading of the bāb below).
- on fol. 23a. در دانستن منازل ماه , on fol. 23a.
- vIII. در دانستن انتقال آفتاب (according to the index), on fol. 23b.
  - IX. در دانستن رجال الغيب (which in Hindī is called جگل جوگنی) (which in Hindī is called جگل جوگنی) the Jag-Jōgnī, in astrology, i.e. spirits governing periods of good and ill luck), on fol. 24a.
    - X. در بیان شتر یلدز, on fol. 24b.

The last five chapters have been misnamed in this book. The last  $b\bar{a}b$  includes notes on وقف \_ استخراج, etc., and contains a number of اعمال.

The folios are nearly all misplaced, but I have numbered them with red pencil.

ترجمةً تهذيب الاخلاق Tarjuma-i Tahzīb al-Akhlāq.

Fols. 61; 8½ in. by 5 in.; 13 lines, each 3½ in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq; bound in plain leather; injured by insects; copied at Jahāngīrnagar (Dacca), A.H. 1081 (A.D. 1670); scribe, 'Alā al-Dīn.

A treatise on ethics and practical philosophy. The author's name is not given, but both from the title and the chapter headings it becomes evident that we have got here a Persian translation of Abū 'Alī Aḥmad b. Muḥammad Miskawaih, better known as Ibn Miskawaih's (d. A.H. 421, A.D. 1030) Arabic work of the same name (تهذیب الاخلاق), called also طهارة النفس (Ṭahārat al-Nafs), the basis of Naṣīr al-Dīn Muḥammad al-Ṭūsī's اخلاق ناصری (see above, No. 95).

Ibn Miskawaih wrote also a work on the moral precepts of ancient sages of Persia, India, Arabia, and Greece, which was translated from Arabic into Persian under the title of جاويدان خرد (the Jāwīdān-i Khirad) by Taqī al-Dīn Muhammad b. Shaikh Muhammad al-Arrajānī al-Shustari, who flourished during the reigns of Akbar and Jahangir and rendered Shāh-nāmah into prose at the desire of Akbar (see for the Arabic original, Haj. Khal., i, p. 213, and ii, p. 581; B.M.A. Cat., p. 627a; Bodl. A. Cat., i, p. 86; S. de Sacy, Notices et Extraits, x, p. 95; Leyden Cat., iv, p. 191, etc.; and for the Persian version cf. Rieu, B.M.P. Cat., p. 441a; Bodl. Cat., 1417; Ethé, I.O. Cat., 1922, No. 7). Ibn Miskawaih is also mentioned as the translator of Plato's "De legibus," under the title of كتاب النواميس (the Kitāb al-Nawāmīs), but this version has also been attributed to Husain b. Ishāq, who died, A.H. 260, A.D. 873-874 (see Hāj. Khal., v, p. 112; B.M.A. Cat., p. 745b; Bodl. Cat., 1422, No. xviii; and Wüstenfeld, Geschichte der arabischen Aerzte, pp. 26 and 64).

In the present work the subject is treated in a muqaddimah (introduction), three  $b\bar{a}bs$  (chapters), and a  $\underline{kh}\bar{a}timah$  (appendix).

اخلاق ناصر*ى* Akhlāq-i Nāṣirī.

Fols. 152;  $8\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 19 lines, each  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; fair Nasta līq-shikastah-āmīz; headings in red; not dated; copyist, Mīr Muḥammad Arshad Khwāfī.

This is another copy of Naṣīr-i Ṭūṣī's (d. A.H. 672, A.D. 1274) celebrated work on ethics (see above, No. 95), and is divided as follows:—

Maqālah I. Fol. 7a; in two qisms:

Qism i, in seven faṣls, on fols. 7a, 7b, 11a, 12b, 15b, 17b, and 23b. Qism ii, in ten faṣls, on fols. 33b, 36a, 37a, 38b, 41a, 43b, 48a, 57b, 60a, and 66a.

Maqālah II. Fol. 83a; in five faṣls, on fols. 83a, 85b, 88a, 91b (here on fol. 99 is the faṣl which was added to the work after its completion), and 101a.

Maqālah III. Fol. 103a; in eight faṣls, on fol. 103a, 109a, 119b, 130a, 137a, 140b, 148a, and 151a.

The preface begins as usual.

This is another complete copy of the well-known work on ethics by Maulānā Kāshifī (d. a.h. 910, a.d. 1505), but the folios have been misplaced, and the work in this instance begins on fol. 21b in the usual manner. For the author and details of the work see above, No. 97.

Fols. 92; 8% in. by 5% in.; 17 lines, each 3 in. long; gold-lined round the pages; well written in Nasta līq, with Arabic texts in Naskh; bears a seal of Ḥusain Qulī Khān-Bahādur of the year, A.H. 1106 (A.D. 1694).

A Persian translation of some of the difficult lines in the qaṣīdahs written by the Imām 'Alī b. Abī Tālib, the son-in-law of the Prophet (see above, Nos. 6-8), with comments upon the same by Mīr Sayyid Walī, who compiled it by desire of his father. It is written in good style, and the qaṣīdahs have been selected from some of the most reliable MSS. The following is the commentator's own account of the work, see fol. 2a, l. 14:—

Shāh-nāmah.

Fols. 606;  $14\frac{1}{5}$  in. by  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 25 lines, each  $1\frac{1}{5}$  in. long; written in excellent Nasta'līq, in four gold-ruled columns, with headings in red; the first two leaves of each of the two parts are richly illuminated; the first part is also illustrated with fifteen pictures in gilt and colour on fols. 47b, 57a, 67a, 79a, 90b, 99b, 120a, 139b, 141a, 142b, 143a, 178a, 186b, 197b, and 204a, with numerous blank spaces for other illustrations which were never made; margins slightly soiled by damp; probably copied in the tenth century of the Hijrah; two uniform volumes in one.

A complete and superb copy in two volumes of the famous epic poem, the Shāh - nāmah, which was composed, according to the chronogram at the end (نهم سال وهشتاك با سي صد است), A.H. 389

(A.D. 998), by the Homer of Persia, Abū al-Qāsim Ḥasan b. Sharaf-Shāh, poetically styled "Firdausī," who died at his native place, Tūs. (Mashhad), at the age of 89 years, A.H. 411, A.D. 1020 (but Ḥājī Khalfah says he died, A.H. 416, A.D. 1025). The poem contains legendary annals of the early Kings of Persia from Gayūmars to the death of Yazdajird, the last of the Sāsānian race, when the country was conquered by the Arabs, A.H. 21 (A.D. 641). It was written in purest Persian after a labour of about thirty-five years at the desire of the conqueror Sulṭān Maḥmūd of Ghaznī, and consisted of 60,000 distichs, but Firdausī did not live to reap his reward of 60,000 pieces of gold, which were promised but delayed by Maḥmūd, for, as the legend says, when the money arrived his body was on its way to its last resting-place.

The present copy begins with a short preface containing a list of the ancient kings of Persia in genealogical order. This is followed by the four daftars of the poem in the form of two books,

The preface begins:

الحمد الله رب العالمين والصلوة والسلام على رسوله وآله اجمعين ـ بايد دانست كه از حضرت آدم صفى على نبينا وعليه السلام كه پدر تخستين آدميان بود بدين عصر ـ الخ

The first book begins on fol. 3b:

بنام خداوند جان وخرد كزين برترانديشه برنگزرد

The second book begins on fol. 308b, with Luhrāsp's reign:

Fols. 170; 11 in. by 7\(^2\) in.; 19 lines, each 4\(^2\) in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, with headings in red; illuminated frontispieces; bound in gilt-stamped leather; slightly soiled by damp; copied by Ṣāliḥ Muḥammad b. 'Abd al-Qādir Sīhām, A.H. 1090 (A.D. 1679).

This is a good copy of an abridgement of the Shāh-nāmah of Firdausī (see above), compiled with a connecting narrative in prose by Tawakkul Beg, son of Tūlak Beg al-Ḥasanī, who was in the service of Prince Dārāshikūh during his Governorship of Kābul. It was in the 26th year of Shāhjahān's reign, A.H. 1063 (A.D. 1653), that the author, who had been transferred to Ghaznī, wrote the present work at the desire of Shamshīr-Khān, the governor (see the preface).

The history begins with the reign of Gayumars, and is brought down to the Sāsānians, descendants of Ardashīr-Bābagān.

گرشاسپ نامه Garshäsp-nämah.

Fols. 84;  $13\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $9\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 22 lines, each  $1\frac{1}{8}$  in. long, in four columns, surrounded by coloured lines; written on gold-sprinkled paper, in excellent Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the  $\underline{Sh}$ āhnāmah (Nos. 266-267); headings in red; bears an 'arz- $d\bar{z}dah$  at the end; probably transcribed in the tenth century of the Hijrah.

This poem, celebrating the exploits of Garshasp, prince of Sīstān, and one of the ancestors of Rustam (the celebrated hero in Firdausi's Shāh-nāmah), represents the earliest attempt to imitate Firdausī. It is usually ascribed to the poet Asadī Tūsī, the master of Firdausī, who flourished during the reigns of Sultan Mahmud and his son Mas'ūd of Ghaznī, and died in that of the latter (A.H. 421-432, A.D. 1030-1040), but since some of the copies described in other collections (see below) contain the date of composition, A.H. 458 (A.D. 1066), the probability is that this work (unless its version is different, see the Sām-nāmah below) is due to Asadī's son (Abū al-Ḥasan Abū al-Manṣūr) 'Alī b. Ahmad al-Asadī (this has been shown by Dr. Ethé in his paper, "Ueber persische Tenzonen," in "Abhandlungen des fünften Internationalen Orientalisten-Congresses zu Berlin, A.D. 1881," zweiter Theil, erste Hälfte, p. 64 sq.; cf. also Rieu, B.M.P. Cat., iii, p. 1088b; Mohl's preface to the "Livre des rois"; Bodl. Cat., 507; Ethé, I.O. Cat., 893).

The poem in its present form contains only 7,277 distichs, has no date, is anonymous, and does not include the distich that states the length of the poem, i.e. 10,000 distichs.

It begins abruptly:

سراينده دهقان موبد نژاد زگفتِ دگر موبدان كردياد

The first rubric runs:

گریختن جم از بیم ِضحّاک بر ابلیستان وعاشق شدن دخترِ بادشاهِ
آمجا برو وملاقات کردن بردرِ باغ وطلب کردن اندرونِ قصر وشناختن ـ
The last rubric:

مردنِ گرشاسپ ونوحهٔ کردنِ مردم بروومسلّم شدنِ جهان پهلوانی برنریمان ــ

The last line:

Cat.), 893; British Museum (four new copies not yet described are preserved in Or. 2780, 2878, 2926, and 2976); etc. A portion of the text of the poem is published in Turner Macan's edition of the Shāh-nāmah, iv (appendix), pp. 2109-2133.

سام نامه Sām-nāmah,

Fols. 67;  $13\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $9\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 22 lines, each  $1\frac{1}{8}$  in. long, in four columns surrounded by coloured lines; written on gold-sprinkled paper, in excellent Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the Shāhnāmah (Nos. 266–267); headings in red; probably transcribed in the tenth century of the Hijrah.

A poem celebrating the exploits of Sām (son of) Narīmān (who succeeded Garshāsp as Jahān-Pahlawān) and his romantic love with Princess Parīdukht, daughter of the Emperor of China. The author's name is not given, but as it is in close imitation of the celebrated Maṣnawī called هماي هماي (the Humā-i Humāyūn) of Khwājū Kirmānī, is usually ascribed to the same author. Poems of the same title and treating of similar contents are described in some of the catalogues (see references below), but their beginnings and the number of distichs which they contain are different. Khwajah Kamal al-Dīn Abū al-'Atā Muhammad b. 'Alī Murshidī (otherwise called "Khwājū Kirmānī") was born on the 5th Shawwāl, A.H. (28th January, A.D. 1281). He was the author of a Dīwān, and his Khamsah رساله در مناظرات أبرو آفتاب وشمع وشمشير in imitation of Nizāmī (see above, Nos. 101-103), completed а.н. 744 (A.D. 1343), consisted of the following five poems: روضة الانوار (the گل و نوروز , (the Humā-i Humāyūn) همای همایون , (Rauzat al-Anwār كوهر نامه (the Kamāl-nāmah), and كمال نامه (the Gul-u Naurūz) (the Gauhar-nāmah). The Khwājah died at Shīrāz probably, A.H. 753, A.D. 1352 (see Rieu, B.M.P. Cat., ii, p. 620), though in some of the well-known Tazkirahs of Poets various dates of his death are given, A.H. 742 and 745 (A.D. 1341 and 1344). However, as this poem seems to be a continuation of the preceding one, and resembles it in metre and style and is also written in the same handwriting, it is highly probable that it is due also to Asadī Tūṣī, the author of the Garshāsp-nāmah described above.

The present poem (5,837 distichs) begins:

چنین گفت موبد مرین داستان که از دختر شاه بلخ آن زمان The first rubric runs:

The last rubric:

هزيمت كردن سپاه مازندران وآمدن سام بايران

The concluding distich:

بپایان رسید اینچنین داستان سخن گویم از زال روشن روان

شرح حديقة الحقيقة Sharḥ-i Ḥadīqat al-Ḥaqīqah.

Fols. 551; 10 in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 17 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in very clear Nasta Tiq, with headings, etc., in red; copied at Gwalior; dated the 4th Muḥarram of the year 51 A.H., probably 1051 (A.D. 1641).

The Hadigah (a poem on the unity of God, other religious subjects. and ethics), with an elaborate commentary upon the same. former is by the celebrated poet and philosopher Shaikh Abū al-Majd Majdūd, or Majd al-Dīn "Sanā'ī" b. Ādam, commonly known as Ḥakīm Sanā'ī, who was born at Ghaznī towards the later half of the fifth century A.H. (the eleventh century A.D.) in the reign of Ibrāhīm-Shāh (A.H. 451-492, A.D. 1059-1099), the grandson of Sultan Mahmud, and flourished during the reigns of four successive Sultans: Mas'ud (A.H. 492-507) b. Ibrāhīm, Kamāl al-Dīn Shīrzād (A.H. 507), Arslān (A.H. 507-510) b. Mas'ūd, and Bahrām - Shāh (A.H. 512-548, A.D. 1118-1153) b. Mas'ūd-Shāh. Sanā'ī, who belonged to an illustrious family, was a disciple of 'Usman Mukhtari. beginning of his career he was nothing more than a bard to the Ghaznawides, but the most interesting portion of his life is the later part, which he passed in seclusion and retirement in deep metaphysical meditation and religious devotion, composing sufic poems. He owed his religious opinions to Abū Yūsuf Hamadānī, who was his spiritual The poem, which is a recognised masterpiece of Persian literature, is held in great esteem by the Sūfīs, and was finished, A.H. 525 (A.D. 1131). The evidence as to the date of the author's death is doubtful, but most probably he died at the age of 62, in the same year as the poem was composed, although Taqī Kāshī, Azar, and Khwand-Mir place it twenty years later, and in some copies the date of the poem has been put back to A.H. 535 (A.D. 1140). The only work stated to have been written by Sana'ī after his reputed death is the poem called طريق التحقيق (the Ṭarīq al-Taḥqīq), which bears the date of its composition (A.H. 528, A.D. 1134), see Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 926. It is safe to say that had Sanā'ī lived longer than A.H. 525, and even so long as A.H. 576 (A.D. 1180, 1181) according to Hājī Khalfah and Daulat-Shāh, and the MS. copy in the Asiatic Society, Bengal, N.A. 34, bears the same date on the flyleaf, and A.H. 590 quoted on the authority of Taqī Auḥadī by Khudā-Bakhsh in his Maḥbūb al-Albāb, p. 160, he would have left a few more works than we now possess. Sanā'ī is said to have composed a Dīwān containing six other maṣnawīs in the same metre, and about 30,000 verses of qaṣīdahs, etc., but as the legend says, the poet had destroyed, when he assumed the garb of a Ṣūfī, all those poems which he had written in praises of monarchs and princes, and practically none of this class of his odes remain.

The commentary upon the poem is by Khwājah 'Abd al-Latīf b. 'Abd-allāh al-'Abbāsī, who states in the introduction that having formerly acquired great credit for his commentaries (styled Mir'āt and Laţā'if-i Ma'nawī) upon the Magnawī of Maulānā Rūm, he had been induced to undertake a similar commentary on the Hadigah. That he had been long in search of a correct copy, and at length in the year A.H. 1040 (A.D. 1630) he had the good fortune to meet with one which had been procured at great expense from Ghaznī by Mirzā 'Azīz Gūkaltāsh, entitled Khān-i A'zam (who was foster-brother and playmate of Akbar and one of his ablest generals, d. A.H. 1033, A.D. 1624), in the year A.H. 1000 (A.D. 1591), during the period of his government of Gujarāt. He further states that in the compilation of the commentary he was assisted by 'Imad al-Din Mahmud al-Hamadani, poetically styled "Ilāhī," which had been the poetical name of Sanā'ī, and at the beginning the Hadīgah had been also styled "Ilāhī-nāmah." The work, which was begun, A.H. 1040, was completed, A.H. 1042 (A.D. 1630-1633). Ilāhī, it may be mentioned, was a descendant of a family of Sayyids in Rashīdābād, in the province of Hamadān. came over to India about the close of Jahangir's time. He is the author of a biography of poets called خزينهٔ گنج (the Khazīna-i Ganj) and a Diwan. He died either A.H. 1057 or 1064 (A.D. 1648 or 1654). The former date is on the authority of Mir'at-i Jahan, and the latter deduced from a chronogram of Ghanī Kashmīrī. 'Abd al-Latīf died, а.н. 1048 or 1049 (а.д. 1638, 1639).

Contents:

I. The commentator's preface, which was written, а.н. 1038 (а.в. 1628), being the eighth year of Shāhjahān's reign, begins:

ایس نوشگفته گلزار ایست که دریس هنگام همیشه بهار وبهار فیض آثار سال هزار وسی وهشتم . . . . مسوّد این حروف وصحترر این سطور عبد اللطیف _ المخ

- II. The fihrist or index to the contents of the Hadīqah. This is wrongly numbered fol. 8b, and the folios are also misplaced in binding (these I have renumbered).
- III. A few introductory remarks on the commentary by the author, fol. 16a, beginning:

The above includes an account of Ilāhī's share in the work, and his two chronograms on the date of compilation of the work (a.h. 1040, a.d. 1628); the second, on fol. 20b, runs:

IV. Sanā'ī's preface to the Ḥadīqah, on fol. 22 (preceded by a page of introductory remarks by the commentator), beginning:

V. The Ḥadīqah in its commentary is subdivided into ten babs or chapters:

ديوان خاقاني Dīwān-i Khāqānī.

Fols. 401; 10½ in. by 5¾ in.; 19 lines in two central gold-lined columns, each 1¾ in. long; written in neat Nasta līq; frontispiece illuminated with gold; probably copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

The collected poems of Imām  $\underline{Kh}$ āqānī (see his Kulliyyāt, above No. 99). The present excellent copy has unfortunately a few pages missing at the end.

Contents.

I. The unnamed qasidahs and Na't, beginning on fol. 1b:

II. The five named qaṣīdahs; the first is entitled منطق الطير (the Mantaq al-Ṭair), on fol. 19a, followed by others on fol. 31b.

III. The qaṣīdahs in praise of Sulṭāns, etc., fol. 54b, beginning:

صبح از حمايل فلک آميختِ خاجرش

کیمنحت که ادیم شد از خایجرزرش

IV. The tarjī'āt, fol. 183, beginning:

دلا از جان وجان تاکی بکی جویای جانان شو چو سلطان اوست بر جانها غلام خاص سلطان شو

ديوان خاقاني Dīwān-i Khāgānī.

Fols. 461;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines in two central columns,  $1\frac{3}{8}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta 9 in old copy, probably transcribed in the tenth century A.H.

This is another collection of the collected poems of Khāqānī. The contents, which are very much mixed, may be classified as follows:—

- I. The qaṣīdahs of all descriptions.
- II. The tarjī'āt, fol. 146b.
- III. The marāṣī, fol. 266b.
- IV. The mugatta at, fol. 337b.
  - V. The ghazaliyyāt, fol. 407b.
- VI. The rubā'iyyāt, fol. 458.

(David Anderson.)

Fols. 461;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, in two central columns; written in fair Nasta'līq, with headings in red ink; bound in plain leather; gilt-lined; slightly injured at the beginning; not dated, apparently an old copy.

This is another collection of Khāqānī's lyrical poems, containing both named and unnamed qaṣīdahs, tarjī'bands, qiṭ'ahs, marṣiyyahs, and ghazals, but the rubā'īs are missing at the end.

شرح ديوان خاقاني Sharḥ-i Dīwān-i Khāqānī.

Fols. 354;  $8\frac{5}{5}$  in. by  $3\frac{7}{5}$  in.; generally 19 lines, each  $2\frac{3}{3}-2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in ordinary Naskh; copied by Shaikh Ni'mat-allāh Qāzī of the village of Tamwarlī in the  $S\bar{a}bah$  of Tilingānah, A.H. 1045 (A.D. 1635).

A commentary on the difficult verses in the Qaṣīdahs of Khāqānī (see above, Nos. 99-100 and 274-275). It was written at the request of some friends by Muḥammad (b.) Dāūd (here Dād) 'Alawī Shādiyābādī. The author's birthplace is otherwise called Mandū, the capital of Malwah. He also wrote another commentary on the Qaṣīdahs of the poet "Anwarī" (at the command of Sulṭān Nāṣir al-Dîn Khiljî, who reigned over Mālwah, A.H. 909-916, A.D. 1503-1510).

The preface begins:

ليلي و صجنون Lailā-u Majnūn.

Fols. 156; 9½ in. by 5 in.; 15 lines in two central columns, each 1¾ in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; coloured lines round the pages; frontispiece sparingly illuminated with gold; bound in gilt-stamped leather; copied by Muḥammad Ḥusain in A.H. 1104 (A.D. 1692).

This is one of the five epic poems of Nizāmī (see above), on the loves of Lailā and Majnūn (see above, No. 57). It consists of four thousand couplets, and was composed within four months time, A.H. 584 (A.D. 1188), at the desire of Khān-i A'zam Akhtasān Minūchihr, the Sulṭān of Shīrwān, who has been mentioned in connection with Khāqānī. The other four poems which form the so-called Khamsah or Panj-Ganj of Nizāmī are entitled:

(1) مخنون الاسرار (1) (the Makhzan al-Asrār, see above, No. 102);
(2) خسرو و شيرين (the Khusrau-u Shīrīn, described above, No. 103);
(3) خسرو و شيرين (the Sharaf-nāma-i Sikandarī, or the Iskandar-nāma-i Barrī, the first part of the Iskandar-nāmah, see above, Nos. 101, 279, and Supplement);
(4) اسكندر نامهٔ بحرى (the Iskandar-nāma-i Baḥrī, or the second part of the Iskandar-nāmah).

Begins: اى نام تو بهترين سر آغاز بى نام تو نامه چون كنم باز (Gf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), pp. 566b, etc.; Bodl. Cat., 585 (3), 605-606, etc.; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 972 (4), etc.; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), p. 520 (3); Browne (Camb. Cat.), p. 303; etc. It has been edited at Lucknow, A.H. 1287 (A.D. 1870), and translated into English by J. Atkinson, "Laili and Majnun," A.D. 1836.

مثنوى معدوى

Masnawī-i Ma'nawī.

Fols. 308;  $9\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 23 lines in four columns, each  $1\frac{1}{3}$  in. long; written in fair small Nasta'līq, with headings in red; numerous glosses on the margins; stained by damp; copied at Sar, A.H. 892 (A.D. 1486), by Shāh-Malik b. Khwājah Khālid b. Khwājah 'Abd al-Raḥmān al-Khālidī, called "Amīr-Qūzī."

The well-known spiritual poem composed (see chronogram at the end:

المطلع تاريخ اين سودا وسود سال هجرت شش صدوشصت ودوبود عالم مطلع تاريخ اين سودا وسود سال هجرت شش صدوشصت ودوبود على عام 1263) by the celebrated Maulānā Jalāl al-Dīn Rūmī b. Muḥammad Bahā al - Dīn b. al - Ḥusain al - Khaṭībī, who was a descendant of the Khalīfah Abū Bakr Ṣiddīq. He was a disciple first of Sayyid Burhān al-Dīn Tirmīzī, and afterwards of the celebrated Ṣūfī, Shams al-Dīn Tabrīzī, who was killed, A.H. 645 (A.D. 1247). Maulānā Rūmī in his Dīwān, which contains 30,000 verses, had inserted instead of his name that of his master Tabrīzī. Rūmī, who was born in Balkh, was the founder of an order of Ṣūfīs in the city of Conia (Iconium) in Asiatic Turkey, where he died at the age of 65 years in the time of Abāqā-Khān, A.H. 672 (A.D. 1274).

Of the Maṣnawī it may be said that though it does not deserve the merit of originality, yet it so beautifully illustrates, by means of short fanciful anecdotes, the doctrines of Ṣufīism laid down by Sanā'ī in his Ḥadīqah (see above, No. 273), and, being written in the purest language, is especially adaptable to fascinating music, so that it has attained a popularity hitherto unsurpassed by any other poem. It is divided into six Daftars or books:

Daftar I. Fol. 1b; the preface begins:

وماتو فیقی الّا باللّه هذا کتاب المثنوی وهو اللّه اصول اصول الدین فی کشف اسرار الوصول والیقین ــ البخ

The Masnawi begins on fol. 2a:

بشنواز نی چون حکایت می کند وز جدائی هاشکایت می کند

(The above Daftar is preceded by three folios of explanatory notes and a few single verses of Muḥammad Maghribī, Mashqī, Abū Turāb Beg, and an unknown poet, لا الدرى, literally "I don't know.")

Daftar II. Fol. 51b; the preface begins:

بیان بعضی از حکمت تاخیر این صحِتّد دوم که اگرجملهٔ حکمت الهی بندهٔرا معلوم شود ــ الخ

The Masnawi continues:

مدّتی این مثنوی تاخیرشد مهلتی بایست تاخون شیرشد

(There is a short gap between the first and second Daftars, and in this are inserted a single mustazād of Shaikh Farīd al-Dīn 'Attār, another of the author of this Maṣnawī, and a third of Shaikh 'Alī Sayyidī, an anonymous quatrain, a ghazal of Jāmī, another of Aḥmad Rūmī, a disciple of Rūmī, a short poem in praise of Moses of Mullā Mu'īn Wā'iz, and an explanation in prose of the first line of the second Daftar.)

Daftar III. Fol. 95b; the preface begins:

الحكم بجنود الله يقوّى بها ارواح المريدين ينزة علمهم عن شايبة المجهل _ الخ

The Masnawi continues:

اى ضيا الحق حسام الدين بيار اين سيوم دفتر كه سنت شدسه بار Daftar IV. Fol. 151b; the preface begins:

الطعن الرابع الى احسن المرابع واجل المنافع تسر قلوب العارفين ـ الخ

The Masnawi continues:

ای ضیا الحق حسام الدین توی که گزشت ازمه بنورت مثنوی

Daftar V. Fol. 197b; the preface begins:

بدانید وآگاه باشید که شریعت همچو شمع است راه می نماید ـ النخ

The Masnawi continues:

شه حسام الدين كه نور انجم است طالب آغاز صفر پنجم است Daftar VI. Fol. 251b; the preface begins:

مكاشفات رضوى

Mukāshafāt-i Rizwī.

Fols. 294; 83 in. by 5 in.; 19 lines, each 3 in. long; written in elear Nasta'liq, with headings in red and Arabic texts overlined; not dated.

A complete commentary upon the six Daftars of the Magnawī of Rūmī (see above). It was compiled by Muḥammad Rizā, who states in the preface that he had the writing of a commentary in view for a long time, but his various pursuits and his services to the sovereign prevented him from doing so until A.H. 1084 (A.D. 1673), when he laid aside all engagements, and fulfilled his long-felt desire. entitled the work after the name of the Imam Riza, as he had a firm belief in his spiritual guidance.

All the baits of the text of the poem are introduced by the word or its abbreviation متري or its abbreviation متري

The preface begins:

نه هرحمدی سزاوار آفرید گارجهان وجهانیان است نه هرحامدی كاشف أسرار النخ Daftar I commences about the middle of fol. 2a:

كليات سعدى

Kulliyyāt-i Sa'dī.

Fols. 359; 11½ in. by 9 in.; 19 lines in the centre of page, each 3 in. long, with 16 lines on the margins, each 1½ in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, on thick glazed paper, with headings in red; the 'umvāns and frontispieces are illuminated; illuminated lines round the pages; bound in plain leather; dated, A.H. 1065 (A.D. 1654).

The complete works of Shaikh Sa'dī (see above, No. 104). The present copy is divided as follows:—

I. The collector's preface, fol. 1b, beginning in the usual manner. Sa'dī in this copy is designated as شرف الملّته

- and the collector as 'Alī b. Aḥmad b. Abī Bakr (instead of Abū Naṣr).
- The first Risālah, being the author's preface, fol. 2b, on the margin.
- III. (1) The first Majlis, fol. 5a.
  - (2) The second Majlis, fol. 6b, on the margin.
  - (3) The third Majlis, fol. 9a.
  - (4) The fourth Majlis, fol. 10b, on the margin.
  - (5) The fifth Majlis, fol. 12a.
- IV. The third Risālah of the "Ṣāḥib-i Dīwān," fol. 16a.
  - V. The fourth Risālah, on reason and love, fol. 17a.
- VI. The fifth Risālah, on the advice to kings, fol. 18b.
- VII. The sixth Risālah, comprising three stories referring to (1) Abāqā-Khān, fol. 23b, on the margin; (2) Amīr Ankiyānū, fol. 24b; (3) Malik Shams al-Dīn, fol. 25b.
- VIII. The Gulistān (گلستان), fol. 26b, comprising eight Bābs, on fols. 29b (on the margin), 41a, 49a, 55b, 57a, 62b, 64b, and 70b.
  - IX. The Munājāt (مناجات) or Pand-nāmah (پندنامئ), fol. 77b, the moral poem, commonly known by its initial word as Karīmā (کریما). This didactic poem is one of Sa'dī's most popular works. In some of the Kulliyyāt it has been omitted, which has led a few authorities to doubt its authenticity, but not only does the name of the poet occur in the last line but one:
- but the author of the Ta'rīkh-i Muḥammadī (written as early as A.H. 842, A.D. 1438) has attributed the work to Sa'dī.

The poem begins:

The first English translation has been published at Calcutta, A.H. 1203

(A.D. 1788). The French version is by Garcin de Tassy, in his "Exposition de la foi Musulmane," Paris, A.D. 1822, and also by the same in "Allegories, récits poétiques et chants populaires," Paris, A.D. 1876 (pp. 197-200). Select passages have been rendered into German verse in the notes to K. H. Graf, Rosengarten, Leipzig, A.D. 1846 (pp. 239, 244, 253, 260, 281, 293, and 297-298). The text has been published in the Calcutta edition of the Kulliyyāt, and with a Latin translation by G. Geitlin, Helsingfors, A.D. 1835. The Calcutta editions, A.H. 1242 and 1270 (A.D. 1826 and 1853), contain besides the text an Urdū translation. It has also been lithographed at Lucknow, A.H. 1263 (A.D. 1846), etc., and repeatedly afterwards at various presses.

- X. The Būstān (بوستان), fol. 82b. Bāb I, fol. 86a (on the margin); II, fol. 104b; III, fol. 114b; IV, fol. 121b;
  V, fol. 130b (on the margin); VI, fol. 135a; VII, fol. 138a;
  VIII, fol. 147a; IX, on fol. 152a (on the margin);
  X, fol. 158b.
- XI. The Arabic Qaṣīdahs, fol. 161b.
- XII. The Persian Qaṣīdahs, alphabetically arranged, fol. 168b.
  An index to the first lines of these has been written at the end of the preceding Qaṣīdahs.
- XIII. The Marasī (elegies), fol. 191a.
- XIV. Musallasāt (one poem in three languages, Arabic, Persian, and Turkish), fol. 197b, beginning:

- XV. Tarjī'band (refrain poems), fol. 198a (on the margins).
- XVI. The Tayyibāt (pleasant ghazals), fol. 203a, also in alphabetical order.
- XVII. The Mulamma'āt and the Badā'i', fol. 273a (only the first poem has alternate Arabic and Persian verses, the rest are all ornate ghazals arranged alphabetically). The poems are preceded by an index to their first lines.
- XVIII. The Khawātīm (signets), fol. 308b (on the margins), preceded by an index and arranged alphabetically.
  - XIX. The Ghazaliyyāt-i Qadīm or early ghazals, also in alphabetical order, fol. 321a.

XX. The Sāḥibiyyah (the famous epigrammatic poems), fol. 326b, beginning:

مانهذه الانيا بدار محلد طوبي اخر النعيم الي عد

XXI. The Muqatta at (ghazals without the initial bait), fol. 339b, beginning:

روزی بسپرش نوشته بودند کاین دولت ومنصب آن نیرزد

XXII. The Mufradat (detached distichs), fol. 345b, beginning:

من سخن راست نو شتم اگرش راست بحوانی

جرم ليلاج نباشد چوتو شطرنج نداني

XXIII. The Khabīṣāt (obscene poems), fol. 347a (on the margins).

: XXIV. The Rubā'iyyāt (quatrains), fol. 352b, beginning abruptly ودات ودات کز عاشق بیچاره نمی کردی یاد

XXV. The Hazliyyāt (the mock homilies), in three majlis: (1) fol. 354a; (2) fol. 356a; (3) fol. 357a.

ديوان امير خسرو Dīwān-i Amīr Khusrau.

Fols. 228; 3\frac{3}{4} in. by 5 ins.; written in clear Nasta'līq; bound in stamped deerskin; soiled by damp and injured; bears two 'arz-dīdahs, several seals, and an inscription (dated A.H. 1044, A.D. 1634); scribe, Mullā Farīd.

The poetical works (selected chazals with a few rubā<sup>c</sup>īs) of the most celebrated Persian poet of Hindūstān, Amīr Yamīn al-Dīn Abū al-Ḥasan "Khusrau" Dihlawī. His father, Amīr Saif al-Dīn, was a Turk, and had come to Hindūstān from Balkh. Amīr Khusrau was born at Patiyāla, A.H. 651 (A.D. 1253), but lived all his life in Dehlī, where he was much favoured by his Murshad or spiritual guide, the celebrated Shaikh Nizām al-Dīn Auliyā (d. at Dehlī, A.H. 725, A.D. 1325). Khusrau in all is said to have written half a million verse, and the following are some of his most notable works: الصغار (the poet's first Dīwān, containing poems of 16th-19th year); نصط الحيات (the second Dīwān, 24th-32nd year); (the third and the longest Dīwān, 34th-42nd year, containing a historical maṣṇawō called نقيه (the fourth Dīwān, 50th-64th year); نمطلح الفتوح (this poem is الموال السعدين); (this poem is described below); قران السعدين (another epie poem), the Khamsah, consisting of the following poems: (1) نصطلح الانوار (1) نصحون وليلي (3) خصرو وشيرين (2) نصرو وشيرين (3) خصرو وشيرين (4) النشاى خسروى هشت بهشت بهشت (5) النشاى خسروى (ميش جواهر البحر ; تغلق نامه (5) خسرو ويش (ويش (ويش بهشت بهشت بهشت بهشت بهشت (5) تعمل در ويش ; جواهر البحر ; تغلق نامه (5) ويش (ويش ; جواهر البحر ; تغلق نامه (5) ويش (ويش ; جواهر البحر ; تغلق نامه (5) .

The present Dīwān begins:

For extracts in English translation and notes of a few of the historical and epic poems of Amīr Khusrau see Elliot, Hist. of India, iii, pp. 524-566. A few of the poet's works are mentioned in Sprenger (Oude Cat.), pp. 467-470. Cf. also Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), i, pp. 240-242, and ii, p. 609; Bodl. Cat., p. 465; Ethé (I.O. قران السعدين Qirān al-Sa'dain.

Fols. 104;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 19 lines in two central columns, each  $1\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in neat Nasta  $\sqrt{10}$ ; slightly injured by insects; not dated; bears a seal of Ikrām- $\underline{Kh}$ ān, a follower of the Emperor  $\underline{Sh}$ āhjahān.

This is a historical account in verse, by the same Amīr Khusrau (see above), of the meeting of Sulṭān Muʻizz al-Dīn Kaiqubād (who reigned at Dehlī, A.H. 686-689, A.D. 1287-1290), with his father, Nāṣir al-Dīn Bughrā-Khān, Sulṭān of Bengal, which took place at Dehlī, A.H. 688 (A.D. 1289). The poem, the title of which means the conjunction of the two lucky planets, was completed, as it is stated towards the end, in the month of Ramazān in the same year. The author at this time was in his 36th year. Shaikh Nūr al-Haqq al-Mashriqī (d. A.H. 1073, A.D. 1662) b. Shaikh 'Abd al-Haqq al-Dihlawī wrote, A.H. 1014 (A.D. 1605), an elaborate commentary on the poem; another was compiled by 'Abd al-Rasūl Qāsim; and a third by an anonymous writer.

Begins:

293. كٽيات جامي Kulliyyāt-i Jāmī.

Fols. 580; 8½ in. by 5½ in.; written in fair Nasta'līq; 15 lines, each 1½ in. long, in each page, in double columns surrounded by gold lines; five illuminated frontispieces; much soiled by damp; bears several seals of the first year of Shāh-'Ālam's reign and of the owner, 'Ibād-allāh; dated A.H. 1048 (A.D. 1638).

A collection of the three complete Dīwāns of one of the most celebrated Persian poets, Nūr al-Dīn 'Abd al-Raḥmān b. Maulānā Aḥmad or Muḥammad Ispahānī, poetically styled after the place of his birth "Jāmī." The poet, who lived most of his life at Herāt, was a great favourite with Sulṭān Abū Sa'īd-Mirzā, and after his death with his son and successor the celebrated Sulṭān Ḥusain-Mirzā. He also enjoyed the patronage of the Wazīr Mīr 'Alī-Shīr. Jāmī was a prolific writer, and the following are some of his works: Haft-Aurang (containing the following seven maṣnawīs: (1) Silsilat al-Zahb, which he dedicated to Sulṭān Bāyazīd II; (2) Salāmān-u Absāl, which has been translated into English, see references below; (3) Tuḥfat al-Aḥrār; (4) Ṣubḥat al-Abrār; (5) Yūsuf-u Zalīkhā, see below; (6) Lailā-u Majnūn; (7) Khirad-nāma-i Iskandarī; the last five maṣnawīs are also known as Jāmī's Panj-ganj or Khamsah); Lawāmi' or commentary upon the Ṣūfic poem called Al-Qaṣīdat al-Khamriyyah; Nafḥat al-Uns (notices of Ṣufīs and Walīs); Tafsīr or commentary upon the Qurān; Bahāristān (moral anecdotes); Shawāhid al-Nubuwwat (evidence of Muḥammad's prophetic mission); Al-Shi'at al-Lama'āt (commentary upon a tract on mystic love); Tajnīs-i Khaṭṭ; Mukhtaṣar Wāfī fī Qawāfī; Futūḥ al-Ḥaramain; Khurshīd-u Māh; Risāla-i Mu'ammayāt; etc. Jāmī died at Herāt, at the age of 81 lunar years, A.H. 898 (A.D. 1492).

The present good copy consists of five parts:

I. The introduction in prose by Jāmī himself, fols. 1-5, beginning:

پا کا پر وردگار که زبانِ سخن گذ ار دردهنِ سخنوران شیرین کار ــ النخ

II. The first part of the first Dīwān, containing qaṣīdahs, tarjī'āt, marāṣī, and short maṣnāwīs, fols. 5-65, beginning:

جويم مدد زِفضل تواى مفضلِ احد

III. The second larger part of the first Diwān, containing ghazals, alphabetically arranged, fols. 65-328, begins:

IV. The second Dīwān, otherwise styled ولسطة (the middle of the chain), fols. 329-483, contains a preface in prose which begins:

It is stated that this portion was composed, A.H. 894 (A.D. 1489). This Diwan consists of:

Qaṣīdahs on fol. 330b, with one tarkībband on fol. 338b, beginning: درین صحیفهٔ چو آغاز کرد م املی را ٔ گرفتم از همهٔ اولی ثنای مولی را ٔ کرد م املی استان می تنای مولی ما Three ahazals without alphabetical order, beginning on fol. 347b:

Ghazals, arranged alphabetically, begin on fol. 348b:

دى گذشتيم برآن دلبر وگفتيم دعا قال من اثم وقلنافقرا وغربا

(In some copies the word گفتیم in the last line is written کردیم.)

Abyāt-i-fard, on fol. 477a.

Muqaṭṭa'āt and rubā'īyyat, on fol. 477b.

V. The third Dīwān, otherwise styled خاتمة الحياة (the conclusion of life), fols. 489-580, contains a short preface which begins:

It is stated here that Jāmī commenced composing this Dīwān in the year A.H. 896 (A.D. 1490).

This Dīwān consists of:

Three introductory poems followed by qaṣādahs, on fol. 490a:

كاد احصاى ثنايت گفته لا احصاثنا

Ghazals, arranged alphabetically, begin on fol. 500b.

بر آمد شادِ عشق از طورسینا وز آنجازد علم بردیرِ سینا Muqatta'āt, on fol. 573b:

درین نشیمیِ ادبار جامیا کاری اگرکنی نه چنان کن که شرمسار شوی  $Ruba^*\overline{\imath}yyat$ , on fol. 576b:

معشوق ازل که هرکه دل بست بدو پیوند زخود گشت وپیوست بدو

Three wāsākhts on the death of Ya'qūb-Khān have been added at the end. They are written in very clear Nasta'līq, but by a different hand, on paper of different quality, and dated A.H. 1180 (A.D. 1766).

محمود واياز Mahmüd-u Ayāz.

Fols. 83;  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 5 iu.; 15 lines in two central columns, each  $1\frac{1}{8}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta līq; copyist, Majd al-Dīn; dated A.H. 1023 (A.D. 1614).

The story in verse, in the form of a magnawi, of Sultan Mahmud of Ghaznī (the famous conqueror, who reigned for 33 years, during which time he invaded India seventeen times. He died at the age of 66 years, on the 23rd Rabi II, A.H. 421, the 30th April, A.D. 1030) and his favourite Ayaz (who was at first a humble servant, but by sagacity and honesty rose to the office of the treasurer). composed by the celebrated poet Maulana Saifi of Bukhara, who flourished under the patronage of Wazīr Mīr 'Alī-Shīr at Herāt, and 'Alī-Shīr, surnamed Nizām al-Dīn, to whom Mīr-Bāisunghar-Mirzā. Khwand dedicated his famous work, the Rauzat al-Ṣafa', as has already been noticed, see above Nos. 186-188, was the renowned Prime Minister of Sultān Husain-Mirzā, the King of Khurāsān. collected round him a galaxy of scholars, historians, and poets, and himself was the author of several works in Turki and Persian, both in prose and verse. As a poet he styled himself "Nawa"i." Daulat-Shāh had also dedicated his well-known biography of poets to the same Wazīr. He died on the 15th Jumādā I, A.H. 906 (6th December, A.D. 1500). Bāisunghar-Mirzā succeeded his father, Sultān Abū Sa'īd Mirzā, as Sultān of Samarqand. He had had bad luck against Bābar, and after a reign of five years was killed by one of his father's nobles, Khusrau-Shāh, A.H. 905 (A.D. 1499), when he was 23 years of age.

Saifī excelled also in writing on prosody, and on this account was called "'Arūzī" (see his رساله در علم عروض described elsewhere). He died, according to the author of the Ātashkadah, А.Н. 909 (А.Д. 1503), at his native place.

The poem consists of 2,506 verses, and was composed, A.H. 903 (A.D. 1497).

Begins: اى نام توكنے نامهٔ راز از نام تو خامه كنے پرواز Cf. for Saifi and his works, Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 525, etc. (David Anderson.)

ليلي و مجنون

Laila-u Majnun.

Fols. 68; 9½ in. by 5½ in.; 15 lines, in two central columns; written in clear Nasta līq; bound in plain leather; copied at Rashīdābād, probably in the twelfth century of the Hijrah, by Sayyid 'Iwaz Shamsābādī.

One of the most simple and universally esteemed among the numerous Persian poems dealing with the loves of Lailā and Majnūn, by Maulānā 'Abd-allāh, poetically styled "Hātifī," a nephew of Jāmī. It was the poet's project to write a Khamsah in imitation of Nizāmī (see above, No. 280), but after he had completed his four maṣnawīs (besides the present one, the other three being time, the Shīrīn-u Khusrau, تيمور نامه, the Haft-Manzar) he died at Herāt, A.H. 927 (A.D. 1521). For the Arabic version of the story see above, No. 57.

شاد وگدا

Shāh-u Gadā.

Fols. 47;  $9\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; written in clear Nasta'līq; bound in plain leather; not dated.

A mystic poem by Badr al-Dīn Astarābādī, poetically styled "Hilālī," who was of Tārtār origin and, being a Sunnī, was killed, on religious grounds, by the order of one of the Uzbak chiefs, 'Ubaid-Khān, A.H. 936 or 939 (A.D. 1530 or 1532). The poet, who was much favoured by the celebrated Wazīr Mīr 'Alī-Shīr, left behind him a Dīwān and a second Maṣnawī called صفت العاشقين (the Ṣifat al-'Āshiqain).

Begins:

For the poetical works of the author see Bodl. Cat., 1019–1021; Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 656; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), p. 426; Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), pp. 147 and 701; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1423–1424; Flügel (Vienna Cat.), i, pp. 563, 578, and 579; etc. The poem has been translated into German verse by H. Ethé in "Morgenländische Studien," Leipzig, A.D. 1870, pp. 197–282.

The poem is followed by an incomplete essay in prose containing advice to men, by an unknown person, which begins:

پدساوت

Padmāwat.

Fols. 357;  $9\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 11 lines in two central columns, each  $1\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; the intervening lines are each 3 in. long; written in beautiful Naskh with vowels; coloured lines round the pages, copied in the year 42 (probably A.H. 1142, A.D. 1729) by Nūr Muḥammad.

The stories in verse in the Bhākā language of the loves of Padmāwati, daughter of the Rājah of Lanka or Ceylon and Ratan-Sain, Rājah of Chittaur (Mārwāra), also an account of the capture of the strong fortress of Chittaur, about A.H. 703 (A.D. 1303), by Sulṭān 'Alā al-Dīn Khiljī (A.H. 695–716, A.D. 1296–1316). The author is (Malik) Shaikh Muḥammad Jā'īsī, who composed it, A.H. 927 (A.D. 1520), see page numbered 12b, I. 6, and dedicated it to Sulṭān Shīr-Shāh Sūr.

The headings to all the stanzas are in Persian and transcribed in red, and the work is divided (see index fols. 1-20 at the beginning) into eighteen khands or chapters with numerous subdivisions:

- Khand I. In 24 stanzas, on the praise, the virtues, and dignity of Shīr-Shāh, etc., fol. 1b.
- Khand II. In 27 stanzas, on the beauties of Sanghaldip or Ceylon, fol. 13a.
- Khand III. In 15 sections, on the birth of Padmāwati, and the circumstances of a Ṭūṭī (talking parrot) being with her, fol. 26a.
- Khand IV. In 33 stanzas, on the flight of the Tūṭī from the palace, fol. 33b.
- Khand V. In 37 stanzas, on the description by Tūţī of the beauties of Padmāwati, fol. 50a.
- Khand VI. In 52 stanzas, on the march of Ratan-Sain with an army of Jōgīs, fol. 68b.
- Khand VII. In 54 stanzas, on the journey of Padmāwat to Mandab, fol. 94b.
- Khand VIII. In 44 stanzas, on the arrival of Ratan-Sain at the fort of Chittaur through a hidden subterranean passage, fol. 121b.
- Khand IX. In 64 stanzas, on the marriage of Padmāwat with the Rājah, fol. 144b.
- Khand X. In 20 stanzas, on the pinings of Nākamnati on the departure of Ratan, fol. 177a.
- Khand XI. In 19 stanzas, on the departure of Bhinkam to Sanghaldīp, fol. 187a.
- Khand XII. In 40 stanzas, on Rājah Ratan's march to Sanghaldīp, fol. 197a.
- Khand XIII. In 32 stanzas, on the Rajah's arrival in his own country, fol. 217a.
- Khand XIV. In 42 stanzas, on the Rājah's departure towards Dehlī, fol. 232b.
- Khand XV. In 89 stanzas, on 'Alā al-Dīn's march towards Chittaur, fol. 253b.
- Khand XVI. In 45 sections, on the capture of the fortress and the Sulṭān's return to Dehlī, fol. 298a.

Khand XVII. In 22 stanzas, on the preparations of Kauṛā Bādal for departing for Dehlī, fol. 320b.

Khand XVIII. In 11 stanzas, on the story of Dew-Pāl-Rāi, told by Padmāwati, the death by satī or burning of the Rājah and both Rānīs Padmāwati and Nākamnati, and conclusion.

The poem begins:

سنورون ادایک کرتارو جن جیو دینه کینه سینسارو

The first heading in Persian runs:

Of the Persian poetical versions of the poem there is one by Ḥusain Ghaznawī, and another by Bazmī of Qarg (see Sprenger, Oude Cat., p. 376). A Persian prose version, under the title of Tuḥfat al-Qulūb (A.H. 1062, A.D. 1652), was written by Munshī Gobind-Rāi. There is also a metrical translation in Urdū, which was begun by Mīr Ziyā al-Dīn 'Alī "'Tbrat" Dihlawī, but on account of his death was completed by Mīr Ghulām 'Alī "'Ishrat" of Barielly (see Sprenger, Oude Cat., p. 613). A lithographed edition of the poem is described in the Supplement.

303. نان و حلوًا Nān-u Halwā.

Fols. 16; 7 in. by 4½ in.; 13 lines, in two central columns; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz, with headings in red ink; bound in half-calf; not dated; apparently copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

A maṣnawī called "Bread and Sweetmeat," by the great Shī'ah theologian, Shaikh Bahā al-Dīn b. Shaikh Husain, poetically styled "Bahā'ī." He was a native of Jabal 'Āmil in Syria, and the author of several works, including the well-known Kashkūl (described above, see No. 54) and a Dīwān; he died at Ispahān, and was buried at Mashhad, A.H. 1030 or 1031 (A.D. 1621 or 1622). 'Imād al-Daulah Abū Ṭālib, the Prime Minister of Shāh-'Abbās the Great, composed the following chronogram of his death:

ديوانِ صائب Dīwān-i Sā'ib.

Fols. 347;  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 19 lines in two central columns, each half  $1\frac{5}{8}$  in. long; written in good Nasta  $\overline{1}$  in; the two end lines of each ghazal are written in red, one over the other, in the centre of the page; slightly stained by damp on margins; copied at Banābaipur by Hidāyat-allāh in the 41st year of 'Ālamgīr's reign, A.H. 1108 (A.D. 1696).

This good copy of the Diwān of Ṣā'ib has unfortunately fol. 1 missing. It consists of ghazals, with which are mixed a few unfinished ghazals and  $rub\bar{a}'\bar{\imath}s$ , all arranged alphabetically.

"Sā'ib" is the poetical name of Mirzā Muḥammad 'Alī of Tabrīz, who founded a new style for writing poetry, and is regarded as one of the greatest of modern Persian poets. He was well received by the Governor, Zafar-Khān, at Kābul, where he had gone at an early age, and stayed a long time. He then went to India, to the court of Shāhjahān, and had the title "Musta'idd-Khān" conferred upon him. He afterwards joined his old patron Zafar-Khān again, who was now appointed to the government of Kashmir, about A.H. 1041 (A.D. 1631). After some stay he returned to the city of his birth, Ispahān, and here he was created Poet Laureate by Shāh-'Abbās II. His death took place at an advanced age, A.H. 1088 (A.D. 1677). Hājī Khalfah, iii, p. 290, puts his death a year earlier. Altogether he wrote over one hundred and twenty thousand verses, chiefly ghazals. Of the poets who appeared afterwards, the majority of them belonged to the schools of 'Urfī and Ṣā'ib, but of those who either flourished under the later Moghuls or received favours from the short-lived dynasty of the Nawwāb-Wazīrs and Kings of Oudh, it may be especially mentioned that in developing the style they corrupted the taste in some cases to an unpardonable degree.

The present copy begins:

شد استخوان ز دورِ فلک تو تیامرا باری دگر نه ماند درین آسیامرا

كليات بهشتي

Kulliyyāt-i Bihishtī.

Fols. 206;  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 17 lines in two central columns, each  $1\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, in small handwriting, with headings in red; coloured lines round the columns; bound in paper covers; copied at Aḥmadābād by Muḥammad Qāsim b. Muḥammad Sharīf al-Hāshimī; dated A.H. 1096 (A.D. 1684).

The collected poems of "Bihishtī," whose surname does not appear, He was a panegyrist of Prince Murād-Bakhsh (d. a.h. 1072, a.d. 1662), the youngest son of the Emperor Shāhjahān, as a good few of the qaṣīdahs are devoted to that Prince. Most probably the poet is the same who composed an account in verse of the dissensions caused by the aspirations to the throne of Shāhjahān's sons, from the rebellion of Murād in Gujarāt to the death of the heir-apparent, Dārāshikūh, a.h. 1067-1069 (a.d. 1656-1658). See this poem under the name of in the heir-apparent of the heir-apparent of the name of in the heir-apparent of the heir-apparent of the name of the heir-apparent of the name of the heir-apparent of the heir-apparent of the name of the heir-apparent of the heir-apparent of the name of the heir-apparent of the heir-apparent of the heir-apparent of the name of the heir-apparent of the heir-apparen

From the present copy the first one or two folios are missing. It contains a few additions written on the margins, which, if taken for late compositions of the author, would make it that the poet lived longer than the date of the MS. The style of the composition is very elegant.

مجمع الشعرا

Majma' al-Shu'arā'.

Fols. 361; 9 in. by  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 15 lines in two central columns, each  $1\frac{1}{2}$  in. long, with about 27 lines on the margins, each  $1\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; gold-lined round the central columns and margins; written in ordinary Nasta'līq, in small handwriting; of the six parts, four possess illuminated frontispieces; copyist, Muḥammad Qulī (commonly called "Kāw") b. Muḥammad Yaḥyā b. Muḥammad Yūsuf of Kashmīr; dated, A.H. 1146 (A.D. 1732).

A selection from the poets, made at the desire of Mirzā Āqā Rizā Beg, probably by the copyist of this MS. It consists of five parts, which contain selections from the poems respectively of:

I. Ḥāfiz of Shīrāz (see above, No. 106), beginning:

كه عشق آسان نمود اوّل ولى افتاد مشكلها

and Ṣā'ib (see above, No. 304), fols. 1-173, beginning:

The poems of Hafiz are written in the central columns, and those of Sa'ib on the margins.

II. Ṣā'ib (continued) and Waḥshī, fols. 173-203.

"Waḥshī" Yazdī, selections from whose ghazals are quoted in this part in the central columns, was the author of two well-known poems: the Nāzir-u Manzūr (ناظر و منظور) and the Farhād-u Shīrīn (فرهاك و شيرين). He left after his death, which occurred at Yezd, A.H. 992 (A.D. 1584), fairly large Kulliyyāt.

Begins:

اى از توسرخ گشته بخون روى زردِما مارا زِ درد گشته وغافل زِ دردِما دردِم

III. Ṣā'ib (continued) and Bābā Fighānī, fols. 203-261.

The latter was a poet of Shīrāz, who flourished during Sulṭān Ya'qūb's reign at Tabrīz. He died, leaving a Dīwān, at Mashhad, in Khurāsān, A.H. 922 or 925 (A.D. 1516 or 1519). His ghazals begin:

For Fighānī, cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 651; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), pp. 21 and 403; etc.

IV. Şā'ib (continued) and Āṣafī, fols. 261-317.

Āṣafī, the son of Khwājah Muqīm al-Dīn Ni'mat-allāh of Kāshān, was a Persian poet of some celebrity. He flourished during the reign of Sultān Ḥusain-Mirzā, the King of Khurāsān, and died at Herāt, a.h. 920 or 923 (a.d. 1514 or 1517). The selections from his writings consist of a few qiṭ'ahs, ghazals in alphabetical order, and rubā'īs, and begin:

For Āṣafī, cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 651 sq.; Bodl. Cat., 990-991; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), pp. 20, 71, and 310; Flügel (Vienna Cat.), i, p. 577; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1393-1397; Pertsch (Gotha Cat.), p. 74, and Berlin Cat., pp. 893-894; Aumer (Munich Cat.), p. 34; Dorn (St. Petersb. Cat.), p. 385; etc.

V. This part contains (fols. 317b-323) 144 rubā'iyyāt (quatrains) of the celebrated mystic poet, Ḥakīm Abū al-Fath 'Umar b. Ibrāhīm, poetically styled "Khayyām." He was born at Nīṣhāpūr, the capital of Khurāsān, about the middle of the eleventh century A.D., and was brought up under the care of the great Sunnī scholar Imām Muwaffiq. 'Umar had for his fellow-students and playmates Ḥasan (b. Muḥammad) Ṣabaḥ Ḥumairī (who is notorious in the West as the founder of the Assassins, and whose disciples, called the Eastern Ismā'īlians, are sometimes designated as the Mulāḥidah or Atheists of Quhistān) and Niẓām al-Mulk (who afterwards distinguished himself as Wazīr of Alp-Arslān and of Jalāl al-Dīn Malik-Shāh, the two great Saljūqian sovereigns). 'Umar wrote several mathematical treatises in Arabic, and one on Algebra has been edited and translated by Woepke (Paris, A.D. 1851). With Malik-Shāh (A.H. 1072-1092, A.D. 1661-1681) and his renowned Wazīr were associated numerous astronomers, historians, and poets, and it was in this monarch's reign that astronomical observations were conducted at Merv by a body of savants with 'Umar Khayyām and 'Abd al-Raḥmān al-Ḥazīnī at their head. Their labours resulted in the reform of the Calendar which preceded the Gregorian by six hundred years, and is said by Sédellot to be even more exact. The era thus introduced was named the "Jalālian," and commenced in A.H. 467 (15th March, A.D. 1079). 'Umar died at his native place, A.H. 517 (A.D. 1123), and as he predicted in one of his  $rub\bar{a}$ 'īs, the north wind still scatters roses on his tomb.

The selection begins:

VI. This part of the MS., which contains selections from Mukhlis of Dehli, fols. 325a-340, is preceded by a few miscellaneous verses from different poets.

Rāī Anand-Rām, poetically styled "Mukhlis," was a pupil of Mirzā Bīdil (see his 'Irfān, etc., below, Nos. 313–318), and was a son of Rājah Mardhī-Rām, a Khatrī of Lahore. He wrote about 50,000 verses. To distinguish him from Mukhlis Kāshī he is often called Mukhlis Hindī. He died in the fourth year of the Emperor Aḥmad-Shāh's reign, A.H. 1164 (A.D. 1751). The selections from his writings begin:

For Mukhlis and his works see Elliot, Hist. of India, viii, p. 76; Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), iii, p. 997; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), pp. 159 and 262; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1707; Beale, Orient. Biogr. Dict., p. 195; etc.

VII. Kalīm, fols. 341-354.

Mirzā Abū Ṭālib "Kalīm" Hamadānī was a celebrated poet, who came to India in the Emperor Jahāngīr's time and rose to great eminence under Shāhjahān, when he was twice weighed in gold and silver, which amount he received as a reward for his poetical genius. He died either at Lahore, A.H. 1061 (A.D. 1651), or, according to the authority of the Pādishāh-nāmah and the Mir'āt al-Khayāl, A.H. 1062 (A.D. 1652). The selections from his ghazals begin:

For Kalīm and his Dīwān see Rien (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, 686 sq.; Bodl. Cat., 1116-1121; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1563-1570; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), p. 453; Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), pp. 920 and 921. His Dīwān has been lithographed at Lucknow, A.D. 1878.

VIII. Ghanī Kashmīrī, fols. 354-361.

Mirzā Muḥammad Ṭāhir, poetically styled "Ghanī," was a native of Kashmīr and a disciple of Shaikh Muḥsin Fānī of Kashmīr. He flourished during the Emperor Aurangzīb's reign, but refused to appear in his presence under a plea of madness. When he was still young, he died three days after having received the commands of the Emperor to appear in the Royal Court, A.H. 1079 (A.D. 1668). He often used "Ṭāhir" for his poetical name. The selections from his Dīwān begin:

جنونی گوکه از قیدِ خرد بیرون کشم پارا کنم ز نجیر پای خویشتن دامانِ صحرارا

Cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, pp. 692, 821, and i, 370; Beale, Orient. Biogr. Diet., p. 94; etc.

عرفان Irfān.

Fols. 328; 9 in. by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 17 lines in two central columns, each  $1-1\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq, on thin paper; according to a note on the flyleaf it changed hands, A.H. 1170 (A.D. 1756).

A Sufic magnawī, meaning 'gnosis,' consisting of eleven thousand lines, and composed, according to the last distich:

which is its chronogram, A.H. 1124 (A.D. 1712), by Mirzā 'Abd al-Qādir Astarābādī, poetically styled "Bīdil," who was the most prolific and one of the greatest Persian poets of Hindūstān after Amīr Khusrau (see above, No. 290). His ancestors belonged to the Turkish tribe of Chaghatā'ī. He was born at Akbarābād (Agra), A.H. 1054 (A.D. 1644), and was attached in the early part of his career to the Durbār of Prince Muḥammad A'zam-Shāh, but being of independent habits he soon got tired of court life, and leaving the service settled down at Shāhjahānābād (Dehlī), where he died at the age of 79 on the 4th Safar, A.H. 1133 (5th December, A.D. 1720). He is said to have composed over 100,000 verses of ahazals, 4,000 rubā'īs, numerous magnawis, etc. Besides the present one, four other of his masnawīs are described below. For his poems see Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, pp. 706-707; Bodl. Cat., 1169-1170; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), pp. 119, 213, 378, and (for the magnawī called گلگشت حقیقت. the Gulgasht-i Haqiqat), 380; Pertsch (Gotha Cat.), p. 80, and Berlin Cat., pp. 938-941; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1676-1681; Rosen (Persian MSS.), p. 167; etc. Mirzā Bīdil compiled also a few prose-works, viz., چهار عنصر (see Sprenger, p. 119); انشا بیدل or (letters, see Rieu, ii, p. 811a, and iii, pp. 1006b and 1068a; Pertsch, Berlin Cat., p. 147, No. 2; and Browne, Camb. Cat., p 284); بياض (a Persian anthology, see Rieu, ii, p. 737b sq.); نكات ("subtle thoughts," bearing upon religious and moral subjects, ib., p. 745b). The poet's Kulliyyāt containing his prose-works has been lithographed, A.H. 1287 (A.D. 1870), at Lucknow.

The sections into which the present magnawī is divided are connected by means of distichs which are inserted in red. (Cf. Rieu, ii, p. 707a, etc.)

The masnawī begins:

Muhīt-i A'zam.

Fols. 115; 9 in. by 5\frac{3}{4} in.; 11 lines in two central columns, each 1\frac{1}{2} in. long; mostly written in clear Nasta'līq; coloured lines round the pages; frontispiece illuminated with gold; bound in paper covers, which retain traces of gilt; copied in the first year of Aḥmad-Shāh's reign, A.H. 1161 (A.D. 1748).

A mystical magnawī by the same Mirzā Bīdil. It was composed, A.H. 1078 (A.D. 1667), according to the following chronograms of the author:—

The poem has a preface in prose, and the poet describes the work as ميخانهٔ ظهور حقايق نه ساقى نامهٔ ظهورى, a tavern for the revelation of truths and not of the kind of sāqī-nāmah of Zuhūrī (see fol. 2b, 1.5).

The preface begins:

The  $masnaw\bar{\imath}$  consists of a number of daurs or stanzas, which in the beginning parts are titled and interwoven with short stories, beginning on fol. 4a:

Two copies of the same  $masnaw\bar{\imath}$  are described in Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1682 and 1683.

ديوان مظهر

Dīwān-i Mazhar.

Fols. 39; 10 in. by 6½ in.; 17 lines, in two central columns; written in clear Nasta Inq, during the lifetime of the author; bound in stamped leather.

The selected poems of Mirzā Jān-Jānān of Agra, son of Mirzā-Jān, who lived at Dehlī, and was murdered in the month of Muharram,

A.H. 1195 (January, 1781), for having publicly expressed his contempt for certain religious performances then being practised. In all he wrote about 20,000 verses. The present MS. begins with a short preface in prose written by some person who knew the poet, at a time when he was 40 years of age (A.H. 1150, A.D. 1737); the poet here is depicted as a Faqīr, who had to fulfil duties at the Madrasah (College) and Khānqāh (Convent).

The Diwān consists principally of  $g\underline{h}$  azaliyyāt (fols. 1–32), which are arranged alphabetically, then come the  $rub\bar{a}'iyy\bar{a}t$ ,  $ta'r\bar{\imath}\underline{k}h\bar{a}t$ ,  $aby\bar{a}t$ -i fard, and  $mu\underline{k}h$  ammasāt.

دستور همّت Dastūr-i Himmat.

Fols. 134;  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 5 in.; 16 lines in two central columns, each  $1\frac{1}{8}$  in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq; copied by Mūhan-La'l, a.H. 1176 (a.D. 1762).

A maṣnawī on the loves of Kāmrūp and Kamlatā, or, as the latter is called for the convenience of the metre, Latākām. The tale was originally written in prose by Mīr-'Īsā, better known by his title "Himmat-Khān," who, like his father, Ziyā al-Dīn Badakhshī, styled "Islām-Khān," was a favourite of the Emperor 'Ālamgīr. The story was rendered in verse at the author's request by his friend and admirer, Mīr Muḥammad Murād. Himmat-Khān, however, died (A.H. 1092, A.D. 1681) before it was completed.

ترجمة مهابهارت

Tarjuma-i Mahābhārata.

Fols. 377; 13 in. by  $6\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 19 lines, each 5 in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; copied at Akbarābād (Agra) by Hūl-Chand (first three parts) and Narsing-Dās, in the 35th and 36th years of 'Ālamgūr's reign, A.H. 1103-1104 (A.D. 1691-1692); nine uniform parts in one volume.

The Persian version of the Mahābhārata (the great war), being the second epic poem of India in Sanskrit. It was at the desire of the Emperor Akbar the Great and under the supervision of his famous Wazīr, Shaikh Abū al-Fazl b. Mubārak "'Allāmī" (see above, No. 78, etc.), who wrote the introduction to it, that the translation was made by the joint labours of the four great scholars—

- (1) 'Abd al-Qādir Badā'ūnī (see Supplement).
- (2) Ibn Sayyid 'Abd al-Laṭīf al-Ḥusainī, better known by his title "Naqīb-Khān."
- (3) Muḥammad-Sulṭān Thānīsarī, and
- (4) Mullā Shīrī.

It is not possible to trace in this MS. which of the parts were made by the above writers, but the whole version was rendered later into elegant prose by the celebrated scholar and poet Shaikh Faizī (see above, No. 30).

The present MS. is unfortunately incomplete; the contents are:

A later metrical version of the Mahābhārat is due to Ḥājī' Rabī' Anjab, about A.H. 1157 (A.D. 1744), see Rieu, ii, p. 711. The English translations are by Mr. Wilkins, of the East India Company, A.D. 1785 (the introduction to this was written by the Governor-General Warren Hastings); by the late Pratāpa-Chandra-Ray, Calcutta, A.D. 1893–1896, now published in 100 parts by his wife; and by M. N. Dutt (parts i-viii), A.D. 1896. The French translation of the first eight Parwas, in ten volumes, is by H. Fauche, Paris, A.D. 1863–1870.

بهوپال شاستر Bhūpāl Shāstra.

Fols. 597; 11 in. by 7 in.; 16 lines, each 3 in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq; slightly injured; much stained by damp on the margins; an old copy, probably copied in the tenth century of the Hijrah.

This is a collection of Hindū codes intended for the use of kings, translated from the Sanskrit by a Muslim, whose name unfortunately does not appear. The author of the original says of himself that he was a native of Nish-pāp (نش باپ), and his father Kishtan-Dīw, who had learned almost every science, was foremost amongst the Brahmins of his time in knowledge, but his son (i.e. the author himself) Paras-Rām b. Kishtan-Dīw (پرس رام بن کشتن دیو) had, in the words of the translator, excelled his father, as he had specialized himself in astronomy and was well acquainted with شَنْتُ (arithmetic) and was a pupil of Gītā-Kishan. At the request of his own pupils that he should write a work full of interest and instruction for the kings, the present work was written and was styled "Bhūpāl-u Labh Shāstra."

The work is a kind of encyclopædia of general information. The MS. is evidently holograph copy, as it contains numerous corrections and additions. There are also a good few gaps intended for diagrams and illustrations, but throughout only one illustration has been painted in gilt and colour, on fol. 244b, representing a tortoise on the back of which the position of the hemisphere is marked with subdivisions of land. All Sanskrit words are overlined with red ink.

The introduction begins:

The first page is unfortunately injured close to binding, thus a few words have become obliterated.

باششقه جوگ

Bāshishth Jog.

Fols. 100; 11 in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in Nasta Iq-shikastah; copied at Calcutta, by Shaikh Aḥmad-Bakhsh of 'Azīmābād (Patna), A.H. 1198 (A.D. 1783).

An exposition of Hindū mysticism of which this is an abridged form. As is stated in the preface, this work was translated from the Sanskrit original at the desire of the great Akbar, A.H. 1006 (A.D. 1597), by the celebrated Shaikh Abū al-Fazl "'Allāmī" (see above, No. 78, etc.), whose name is mentioned by the copyist in the colophon.

The work is in the form of a dialogue between Rishī Wāsishṭha and Rāmachandra, and begins:

سپاس وستایش و تمام نیایش نیاز حضرت که . . . برارباب فطرت واضح ولایح باد که جمعی از فضلا پیش ازین کشاب باششت جوگرا ترجمهٔ کرده بودند . . . وفوائد آن که مطلبی اصلی است پوشیده ومعطّل مانده بنابر آن در شهور سنهٔ هزاروشش هجری شاه گیتی پناه . . . محمد اکبر بادشاه این همایون بادشاه خلد الله سلطانه فرمودند که ترجمهای سابق نوشته اند چون طالبان حقیقت رانفعی نمی رساندمی خواهم که ایدن کتاب مستطاب رابهتر از آن ترجمه کنند _ الخ

ترجمهٔ پورانارته پرکاس شاستر Tarjuma-i Pūrānāratha Parakāsa Shāstra.

Fols. 25; 11 in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 15 lines, each 5 in. long; written in Nasta līq-shikastah; paper covers; dated Faṣlī, 1191 (a.m. 1189, a.p. 1775).

An abridgement of the Pūrānāratha Prakāsa Shāstra, an exposition of the Hindū chronology and cosmogony, and of their Shāstras, translated from the original in Sanskrit of Pandit Birdhāī Rādhākanta Tarka (see fol. 2b, 1, 10), by Zūrāwar-Singh at the desire of the Governor-General of India, Warren Hastings. It consists of a preface, six bābs (chapters), and an epilogue:—

سنگهاسی بتّیسی Singhāsana Battīsī.

Fols. 30;  $10\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 15 lines, each  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; paper covers; copied at Calcutta, Faṣlī, 1192 (A.H. 1190, A.D. 1776), by Shaikh Aḥmad-Bakhsh Ṣiddīqī.

An abridged version of the well-known original Sanskrit work, meaning the thirty-two tales of the throne, or the stories of King Vikramaditya and Rājah Bhūj. The present translation, which contains no information as to the translator's name, does not agree with the versions described in Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 763a, and iii, p. 1006; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1988; Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), pp. 1034–1036; Bodl. Cat., 1324; and Browne (Camb. Cat.), p. 398.

Begins:

درگاه مجیب الدعوات اینست هرکه بخواند از کان کرم جود افزونی و علم مزید حیات و دولت مراد رسد . . . گفتند دهارنام شهر بزرگ وآباد . . . دران شهر راجه بهوج بعنوان چهار ده علم هاوی بود ـ الخ

The two oldest Persian versions of the tales were made at the desire of Akbar by 'Abd al-Qādir Badā'ūnī, A.H. 982 (A.D. 1574-1575), and another by Chatarbhūj-Dās b. Mihr-Chand, a Kāyath (see Bodl. Cat., 1324). The former, named خبردافيزا (the Khiradafzā), was revised (according to the Muntakhab al-Tawārīkh, i, p. 67, and Elliot, Hist. of India, v, p. 513), A.H. 1003 (A.D. 1594-1595), and the latter version was entitled شاه نامه و سنگهاس بتیسی the Shāhnāmah-u Singhāsan Battīsī). Another translation was made in Jahāngīr's reign, а.н. 1019 (а.д. 1610-1611), by Bhārāmal, son of Rājmal, a Khatrī (see Ethé, 1988). In Shāhjahān's time, A.H. 1061-1062 (A.D. 1651-1652), Ibn Harkarn (see Ethé, 1990), or, as he is named in Rieu, ii, p. 763a, Bisb-Rāi, son of Hargarab-Dās, a Kāyath of Qannauj, made a third version from the translations of Chatarbhūj and Bhārāmal. Under Aurangzīb the last-named version was revised and entitled کشر بلاس (the Kishan-Bilas), see Rieu, ii, p. 763b, an l Ethé, 1989, by Kishn-Dās Bāsdīw, son of Mulūk-Chand Lāhūrī, a seller of betel-leaf and tobacco (تنبولي) and an attendant upon Nawwāb Jār-allāh Amīr al-Umarā'. In Mehren (Copenhagen Cat.), p. 29, is mentioned another version by Chand, son of Mādhū-Rām. An anonymous one entitled ريافشاري (Gullafshān) is noticed in the Khulāṣat al-Tawārīkh (see Rieu, i, p. 230a). The latest Persian version was made for Mr. Edward Clive Bayley, A.D. 1845 (see Rieu, iii, p. 100b), by the combined labours of Sayyid Imdad 'Alī and Shīw-Suhāi Kāyath.

A translation into Braj-Bhākā was made, at the desire of Shāhjahān, by Sundar-Dās. This was rendered into Urdū, a.h. 1216 (a.d. 1801), by Srī Lallūjī-Lāl Kawī or Lallū-Singh, and printed four years later. Rājah Durgā-Parshād compiled also a prose version, which was edited and published at Agra, a.h. 1279 (a.d. 1862). There was published at Cawnpore, a.h. 1286 (a.d. 1869), a metrical version, which was composed by the poet styled "Chaman." Cf. Garcin de Tassy, Histoire de la Littérature Hindouie, etc., ii, p. 233, and iii, pp. 90 and 278.

Baron Lescallier's translation from Persian into French, which is described in Pertsch (Berlin Cat. P., loc. cit.), was published at New York, A.D. 1871. It is stated in Ethé, 1988, to agree in the main with Bhārāmal's version.

For the Sanskrit original see Aufrecht, Cat. of Sanskrit MSS. in the Bodleian Library, p. 152; the MSS. in the Trinity College, p. ii; R. Roth in the Journal Asiatique for A.D. 1845, ii, pp. 278-305; etc.

نفائس الغُنون في عرائس العُيون Nafa'is al-Funun fī 'Ara'is al-'Uyun.

Fols. 594;  $10\frac{3}{5}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 25 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in good Naskh, with headings in red; illuminated frontispiece; coloured lines surrounding the pages; slightly injured by insects; copyist, 'Abd-allāh Ṣadr al-Dīn; dated A.H. 1011 (A.D. 1602).

A large encyclopædia of one hundred and sixty different sciences known to the Muslims. It was compiled by Muḥammad b. Maḥmūd al-Āmulī, a Shī'ah scholar and teacher in the Sulṭāniyyah College, who flourished during the reign of Sulṭān Uljā'itū (a.h. 703-716, a.d. 1303-1316) and was the author of several works, e.g., commentaries upon the Mukhtaṣar fī al-Uṣūl of Ibn Ḥājib (d. a.h. 646, a.d. 1248, see above, Nos. 32 and 33), the Kulliyyāt of the Qānūn of Abū Sīnā (Avicenna, d. a.h. 428, a.d. 1037, see above, No. 146 xx), compiled, a.h. 753 (a.d. 1352), and the Kulliyyāt of the Qānūn of Sharaf al-Dīn Īlāqī, etc. He died, according to Ḥājī Khalfah (iv, p. 500, and vi, p. 364), after a.h. 753 (a.d. 1352).

The present work was compiled in A.H. 735 (A.D. 1335), but was continued to A.H. 742 (A.D. 1342).

Contents.

The preface, on fol. 1b, beginning:

contains a eulogy upon the reigning sovereign, جمال الدنيا والديل, Amīr Jamāl al-Dīn Abū Isḥāq b. Amīr Maḥmūd-Shāh, the ruler of Fārs and ʿIrāq, who had seized Shīrāz and Iṣpahān, A.H. 742 (A.D. 1341), but was taken hold of by Amīr Muḥammad Muzaffar and executed, A.H. 757 (A.D. 1356). The work is dedicated to a Wazīr who is mentioned by his honorific titles only, and the space for his name is left blank. The preface further contains introductory remarks upon the subject in three fa'idahs or sections:

- در بیان شرف وفضیلت علم . . . . (1)

XIII. ELEGANT COMPOSITION.

331.

مرقومات عبدالله بن صحمد المرواريد

Marqumāt-i 'Abd-allāh b. Muḥammad al-Marwārīd.

Fols. 86; 8 in. by  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 15 lines in each page, each  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq, with headings in red ink; copyist, Majd al-Dīn; dated A.H. 1023 (A.D. 1614).

A number of letters, etc., written and collected at the request of friends, by Khwājah Shihāb al-Dīn, or, as he calls himself, 'Abd-allāh b. Muhammad al-Marwārīd, a native of Kirmān, who was raised to the rank of Amīr by Husain-Mirzā, Sultān of Khurāsān. He was an excellent poet, and in this capacity he used the takhallus "Bayānī." He died, A.H. 922 (A.D. 1516), leaving a Dīwān, containing a maṣnawī called "Khusrau-u Shīrīn," and a collection of rubā'iyyāt under the title of "Mūnis al-Aḥbāb." He is mentioned in several Oriental works, e.g., Ḥabīb al-Siyar, Tuḥfa-i Sāmī, Haft-Iqlīm, Wāqi'āt-i Bābarī, Riyāz al-Shu'arā'; etc.

The introduction begins:

ای کرده بکلک صنع ترکیب بشر زانشای تونعش سبة اجسام صور Cf. Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), iii, p. 1084a.

مكاتبات علامي

Mukātabāt-i 'Allāmī.

Fols. 282; 11 in. by  $6\frac{3}{k}$  in.; 17 lines, each 4 in. long; written in Nasta  $4\overline{1}q-\underline{sh}$  ikastah- $4\overline{n}$ z; bound in thick paper with leather edges; injuries have been repaired.

A collection of letters, etc., written by the celebrated Shaikh Abū al-Fazl "'Allāmī" (see above, No. 78). These were collected soon after the author's death, A.H. 1011 (A.D. 1602), by his sister's son, 'Abd al-Ṣamad b. Afẓal Muḥammad, and completed, according to the title, which is its chronogram, A.H. 1015 (A.D. 1606–1607). The collection is also known under the title of انشائی ابو الفضل (the Inshā-i Abū al-Faẓl, see Supplement). The diction of these letters is such that they are regarded as models of elegance in Persian correspondence. The collection is divided into three daftars or books:

Daftar I. Letters including farmāns, written in the name of the Emperor Akbar, to kings and nobles, fol. 1b, beginning:

گوناگون نیایش مرد آوری را که وجود بشررا از کار خانهٔ عنایت کسوت حیات پوشانید ـ النخ

Daftar II. Letters (98) written by the author, fol. 62b, to the Emperor (2); Prince Dāniyāl (3); Prince Shāhrukh-Mīrzā b. Sulaimān-Mirzā, Governor of Badakhshān (1); his father, Shaikh Mubārak (4); Sipahsālar 'Abd al-Raḥīm Khān b. Bairam-Khān, the Khān-Khānān (34); A'zam-Khān Gükaltāsh (3); Zain-Khān Gükaltāsh (6); his elder brother, Shaikh Faizī (4); Shaikh Abū al-Khair (3); al-Mulk Qāsim Beg Tabrīzī "Mīr-Baḥr" (3); Sādiq-Khān (2); Dīwān Ja'far Beg, entitled "Āṣaf-Khān" (1); Barīd-Shāh of Bīdar (1); Quṭb al-Mulk, of Golkundah (1); Rājī 'Alī Khān b. Mubārak-Shāh (1); Fārūqī of Khāndesh (2); Muhammad Qulīch-Khān (1); Mirzā Yūsuf-Khān (1); Mirzā 'Alī Beg Akbarshāhī (1); Shihāb al-Dīn Aḥmad Khān (1); خافي Khwājah Shams al-Dīn Khwāfī, here written Khāfī (1); Rājah Mān-Singh (2); Shams al-Dīn 'Alī, entitled "Hakim 'Ain al-Mulk" (1); Hakim Humam (3); Qāzī Husn Qazwīnī (1); Husn-Khān, brother of the lastnamed (2); Shaikh Husain Müşalī (1); Mīr Sharīf Amalī (7); Mīr Sharīf Sarmadī (1); Shīr-Khwājah (1); Khizr-Khān b. Rājī 'Alī Khān Fārūqī Khāndeshī (2); and Qawām al-Dīn Shaqdār (1).

Beginning:

Fols. 161; 9 in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 10 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta  $4\pi$ , with headings in red; not dated.

This work, by Ranjhūr-Dās, dealing with the subtilties of style in the composition of both prose and poetry, has been described above, see No. 115. The daqīqahs begin respectively on fols. 7b, 12a, 55b, 83a, 98a, 143a, 150b, and 156a. The last chapter is very much abridged, but the fourth daqīqah is much larger than in the copy noticed above.

Raushan-Kalām.

Fols. 52; 9 in. by  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 11 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in Nasta'līg-shikastah-āmīz; coloured lines round the pages; not dated.

A collection of letters composed at the request of his patron, Ra'dandāz-Khān, by Bhūpat-Rāi, whose name is mentioned in Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), iii, p. 1043b, V, and Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 2138.

In the present copy eighty-seven letters are contained. The author in the preface promises to divide his work into four fasts or chapters, but only the first one has been distinctly marked. The letters have headings and are arranged according to the rank of the persons addressed, from the King downwards.

انوار سهیلی Anwār-i Suhailī.

Fols. 285; 10 in. by 5\frac{3}{4} in.; 17 lines, each 3\frac{1}{3} in. long; written in fair Nasta Tiq; coloured lines surrounding the pages; illuminated frontispiece; slightly injured; copied by Sultan Muhammad Gujarātī, probably in the tenth century of the Hijrah.

The Persian version of the Kalīlah and Dimnah by Maulānā Ḥusain b. Alī al-Wā'iz, surnamed "Kāshifī" (d. A.H. 910, A.D. 1505), who dedicated it to Amīr Nizām al-Dīn Shaikh Aḥmad Suhailī (hence the name), the seal-bearer of Sulṭān Ḥusain-Mirzā, the celebrated King of Khurāsān. From this translation the first two bābs or chapters are omitted, but it is much more modernised than the old and difficult version of Naṣr-allāh b. Muḥammad b. 'Abd al-Ḥāmid of Shīrāz, who was a Wazīr to Khusrau-Malik, when the latter succeeded his father, Bahrām-Shāh (who died A.H. 555, A.D. 1160). It is to be noted that these fables were originally written in Pahlawī and rendered subsequently into Arabic by 'Abd-allāh b. al-Muqaffā' (b. A.D. 725). For the later (Shaikh Abū al-Fazīl's) version of the Anwār-i Suhailī, see below.

Kāshifī, the author of the present version, was a most prolific writer, and the following are some of his well-known works: The Tafsīr-i Ḥusainī, called also the Mawāhib-i 'Aliyyah, the Jawāhir al-Tafsīr (the two commentaries upon the Qurān), the Rauzat al-Shuhadā (a history of Muḥammad containing a most graphic record of the battle of Karbalā), the Akhlāq-i Muḥsinī (a famous work on ethics, described above, see No. 97), the Lubb-i Lubāb, the Lubb-i Ma'nawī (an abridgement of Maulānā Rūm's Maṣnawī), the Ṣaḥīfa-i Ṣhāhī, the Makhzan al-Inṣhā', the Asrār-i Qāsimī, the Maṭla' al-Anwār, the Laṭā'if al-Ṭawā'if, the Sabā-i Kāṣhifiyyah (on astronomy), etc.

In the present copy the divisions of the work, fourteen in all, are enumerated on fol. 7a, but on examination it is found that the chapter headings in a few cases are wrongly numbered, and a small part of the contents at the end is also omitted.

The preface begins:

For the history of the work, see "Lecture" in Urdū, by "Shams al-'Ulamā'" Sayyid 'Alī Bilgrāmī (see Supplement). Cf. also Ḥāj. Khal., v, p. 239; Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 756a; Bodl. Eastwick, Hertford, A.D. 1854; A. N. Wollaston, London, A.D. 1878; and some verses have been published in A. Rogers' Persian Anthology (pp. 35–47), London, A.D. 1889. The parts published in Spiegel's Chrestomathia Persica (pp. 23–40) have been translated into German by Ethé, Morgenländische Studien (pp. 147–166), Leipzig, A.D. 1868. The text has been printed at Calcutta, A.H. 1219 (A.D. 1804), followed by numerous editions there, and at other places in India; in England, at Hertford, A.D. 1805.

Fols. 394; 8½ in. by 6 in.; 15 lines, each 3¾ in. long; written in clear Nasta līq, with headings in red; bound in plain leather; copied by Shaikh Ghiyās al-Dīn of Ḥusainābād (near Huglī), for Casparus Elbrecht; dated A.H. 1184 (A.D. 1770).

The "touchstone of knowledge," being the Persian translation of Kalīlah and Dimnah made at the command of the great Akbar by his Wazīr, the celebrated Abū al-Fazl "'Allāmī" b. Shaikh Mubārak Nagūrī (see above, No. 78). This work may be regarded as a later version of the Anwār-i Suhailī (see above, No. 339). It is written in a much more simple and attractive style, with the addition of the two introductory chapters, which were omitted by Ḥusain al-Wā'iz, on the basis of the older translation of Naṣr-allāh, and was completed in the 33rd year of the reign of Akbar, а.н. 996 (а.д. 1587). It is divided into sixteen  $b\bar{a}bs$  (chapters):

The story of the Prince of Rum and the Princess of China.

The daughter of the Faghfür or Emperor of China, on being solicited in marriage, makes a request to her father that she may be allowed to propose learned questions to her suitors, and promises that whenever proper answers and solutions are given by any of them she will immediately agree to be married, but requires, on the other hand, that such of her suitors as are unable to give proper answers shall be put to death, and their property and effects confiscated for her use. The Emperor consents to this request, and accordingly these conditions are published throughout the empire. A number of princes appear in consequence, but all of them being unable to answer the questions of the Princess, their heads are cut off and their property confiscated. At length the son of the King of Rum, being expelled from his own dominions by a usurper, arrives after a variety of adventures at the capital of China, and hearing of the conditions resolves to undertake to answer them. Great preparations are accordingly made at the court for the important ceremony. The Princess of China appears on a throne, and in the presence of her father and all the nobles proposes a number of intricate and difficult questions to the Prince of Rum, who not only answers them all to the satisfaction of the Princess, but by the elegance of his manners and the beauty of his person captivates her affections. He afterwards in his turn proposes a question to the Princess which she is incapable of answering: this leads to a new incident which arises from a stratagem which she contrives in order to obtain from the Prince himself a solution of his question. ends with the marriage of the Princess to the Prince of Rum, who is thereby enabled to reinstate his father in his ancient dominions.

This story is written in a plain easy style. The great object of it is evidently to introduce the questions which are proposed by the Princess. They are in general very pedantic, and have almost all of them some allusion to Muḥammadan tenets and history. The author is Maulānā 'Abd al-Ghafūr.

XVII. COSMOGRAPHY.

عجائب المخملوقات و غرائب الموجودات 'Ajā'ib al-Makhlūqāt-u Gharā'ib al-Maujūdāt.

Fols. 165;  $10\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 19 lines, each  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; injured by insects; contains numerous illustrations, both plain and coloured; bears a seal of a servant of Shāh-'Ālam of the first year; probably copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

A treatise on cosmography translated from the Arabic of Zakariyyā al-Qazwīnī, a descendant of Uns b. (Imām) Mālik. The translator's name does not appear, but the author is introduced in the following terms (see fol. 1b):—

الكمونى القنروينى تولاد الله بفضله واو از فر ز ندان انس بن مالك الكمونى القنروينى تولاد الله بفضله واو از فر ز ندان انس بن مالك رضى الله عنه بود يعامبر صلى الله عليه وسلم كه چون بحكم الهي مغارقت اهل و وطن اتفاق افتاد كتب اختيار كردم - الخ" (The blank spaces represent words which have become obliterated.) The British Museum copy (see Rieu, ii, p. 462b seq.) contains in the author's preface a dedication (not found in the printed Arabic text) to 'Izz al - Dīn Shāhpūr b. 'Uṣmān. The copy described in Vienna Catalogue (see Flügel, ii, pp. 506-508) is styled تحفق الغرائب, and according to the colophon of the second copy there the Persian translation was completed in Jumādā I, а.н. 890 (May-June, а.р. 1485). In the present copy the divisions of the works are fully enumerated on fols. 9a-11.

العظمة لك والكبرياء لمجلالك اللهمّ يا قايم الذات ومفيض المخيرات ـ المج

For other copies see Rieu, ii, pp. 462b and 995a; Flügel, loc. cit.; Bodl. Cat., 397-398; Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 712-714; Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), p. 367 seq.; Leyden Cat., p. 258; Browne (Camb. Cat.), pp. 208-210; etc. Cf. also Hāj. Khal., iv, p. 188; S. de Sacy, Chrestomathie, iii, pp. 414-450. The Arabic text has been edited by F. Wüstenfeld, Göttingen, a.d. 1848. A German translation by Dr. H. Ethé was published at Leipzig, a.d. 1868. The text has been printed at Teherān, a.h. 1264 (a.d. 1848).

رساله در علم فراست Risālah dar 'Ilm-i Firāsat.

Fols. 27; 9 in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each 3 in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq, with headings in red; slightly injured; transcribed by Sayyid Aḥmad, in the 40th year of Aurangzīb's reign (A.H. 1107, A.D. 1695).

A treatise on the science of physiognomy. The author's name is not given. The work consists of two maqālahs (chapters):

- I. Fol. 1b, در اصول علم فراست وکیاست (on the principles of physiognomy, in four fasts or sections).
- II. Fol. 8a, المراقبة علم وعلامات (on the necessities, effects, signs, etc.), in twenty-one bābs or sections. The physiognomy and signs of: (1) the head, (2) the forehead, (3) the eyebrows, (4) the eyes, (5) the nose, (6) the ear, (7) the lips, teeth, and mouth, (8) the voice, speech, and laughing, (9) the chin and beard, (10) the face, (11) the neck, (12) the shoulders and chest, (13) the upper arm and elbow, and the lower or fore-arm, (14) the hand, the palm, the fingers, and the nails, (15) the back, the abdomen, the hypochondria, (16) the loins, the hips, and the buttocks, (17) the genital organs, (18) the knee, the leg, and the foot, (19) the hair, (20) the gait, (21) the physiognomy of women in general, their movements and actions.

قيافه نامه

Qiyāfah-nāmah.

Fols. 17; 9 in. by 5 in.; 15 lines, each 3 in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq, in the same handwriting as the Risālah dar 'Ilm-i Firāsat; scribe, Sayyid Aḥmad; dated A.H. 1107 (A.D. 1695).

Another treatise on the science of physiognomy, including palmistry, by Kālī-Dās Hindī. Probably the author is identical with the celebrated Hindū poet who flourished either in the time of Rājah Vikramāditya, towards the commencement of the Christian era, or Rājah Bhūj (A.D. 1040–1090). He wrote his celebrated work Nalodia, exhibiting a wonderful combination of alliteration (translated into Latin and published by Ferdinandus Binary), a history of Nala and Damyanti, and poems called Kumāra Sambhāwa and Mahā Nāṭak.

The present work is divided into twenty-one  $b\bar{a}bs$  or chapters on the following parts of the bodies of both man and woman: the head, the forehead, the eyebrows, the nose, the eyes, the lips, the teeth, the tongue, the chin, the beard, the throat, the ear, the neck of man, the neck of woman, the wrist, the lines in the right hand of man and left of woman, the breast, the chest, the belly, the navel, the penis, the testicles, the vagina, the thigh, the sole of the feet and the lines on them, the mouth in the act of laughing, the moles, the skin, the countenance, and the stature of women.

معرفة المذاهب

Ma'rifat al-Mazāhib.

Fols. 4; 10½ in. by 6½ in.; 23 lines, each 4½ in. long; written in beautiful small Naskh, in the same handwriting as the Jāmi' al-Rumūz (above, No. 159), about the close of the eleventh century of the Hijrah; scribe, Muḥammad b. Jalāl al-Dīn al-Khurāsānī.

An exposition of a few minor tenets of the seventy-three sects among the Muḥammadans. It was written from a Sunnī point of view, containing chiefly those articles which were judged worthy of censure by the author, Maḥmūd al-Ṭāhir Ghazālī, commonly called "Niẓām of the Madrasa-i Jalālī." This art of handling religious differences was not known in the infancy of Islām, but was introduced when sects sprang up and articles of faith began to be disputed. Its study was absolutely rejected by the Imām al-Shāfi'ī, but allowed only under extreme caution by the Imām al-Ghazālī. The present treatise is divided into seven faṣls or chapters:

- I. The Sunnites and some of their religious observances.
- II. The Shī'ites, in twelve inferior sects:
  - (1) (اسحاقیه (2) (بردیده (4) (اسامیه (3) (بردیده (5) (اسحاقیه (1) (6) (مستند (7) (عبّاسیه (6) (11) (بردیده (12) (12) (12) (12) (13) (14) (15) (15) (15)
- III. The Khārijites, in twelve inferior sects:
  - (1) , (غلبيّه (3) , (غلبيّه (4) , اخنسيّه (3) , اباضيّه (2) , ازرقيّه (1) , جازميّه (6) , کنزيّه (9) , کوزيّه (8) , شمراخيّه (7) , خلفيّه (6) , معتزليّه (10) , دسيمونيّه (11) .
- IV. The Jabarians, in twelve inferior sects:
  - (1) , خوفیّه (4) , حبشیّه (3) , جیبیّه (5) , افعالیّه (1) , افعالیّه (6) , صفـروعیّه (9) , معیّه (8) , صفـطـریّـه (7) , کسلیّه (6) . محمنیّه (11) , فکریّه (11) , تجاریّه (10)
  - V. The Qadarians, in twelve inferior sects:
    - , شيطانيّه (5) , روبديّه (4) , ثنويّه (3) , كيسانيّه (2) , احمديّه (1) , مىنزليّه (9) , مىنزليّه (9) , ناسطيّه (7) , شريكيّه (6) . وهميّه (12) , نظاميّه (11) , ماكسيّه (10)
- VI. The Jahamians, in twelve inferior sects:
  - (قبریّه (5) , فانیّه (4) , غیریّه (3) , زنادقیّه (2) , حرقیّه (1) , قبریّه (6) , متراقیّه (7) , الفظیّه (6) , متراقیّه (9) , متراقیّه (10) , مخلوقیّه (10) .
- VII. The Murjians, in twelve inferior sects:
  - ر حشويّه (5) , تاركيّه (4) , بيميّه (3) , بدعيّه (1) , اشربيّه (1) , وحشوضيّه (5) , راجيّه (6) , سنقوضيّه (7) , راجيّه (6) , منقوضيّه (11) , مستفنيّه (11) . مستفنيّه (11) .

The author has also quoted, on fol. 4a, seven other sects taken from the work of Abī Qāsim Rāzī:

The introduction begins:

مخزن الاخلاق Makhzan al-Akhlāq.

Fols. 257; 9½ in. by 6½ in.; 15 lines, each 3½ in. long; written in distinct Nasta līq; slightly injured by worms; probably copied in the eleventh century of the Hijrah.

A collection of miscellaneous writings in prose and verse by different authors. This MS. in its details is exactly the same as that described in Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, p. 796.

It consists of:

- I. راحت القلوب, (the Rāḥat al-Qulūb), on fol. 1b. Satirical sketches by Ni'mat-Khān "'Ālī" (see No. 82), beginning:
- آفرین سخی آفرین را که در صلای ثنایش زبان مدّ بسم الله شده ـ الن Cf. Rieu, ii, p. 796a; Bodl. Cat., 1157 (7); Ethé (I.O. Cat.), 1659 (3); etc.
  - II. وقائع حيدرآباد (the Waqā'i' Ḥaidarabād), on fol. 30b. A satirical record of the siege of Ḥaidarābād and Golkundah (for details see above, No. 82) by the same.
- III. حسن وعشق (the Ḥusn-u 'Ishq), on fol. 83b. An allegorical story in mixed prose and verse, by the same, beginning:

حدیث عشق شدزیب بیانم * چوشمع افتاد آتش در بیانم

For other copies see Rieu, ii, pp. 703b and 796a; Bodl. Cat., 1157 (6) and 1159 (3); Pertsch (Berlin Cat.), p. 681. It has been printed at Lucknow, A.H. 1258 (A.D. 1842) and A.H. 1290 (A.D. 1873); and with a commentary at Dehlī, A.H. 1260 (A.D. 1844).

IV. A letter probably by the same, on fol. 99a, beginning:

- V. (1) مناظرة چشم و سرمه (the Munāzara-i Chashm-u Surmah), on fol. 102b.
  - (2) مناظرة زلف و شانة (the Munāzara-i Zulf-u Shānah), on fol. 105b.
  - (3) مضمون خيالي (the Mazmūn-i Khiyālī), on fol. 108b.

The above are three short pieces in prose by  $\bar{A}q\bar{a}$  Abū al-Qāsim. Cf. Rieu, ii, p. 796a.

VI. On fol. 110b, a letter written by the Uzbak ambassador, and an answer to the same by Mirzā Muḥammad Ṭāhir Naṣīrābādī.

See Rieu, ii, p. 796a.

VII. ڪر طويل (the Baḥr-i Ṭawīl), on fol. 112b. This is a short piece in prose followed by several qit'ahs in verse by Mīr Sayyid 'Alī, poetically styled "Mihrī" of Ispahān," who was the poet-laureate under Sulṭān Ḥusain Ṣafawī (A.H. 1105–1135, A.D. 1693–1722).

Cf. Rieu, ii, p. 796a.

VIII. قضا وقدر (the Qaṇā-u Qadr), on fol. 116a. A maṣṇawī by Muḥammad Qulī, poetically styled "Salīm," who was a native of Ṭeherān, but had come over to India and was attached to Amīr Islām - Khān. He died at Kashmīr, A.H. 1057 (A.D. 1647).

See Rieu, ii, p. 796b; Sprenger (Oude Cat.), p. 556.

Begins:

IX. Short pieces in verse by:

- On fol. 122b, Āṣaf-Jāh, the first great Nizām (d. а.н. 1161, а.в. 1747).
- (2) On fol. 123a. Nawwāb Rustam-Jang, whose original name was Murshid 'Alī Khān, and who poetically styled himself "Makhmūr"; he was a native of Sūrat, and died a few years after the death of his patron, Āṣaf-Jāh (see above).
- Cf. Rieu, ii, p. 796b; Sprenger, p. 194; etc.

- (3) On fol. 127α, Murtazā Qulī Khān, poetically styled "Wālā," who had come from Persia, and died in Bengal about the close of the eleventh century A.H. See Rieu, ii, p. 796b; etc.
- (4) On fol. 128b, Mullā Ṭughrā of Mashhad, who was attached to Prince Murād-Bakhsh, and died in Kashmīr in the beginning of 'Ālamgīr's reign.

See Rieu, ii, pp. 742-744, 796b, 850b, and 875b; Bodl. Cat., 1389-1390; Pertsch, p. 24; Ethé, 1586-1591; etc.

- (5) On fol. 136a, a mukhammas of Sa'dī (see No. 104).
- X. On fol. 137b. Letters and short pieces in prose by Ni'mat-Khān "'Ālī" (see above, I-III).
- XI. On fol. 142b. A few satirical pieces in verse by the same, beginning:

كدخدا شد بازديگر خان والاسنزلت

باکمال عنر وتمکین و وقار و زیب و زین

See Ethé, 1671; Rieu, ii, p. 796b.

XII. On fol. 148b. A large mystic magnawī containing short tales and anecdotes on moral and ethical matters, by the same (see above, No. 109).

(Robert Brown.)

C. HINDŪSTĀNĪ MANUSCRIPTS.

I. HISTORY OF A'ZAMGARH.

377.

سرگذشت راجهای اعظمگره

Sarguzasht-i Rājahā-i Aʻzamgarh.

Fols. 33; 8½ in. by 5½ in.; 11 lines, each 3½ in. long; written in fair Nasta'līq; illuminated frontispiece; bound in gilt-lined leather; copied for the donor at A'zamgaṛh, A.H. 1289 (A.D. 1872).

This is an Urdū version of the original Persian work (see above, No. 238), containing a brief account of the rulers of A'zamgaṛh. The author (Sayyid Amīr 'Alī Razwī) is himself the translator.

Begins:

II. POETRY.

378.

ديوان ولي Dīwān-i Walī.

Fols. 119;  $8\frac{1}{4}$  in. by  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 14 lines, in two central columns; fair Nasta'līq-shikastah-āmīz; bound in plain leather; the last eight folios are badly injured, the rest are patched up; not dated; an old copy.

The lyrical poems of Shāh Walī-allāh, who was a native of Gujarāt, but passed the greatest part of his life in the Deccan. He was alive in the Emperor 'Ālamgīr's time, and is believed to be the first poet who wrote a complete Dīwān in Urdū. Up to the time of Walī and his contemporary Shaikh Zuhūr al-Dīn, poetically styled "Ḥātim," who lived at Dehlī, the Indian poets usually wrote poetry in Persian.

The present MS. contains:

I. The ghazals arranged in alphabetical order, beginning:

کیتاهوں تیری نانو کوں میں وردزباں کا کیتاهوں تیری شکر کوں عنواں بیاں کا

مراثى هاشم على Marāsī-i Hāshim 'Alī.

Fols. 734; 8 in. by 4½ in.; written in clear Nasta'līq, which in some places, evidently by a different hand, becomes very fair; the titles are in red ink; bound in plain leather; dated а.н. 1193 (а.в. 1779); two vols.

The Marāṣī or elegies on 'Alī, the son-in-law of the Prophet, and his sons and grandsons, by Hāṣḥim 'Alī, one of the celebrated poets who first wrote poetry in the Urdū language. Hāṣḥim, who lived at an earlier period than Walī and Hātim, flourished in the reign of Jahāngīr at Burhānpūr, A.H. 1030, and was still living A.H. 1056 (A.D. 1621–1646), and from a date (A.H. 1046, A.D. 1636) occurring on fol. 35 it follows that this was the time when he was writing his elegies. He was a disciple of the celebrated Shaikh Aḥmad Fārūqī, who died at Sirhind, A.H. 1034 (A.D. 1625). Hāṣḥim was the author of several other works and a Dīwān, but according to the custom of his time these were written in Persian. A few bands by the poets "Kazim" and "Qādir" are also included in the volumes.

111. TALES. 381.

حكايات لطيف

Hikāyāt-i Latīf.

Fols. 50;  $9\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  in.; 11 lines, each  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; written in clear Nasta līq; not dated.

A collection of seventy-six short entertaining stories translated from Arabic and Persian. The diction of the translation, however, is indifferent, and full of antiquated phrases.

Begins:

Qissahā.

Fols. 29;  $9\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 17 lines, each  $4\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in Nasta līq in the twelfth century A.H.

A few short tales of the wisdom of birds. In the last tale the compiler has described the condition of Calcutta and Monghīr as it existed during his time. At the end there is a short selection from the poems of the celebrated Mirzā Muḥammad Rafī', poetically styled "Saudā" of Dehlī (d. A.H. 1195, A.D. 1781).

The tales, which are written in old Urdū, begin:

الهداية فى الفروع

Al-Hidāyat fī al-Furū'.

Fols. 193;  $10\frac{a}{s}$  in. by 6 in.; 19 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in large Naskh; fols. 88 and 89 supplied by another hand; headings in red; a little worm-eaten; not dated.

The last part of Shaikh Burhānal-Dīn Abūal-Ḥasan 'Alī bin Abī Bakr bin 'Abd al-Jalīl al-Marghīnānī's (died а.н. 593, а.р. 1197) famous work on Muḥammadan law according to the Ḥanafite school, also styled ختاب هداية المبتدى, see No. 158 above, where a similar portion of the work is described. The kitābs or books that appear here are:

فقه الامامية

Fiqh al-Imāmiyyat.

Fols. 250;  $9\frac{1}{4}$ - $9\frac{2}{8}$  in. by 6 in.; 13 lines, each  $3\frac{7}{8}$  in. long; written in Naskh by different hands; corrections and additions, both marginal and interlinear; slightly worm-eaten, especially towards the end; there seem to be some lacunas, since the catchwords on fols. 6b, 23b, 51b, 117b, 142b, 156b, 196b, 203b, and 227b do not agree with the first words on the next pages; fols. 103 and 157 are left blank; not dated.

The same portion of the  $\underline{Sh}$  ite law-book by Sirāj al-Ḥaqq, which is described in No. 15 above, except that a few  $b\bar{a}bs$  in that copy must have been overlooked by the joint compilers of the Arabic part of the Catalogue. It is arranged most unsystematically, as the following copy proves. The authorities most frequently quoted are the  $\underline{sh}$

الاحكام, by Jamāl al-Dīn al-Muṭahhar al-Ḥillī, the head of the Imāmī sect in 'Irāq (died A.H. 726, A.D. 1326), see Aumer (Munich Cat.), No. 372, and Brockelmann, ii, p. 64, No. 11; and the شرائع السلام, i.e. the شرائع السلام, by Abū al-Qāsim Najm al-Dīn Ja'far bin Muḥammad bin Yaḥyā bin Sa'īd al-Ḥillī, the favourite law-book of the Shī'ites, printed Caleutta, 1839; edited with Russian translation by Kasembeg, fascieulus i, St. Petersburg, 1862; see Brockelmann, i, p. 406, No. 4.

THE SECOND QISM OF THE SAME SHITTE LAW-BOOK.

Fols. 57-137;  $9\frac{7}{8}$  in. by  $7\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 19 lines, each  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in clear Naskh; occasional additions and glosses on the margin.

This portion of the Fiqh al-Imāmiyyat is styled القسم الثّانى فى and follows closely the arrangement of the العقود (see the preceding copy). It is divided into ten books (here called كتاب) and subdivided into bābs and faṣls.

Contents.

- 1. كتاب التّجارة , in twelve bābs, on fol. 57b.
- 2. كتاب الدّين والقرض , in three faṣls, on fol. 81 $\delta$  ( = باب الدّين والقرض in the preceding copy).
- 3. كتاب في الرّهن , in four faṣls, on fol. 88a ( = باب الرّهن in the preceding copy).
  - 4. كتاب المفلس , in five faṣls, on fol. 96b.
  - 5. جاحاً , in three faṣls, on fol. 104b.
- 6. كتاب التّهمان, in three bābs, on fol. 108b, l. 2 (the first bāb, باب الكفالة in the preceding copy, باب الكفالة the second to the باب الوكالة, and the third to the باب الوكالة.
  - 7. كتاب الصّلح , on fol. 115a (no subdivisions).
- 8. كتاب الشّركة, in three faşls, on fol. 118a ( = باب الشّركة in the preceding copy).

388.

SELECTIONS FROM THE SAME SECOND QISM AND OTHER PORTIONS OF THE FIGH AL-IMĀMIYYAT.

Fols. 93; 97 in. by 61 in.; 20-25 lines, each 41 in. long; written by a very uncouth hand in a mild kind of Shikasta; many lines in the text struck out; corrections, notes, and additions on the margin (all verified by the preceding MS. in those portions which are common to both copies); slightly worm-eaten.

Contents.

(a) Portions of the second qism:

كتاب المحجر, in three faṣls, on fol. 6a (= kitāb 5 in the preceding copy).

كتاب التسلح, on fol. 10a, first line (= kitāb 7 in the preceding copy.) متاب المزارعة, in two faşls, on fol. 12a (= kitāb 10, faşls 1 and 2 in the preceding copy).

كتاب المساقاة, in two faṣls, on fol. 14a, l. 2 (= kitāb 10, faṣls 3 and 4 in the preceding copy).

There are consequently wanting of the second qism here: the first three  $kit\bar{a}bs$ , an index of which is given on the flyleaf at the end, the last two  $b\bar{a}bs$  of kitāb 6, and the whole of kitābs 8 and 9, while kitāb 10 of the preceding copy is split here into two.

(b) Other portions of the work:

كتاب التكام, in seventeen faṣls, on fol. 18b, l. 2 (with an index on fol. 18a, fol. 17 being left blank).

باب الطّلاق, in fifteen faṣls, on fol. 43a, first line (with an index on fol. 42b).

باب الخلع , in five fuşls, on fol. 52b.

باب الطّهار, in five faṣls, on fol. 55b (with an index before it).

باب الايلاء, in four faṣls, on fol. 57b, first line.

in four faṣls, on fol. 63a, first line.

in four fasls, on fol. 69b, first line.

in ten fasls, on fol. 71b, 1. 4. كتاب المكاتبة

'كتاب الاستيلا, on fol. 78a (no subdivisions).

in seven faşls, on fol. 79a. كتاب الاقرار

تاب الجعالة, on fol. 87a (no subdivisions).

in three fasls, on fol 88a, first line. كتاب اللَّقطة

تحرير اقليدس Taḥrīr Uqlīdus.

Fols. 148; 8\(^3\) in. by 4\(^4\), in.; the original leaves are pasted on white paper; 23 lines, each 2\(^3\) in. long; written in Nasta'līq; numerous annotations and glosses, both marginal and interlinear; dated at Harāt A.H. 902 (A.D. 1496-1497); the perusal or revision of the same by the transcriber was made in A.H. 904 (A.D. 1498-1499).

A very dilapidated, worm-eaten, and besides incomplete copy of the same Elements of Geometry by Euclid in the Arabic translation of Khwājah Naṣīr al-Dīn Muḥammad al-Ṭūsī (died A.H. 672, A.D. 1274), which has been described in No. 27 above; but both that and the present copy contain only the extracts, made from the original work (which was printed at Rome 1594). This shorter redaction was printed at Constantinople 1801. Some leaves at the beginning and end are quite loose, and it is almost impossible to arrange them in an absolutely correct order.

The copy opens abruptly in the first  $maq\bar{a}lah$ ; the second begins on fol. 15b; the third on fol. 22a; the fourth on fol. 34a, last line; the fifth on fol. 41b; the sixth on fol. 49b, l. 4; the seventh on fol. 62b; the eighth on fol. 70a; the ninth on fol. 75a; the tenth on fol. 81a; the eleventh on fol. 103a; the twelfth on fol. 115b; the thirteenth on fol. 125b, first line; the fourteenth on fol. 133a; the fifteenth on fol. 146a; an additional leaf (fol. 148) cannot be allocated. Inserted in the text are two supplements in a different handwriting, between fols. 41 and 42, and fols. 48 and 49 respectively. According to a most valuable note on fol. 147b Naṣīr al-Dīn Tūsī's Arabic translation was completed the 22nd of Sha'bān, A.H. 646 (A.D. 1248, December 10).

A Persian translation of this work by Khair al-Dīn Khān bin Lutf Allāh (A.H. 1144, A.D. 1731-1732) is described in Ethé (I.O. Cat.), No. 2260; see also J. C. Gartz, De interpretibus et explanatoribus Euclidis arabicis, Halæ, 1823.

VI. PROVERBS.

كتاب مجمع الامثال Kitāb Majma' al-Amsāl.

Fols. 334; 10\(^2\) in. by 6\(^6\) in.; 25 lines, each 4 in. long; written in splendid Naskh; occasional additions and glosses on the margin; most of the headings and initial words of proverbs in red ink; some leaves glued together in such a way that they could not be separated without risk of injuring the text; fols. 158-261 and 264-271 written on reddish paper; from fol. 272 on the paper gets gradually paler again; not dated; seals with the date A.H. 1131 (A.D. 1719) on fols. 1a and 334a.

The large collection of more than 6,000 Arabic proverbs, arranged alphabetically, by Shaikh (Abū al-Faḍl) Aḥmad bin Muḥammad al-Maidānī al-Nīshāpūrī (died A.H. 518, A.D. 1124), in two parts, viz., beginning on fol. 1a, and الْجَزَوُ الْأَوْل , beginning on fol. 161b. The former comprises the first fifteen bābs, the latter the other fifteen; at the end of fol. 160a the heading of bāb 16 appears, which is repeated on fol. 161b; each bāb, from the second to the twenty-eighth, contains an appendix of proverbs, beginning with a prosthetic alif before the respective letter of the alphabet. Bāb I, on fol. 4b, l. 2 (ا); II, on fol. 36a (ب); III, on fol. 47a (ت); IV, on fol. 58a, last line (ش); V, on fol. 60b (ج); VI, on fol. 72b (ح); VII, on fol. 87a (خ); VIII, on fol. 100a (ع), here wrongly styled الباب القاسع instead of الباب القاسع; IX, on fol. 104a, first line (ن), this bāb has the correct heading; X, on fol. 108a (); XI, on fol. 119b (;); XII, on fol. 122b (س); XIII, on fol. 134a (ش); XIV, on fol. 147a (ض); XV, on fol. 157a (ض); XVI, on fol. 161b (خ); XVII, on fol. 166b (خ); XVIII, on fol. 168b (خ); XIX, on fol. 187a (خ); XX, on fol. 191a (ض); XXI, on fol. 199b (ض); XXII, on fol. 214a (ض); XXIII, on fol. 229b (ض); XXIV, on fol. 261a (م); XXV, on fol. 287b (ص); XXVII, on fol. 306b (ه); XXVIII, on fol. 317a (ض); XXIX (the names of 225 battle-days of the Arabs), on fol. 324a; XXX (some sayings of the Prophet and the first four Khalifs), on fol. 329a; a short supplement (غيادة), on fol. 332a, first line.

Begins:

VII. ASTRONOMY.

396.

تحرير المجستى Tahrīr al-Mijistī.

Fols. 128;  $10\frac{5}{8}-10\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $5\frac{4}{4}-5\frac{3}{8}$  in.; 27-34 lines, each  $2\frac{5}{8}$  in. long; written in very small Naskh; many astronomical tables and diagrams; headings in red; an innumerable amount of glosses on the margin; worm-eaten; waterspots; dated a.H. 1011 (a.D. 1602-1603); according to the Arabic paging there seem to be lacunas after fols. 9 (one leaf) and 34 (two leaves); six blank leaves after fol. 82, three after fol. 90.

A slightly defective copy of Naṣīr al-Dīn Muḥammad al-Ṭūsī's (died а.н. 672, а.в. 1274) edition of the Arabic version of Ptolemy's μεγάλη σύνταξιε or Almagest. The patron whose favour he gained thereby was al-Hasan bin Muhammad al-Sīwāsī, with the epithets see fol. 1b, l. 14; the title on the) سيف النّاظرين and حسام الدّين same page, l. 4 ab infra); the passage quoted from the preface of this work in Loth (I.O. Cat.), No. 47, is found here on fol. 1b. 1. 5 sq. It contains the following thirteen magalas:

I, on fol. 2a; II, on fol. 18a, first line (here wrongly styled  $b\tilde{a}b$ ); III, on fol. 31a, first line; IV, on fol. 40b; V, on fol. 51b; VI, on fol. 64b; VII, on fol. 70a; VIII, not marked; IX, on fol. 88b, first line; X, on fol. 100a; XI, on fol. 104a, first line; XII, on fol. 113a, first line; XIII, on fol. 120a, first line.

Begins:

pp. 187, 620, and 745; Wenrich, 228; Brockelmann, i, p. 511, No. 39, etc.

397.

Another defective copy of the same.

Fols. 235;  $9\frac{5}{8}$  in. by  $5\frac{1}{8}$  in.; 19 lines, each  $2\frac{1}{4}$  in. long.; Naskh; all the tables left blank; worm-eaten; collated; the first 149 leaves written on green paper, the remainder on white; not dated.

Of the thirteen magalas only six are marked here, viz.: I, on fol. 2a; II, on fol. 34b; III, on fol. 57a; IV, on fol. 79b; VI, on fol. 118a; and VII, on fol. 140a; V and VIII-XIII are not indicated at all (V probably in consequence of a lacuna after fol. 101; the last subdivision of IV, beginning here on fol. 100a, last line, corresponds to fol. 50a, ll. 4 and 3 ab infra, in the preceding copy). In the beginning the first eight lines of the preface are missing.

(Col. John Baillie.)

Fols. 167 (the Arabic paging, counting the first blank leaf as fol. 1, has 168);  $8\frac{1}{2}$  in. by 6 in.; 29 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{8}-3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; written in very small Naskh; slightly worm-eaten; text and diagrams in red; dated Thursday, 11th of Safar, A.H. 1146 (A.D. 1733, July 24), by Muhammad Haikal al-Dauri; collated and provided with occasional glosses on the margin.

Another copy of Al-Sayyid al-Sharīf 'Alī al-Jurjānī's (died A.H. 816, A.D. 1413) Arabic commentary on the same Nașīr al-Dīn Muḥammad al-Ṭūsī's Elements of Astronomy, styled تذكرة للاحباب و تبصرة (see last page), a true facsimile of No. 170 above, except that the wording of the chapter headings differs. According to the colophon this commentary was finished on a Tuesday in the middle of Zū al-Hijjah, A.H. 811 (A.D. 1409, beginning of May), in Shīrāz.

Bāb I, on fol. 2b (فيما يجب تقديمه), in two faṣls; II, on fol. 14a in fourteen fasls; III, on fol. 109a (في منية الاجرام العلويّة) في معرفة مقادير) in twelve fasls; IV, on fol. 152b (في هيئة الأرض) in seven fasts. (الابعاد والاجرام

DICTIONARIES. VIII. GRAMMAR AND

399.

شرح الالفية Sharh al-Alfiyyat.

Fols. 167; 9 in. by  $6\frac{1}{8}$  in.; written by two hands, in a smaller, very neat Naskh, and in a larger bold one, the former on fols. 1-118, 134-139b, l. 7, and 157-167; 27 lines, each 4 in. long.; the latter on fols. 119-133, and 139b, ll. 8-156; 21-22 lines, each  $3\frac{7}{8}$ -4 in. long; the original text in red; numerous glosses on the margin of the part written by the first hand; shockingly worm-eaten throughout and injured in many places, especially in the part written by the second hand; the first part is dated on fol. 167a the 8th of Muḥarram, A.H. 735 (A.D. 1334, September 8), by Ḥājī 'Abd al-Laṭīf ibn 'Abd al-Raḥīm bin Muḥammad al-Dā'ūdī al-Tabrīzī.

A very old and venerable copy of the Arabic commentary of Badr al-Dīn (Abū 'Abdallāh) Muḥammad bin Muḥammad bin 'Abdallāh Ibn Mālik al-Ṭūsī (died а.н. 686, а.д. 1287) on his father, Abū 'Abdallāh Muḥammad bin 'Abdallāh, commonly called Ibn Mālik's (died а.н. 672, а.д. 1273—1274) famous grammatical poem, the الفَيّة .

Begins:

Ibn Mālik's Alfiyyah was printed Būlāq, A.H. 1253; Lucknow, A.H. 1263; Cairo, A.H. 1306; Bairūt, A.D. 1888; the same with Ibn 'Aqīl's commentary printed Būlāq, A.H. 1252; and a super-commentary on the same, ib., A.H. 1265; published by De Sacy (Or. Trans. Fund), 1833; text with French translation by L. Pinto, Constantine, 1887; edited by Fr. Dieterici, Leipzig, 1851; translated into German by the same, Berlin, 1852. On Badr al-Dīn's commentary see Loth (I.O. Cat.), No. 959; Aumer (Munich Cat.), No. 721; Ahlwardt (Berlin Cat.), No. 6635; Flügel (Vienna Cat.), No. 180; Ḥāj. Khal., i, 407; etc. For further references see Brockelmann, i, p. 298, 4, No. ii. A Persian commentary on the Alfiyyah is described in Ethé (I.O. Cat.), No. 2436.

Fols. 159;  $7\frac{1}{2}-7\frac{5}{8}$  in. by 5 in.; 19 lines, each  $2\frac{5}{8}$  in. long; written in excellent Nasta'līq; numerous annotations on the margin; small illuminated frontispieces on fols. 12b, 27b, 85a, 134a, and 159b; each page bordered by small stripes of gold and other colours; the original text overlined in red.

Fragment of an Arabic commentary on Ibn Ḥājib's (died A.H. 646, A.D. 1248) treatise on Arabic inflections, called الشافية; as there is no beginning or end to this copy, it is impossible to say which of the numerous commentaries it is—two of them are described in Nos. 32 and 33 above.

السّحاح في اللّغة Al-Ṣaḥāḥ fī al-Lughat.

Fols. 552; in two volumes, the first fols. 1-304a, the second fols. 305b-552a;  $13\frac{3}{8}-13\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $9\frac{5}{8}$  in.; written in excellent Naskh, with vowel-points throughout, but very few annotations, by four hands: the first, on fols. 1-73, 33-34 lines, each  $6\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; large waterspots; only the headings ( $b\bar{a}bs$  and fasls) written in bright-red ink. The second, on fols. 74-253, 28 lines, each  $7\frac{1}{8}-7\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; both the headings and the words explained written in large ornamental characters in black. The third, ou fols. 254-479b, 1.8; 27 lines, each  $6\frac{7}{8}$  in. long; headings and words likewise in large characters, but in dark red. The fourth, on fols. 479b, 1.9, to fol. 552; 27 lines, each  $7-7\frac{1}{8}$  in. long; headings and words in large characters in black; dated by the fourth hand the 18th of Rajab, A.H. 667 (A.D. 1269, March 23).

A splendid old copy of the famous Arabic Lexicon of Imām Abū Naṣr Isma'īl bin Ḥammād al-Jauharī al-Fārābī (died probably A.H. 393, A.D. 1003). The bābs are constituted by the third radical, the faṣls by the first and second radicals.

شمس العلوم و دواءً كلام العرب من الكلوم Shams al-'Ulūm wa dawā' kalām al-'Arab min al-Kulūm.

Fols. 610; 10 in. by  $5\frac{7}{8}-6\frac{1}{8}$  in.; written by six different hands in Naskh, the first in the main portion of the index; the second in the Supplement on fol. 1; the third, on fols. 18-24, 35 lines, each 4 in. long; the fourth, on fols. 25-85 and 88-314, 33 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; the fifth, on fols. 86 and 87 (a very modern hand on white paper), 33 lines, each  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; the sixth, on fols. 315-610, 33 lines, each  $3\frac{7}{8}$  in. long; not dated, but the name of the sixth transcriber is given on fol. 465a as 'Abd al-Ghanī bin 'Abdallāh bin 'Uṣmān bin Shihāb al-Dīn al-Lāhūrī; slightly worm-eaten; a few pages of the original text are cancelled either partly or entirely, see for instance fols. 85, 88, 558, 559, etc.; occasional annotations and glosses on the margin.

The comprehensive Arabic dictionary by Nashwān bin Sa'īd al-Ḥimyarī, who completed this work in Egypt in Ramaḍān, A.H. 570 (A.D. 1175, March-April), see fol. 18b. It is divided into an introduction (مقتعة الكتاب), dealing with general preliminary questions of grammar and lexicography, beginning with a باب on fol. 19b, and four sections (called التصريف), the first of which begins on fol 26a, third line (كتاب الهمزة باب الهمزة باب الهمزة), and ends on fol. 178a; the second begins on fol. 179b (باب التال السماء المضاعفة المضاعفة) and ends on fol. 314a; the third begins on fol. 315b (التال الاسماء المضاعفة) and ends on fol. 465a; the fourth begins on fol. 465b (داب القاف والزّاى) and ends on fol. 610a. The alphabetical arrangement is the usual one, but all reduplicated stems stand first in each letter, and the اسماء or nouns, which are separated from the افعال or verbs, always precede the latter.

Begins:

شرح الحماسة

Sharh al-Hamāsah.

Fols. 178;  $10\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $7\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 29-41 lines, each  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in. long; written in Naskh, which is large and ornamental in the verses of the original text, with full vowel-points, but extremely small and very trying for the eye in the commentary; innumerable glosses and annotations; the names of the poets are usually written in red; the MS. is in a shocking condition, owing to the ravages of the worms, and severely injured in many places. According to the Arabic paging there is a very large lacuna after fol. 4, since fol. 5 is marked 32 (correctly 42, as fol. 6 is 43, unless there is another lacuna of ten leaves after fol. 5, the catchword, however, being correct); another strange point is that the catchword at the end of fol. 34b agrees with the first word on fol. 36a, and that the Arabic paging skips over fol. 35 too, unless it is a mere mistake in numbering.

A very defective copy of the Imam Abū 'Alī Ahmad bin Muhammad bin al-Hasan al-Marzūqī's (died A.H. 421, A.D. 1030) commentary on the famous Hamāsah of Abū Tammām Ḥabīb bin Aus Tā'ī (died а.н. 231, A.D. 845-846). As to subdivisions, only five are marked, owing to the lacuna after fol. 4, viz. : باب المراثى, begins on fol. 4a; باب الادب, begins on fol. 93a and ends on fol. 101b; باب التسيب, begins on fol. 102b and ends on fol. 126a; باب الججا, begins on fol. 127b and ends on fol. 140b; باب الاضياف والمدائم, begins on fol. 141b and goes to the end.

Rückert, Stuttgart, 1848. Other text-editions, Būlāq, A.H. 1286; Calcutta, 1856; Shaikh 'Abd al-Qādir's commentary on the Hamāsah appeared in Bombay, 1883.

An incomplete copy of the treatise on the Sufic styles of letterwriting by 'Abd al-Rahmān bin Muhammad bin 'Alī bin Ahmad al-Ḥanafī al-Bisṭāmī (see fols. 228a and 228b, ll. 4 and 5), who died A.H. 858 (A.D. 1454). تأريخ گزيده

Ta'rīkh-i-Guzīdah.

Fols. 258; 9 in. by 6½ in.; 21 lines, each 4½ in. long; written in large and clear Naskh, with headings in red; slightly worm-eaten; some spaces left blank on fols. 227b, 228a, and 228b; some words a little effaced here and there; a considerable lacuna after fol. 183; the catchwords on fols. 35b and 200b do not agree with the first words on the following pages either, but the text is apparently uninterrupted; dated the 22nd of Jumādā II, A.H. 848 (A.D. 1444, October 6) at Qazwīn; A.H. 1023 (A.D. 1614) appears as date of a former owner on fol. 1b.

Another rather defective copy of the general history from the earliest times to A.H. 730 (A.D. 1329–1330), fully described in No. 185 above (on fol. 1a it is styled كتاب گزيده). The author's name (on fol. 2a, lines 4 and 5) runs here thus: Hamd bin Muḥammad bin Abī Bakr bin Aḥmad bin Naṣr Mustaufī Qazwīnī.

The fatihah, on the creation of the world, begins on fol. 6b, last line. Bāb I, in two fasls, on fols. 8a and 26b respectively.

Bāb II, in four fuṣls, on fols. 31b, 35b, 40a, and 41a respectively.

Bāb III, in a muqaddimah, on fol. 49b, and six fasls, on fols. 51a, 65a, 79b, 82a, 97a, and 110a respectively.

Bāb IV, in twelve fasls, of which, however, only the first six are marked on fols. 140b, 143a, first line, 148a, last line, 153b, 156a, and 163b, first line, respectively; fasls 7-11 seem to be entirely missing, owing to the lacuna after fol. 183, eleverly concealed by a correct catchword, and a few insignificant lines on fol. 184a, supplied by a different hand; of fasl 12 only the third maqsad is found here, beginning on fol. 184b with the history of Ching $\overline{z}$

Bāb V, in six faṣls, on fols. 200b, 201b, last line, 202a, 219b, and 228b respectively (the heading of faṣl 6 is left blank).

Bāb VI, in eight faṣls, on fols. 238a, 243b, 244a, 245a, 245b, 248a, 250b, and 252a respectively.

The conclusion, containing the genealogies, begins on fol. 257b. Begins:

407.

بحر الانساب

Bahr al-Ansāb.

Fols. 91; 9½ in. by 5½ in.; 17 lines, each 3 in. long; written in good Nasta'līq, with headings in red; illuminated beginning; gold-lined round the columus; bound in stamped leather; copied at Karah (Allāhābād) by Abū al-Fatḥ b. Shaikh Fīrūz Quraishī al-Ṣiddīqī; dated A.H. 1011 (A.D. 1602-1603).

"The Sea of Generations," being the Persian version of a history of the families of the ancestors of Muḥammad from Adam downwards of himself, of the first six Khalīfahs, and the Imāms. The translator, Muḥammad Ja'far Ḥusainī of Makkah, states in the preface that the Arabic original was the work of his own father. It is written in very simple style, illustrated with numerous family tables, and in the part dealing with the history of Muḥammad and his ancestors a great many quotations in Arabic (and translation) are given on the authority of Imām 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib (d. A.H. 40, A.D. 661, see above, Nos. 6-8 and 269), the son-in-law of Muḥammad.

Contents.

- The ancestors of Muḥammad, including a number of Prophets, on fol. 1b.
- II. Muḥammad the Prophet, on fol. 33a.
- III. The first six Khalīfahs and the Imāms, on fol. 64b.

The preface begins:

حمد بسیار و ثنای بی شمار مسر حضرت پروردگار جلّت قدرقرا . . . می گویدبندهٔ نبوی . . . که بحر الانساب از آن خدمت والد فدّس الله روحه بود بپارسی بیانی کردم ـ المخ

The first Arabic quotation begins:

تأریخ تیموری Ta'rīkh-i-Tīmūrī.

Fols. 292; 10 in. by  $6\frac{1}{8}-6\frac{4}{4}$  in.; 17 lines, each  $3\frac{4}{8}$  in. long; clear Nasta Tq. Dated the 29th Rajab, A.H. 1004 (as it seems, the figures being slightly injured) = 29th March, A.D. 1596. Presented with three other Eastern MSS. to the University of Edinburgh by Colonel Hector Munro of Nowar, upon his return to Britain after the memorable victory he obtained over the Indians in Bengal at the battle of Buxar on the 23rd October, 1764.

The oldest abridgement and simplification of Sharaf al-Dīu 'Alī Yazdī's خافرناه (A.H. 828), see No. 73 above, by an anonymous writer who was induced to undertake this task by Maulānā Burhān al-Dīn of Khurāsān (see fol. 3b, l. 11); his princely patrons were Shams al-Dīn Sulṭān Muḥammad (fol. 4a, l. 4), who seems to be identical with Mirzā Sulṭān Muḥammad (appointed A.H. 846, A.D. 1442–1443, by Shāhrukh governor of 'Irāq, afterwards independent ruler of Khurāsāu), who called Sharaf al-Dīn to his capital Qumm, and Zain al-Dīn Sulṭān 'Alī Mirzā (fol. 4a, ll. 9 and 10). He began to write the original copy of this extract the 1st of Ramaḍān, A.H. 879, and finished it the 4th of Shawwāl in the same year (9th January to 11th February, A.D. 1475) (see here fol. 4a, ll. 1 and 13). The history begins with Tīmūr's birth, on fol. 4b.

بادشاهنامه

Pādishāhnāma.

Fols. 441; 113 in. by 63 in.; 19 lines, each 33 in. long; distinct Nasta līq; no date; presented to the University of Edinburgh by Colonel Hector Munro at the same time as the تأريخ تيموري.

The oldest history of the first ten years of the Emperor Shāhjahān's reign (A.H. 1037–1047, A.D. 1628–1637), by Muḥammad Amīn ibn Abī al-Ḥusain Qazwīnī (fol. 9a, l. 2 ab infra), who entered the emperor's service as munshī in the fifth year of his reign, A.H. 1042, A.D. 1632–1633 (see fol. 9b, last line). His former work, بنديله appears on fols. 9b (l. 13) and 11a (l. 4 ab infra); another, rather incorrect title, under which the work is known, viz. شاهنانه , appears here on fol. 1a and at the top of the binding. It is divided into a مقدم, a مقدم, a مقدم, and a مقدم, a die, and a مقدم.

Muqaddimah, or Introduction, on fol. 11a, last line: history of Shāhjahān's life from his birth to his accession in A.H. 1037, together with a lengthy account of his predecessors.

Maqālah, or Discussion, on fol. 128b, first line: history of the first ten years of Shāhjahān's reign; the tenth year begins on fol. 410a.

Khātimah, or Conclusion, on fol. 426b, l. 2: biographical notices of holy and learned men, physicians, and poets of the period.

This copy is particularly interesting, as from the cancelling of many parts of the text, especially in the muqaddimah, we may conclude that we have got here the author's first sketch or brouillon. The following pieces are struck out: the last two lines of fol. 13a; the whole of fols. 13b-18a; the first half of fol. 18b and parts of fol. 19a; one line on fol. 23a; parts of fols. 35b and 38b; the whole of fol. 39, except the heading on fol. 39b, last line; several lines on fols. 57b, 58a, 70a, 73a, 78b, 84b, 85b, and 86a; the whole of fol. 86b and parts of fols. 87a and 99a; the whole of fol. 100a (last line) to fol. 101a, l. 8; the last line of fol. 101b and parts of fol. 102a; one line on fol. 320a. There are besides occasional corrections and additions on the margin.

Chahār (or Chār) Gulshan.

Fols. 114;  $10\frac{3}{4}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{8}$ – $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 17 lines, each 4 in. long; written in Nasta'līq; headings in red; occasional corrections on the margin; not dated.

A general history and topography of the sūbahs of India and the (see fol. 114a, l. penult., and تواريخ الاختبار see Rieu, B.M.P. Cat., iii, چتر گلشن (see Rieu, B.M.P. Cat., iii, pp. 910b and 1035b), and اخبار التوادر (see ib., pp 910b and 1051b, xviii), composed by Rai Chaturman (fol. 1b), or, with his full name, Chaturman Rāi, a Kāyath of the tribe of Saksīnah, called Rāi-Zādah (see fol. 2b, 1l. 9 and 10, and fol. 114b, l. 4), and finished A.H. 1173, A.D. 1759-1760 (see fol. 114a, last line), a week before his death (see fol. 114b, ll. 4 and 5). The chronogram for its completion is (see fol. 2b, 1. 3 ab infra). It was written at the request of the Wazīr Ghāzī al-Dīn Khān, known as Shihāb al-Dīn Khān, at the time of the second invasion of Shah Ahmad Abdali (see fol. 114a, ll. 1 and 2), and the author's original introduction begins on fol. 2b, 1.2:

A grandson of the author, called here Rāi Chandarbhān (in Rieu, loc. cit., Rāi Khān Munshī), a Kāyath of the same Saksīnah tribe, finally arranged the work in A.H. 1204, A.D. 1789-1790 (see the chronogram دایما سیراب بادا چار گلشن در جهان on fol. 2b, first line), and added another Introduction, beginning on fol. 1b:

412.

نظام التواريخ Nigām al-Tawārīkh.

Fols. 57; 9½ in. by 5½ in.; 17 lines, each 3 in. long; gold-lined round the columns; written in good Nasta Iq, with headings in red, in the same handwriting as the Baḥr al-Ansāb (see above, No. 407), by the same copyist and probably in the same year.

This is a valuable short history of Persia from the earliest times to A.H. 674 (A.D. 1275-1276), by Naṣīr al-Dīn Abū Saʿīd 'Abd-allāh b. "Qāḍī al-Quḍāt" Imām al-Dīn Abī al-Qāsim 'Umar b. Fakhr al-Dīn Abī al-Ḥasan 'Alī al-Baiḍāwī, who has been mentioned above (see Nos. 1 and 155) in connection with his celebrated commentary upon the Qurān.

The work is divided into four qisms or chapters:—

- I. Fol. 3a (which is numbered 97): The Prophets, from Adam to Noah, the sages and kings; ten in number, extending over a period of nearly 2,500 years.
- II. Fol. 5a (numbered 98). The ancient Kings of Persia, in four tā'ifahs or dynasties: (1) The Pīshdādians, eleven kings, who reigned 2,508 years; (2) the Kayānians, nine in number, reigning for a period of 738 years; (3) the Ashkānians, twenty in number, for 395 years; (4) the Sāsānians, thirty-one kings, reigning for 429 years.
- III. Fol. numbered 119a (at this place a few folios are misplaced in binding). The Khalīfahs, in three tā'ifahs: (1) the first six Khalīfahs from Abū Bakr Ṣiddīq to Ḥusain, the Martyr, the first four reigning for nearly 30 years; (2) the Umayyades, thirty in number, who reigned for 95 years; (3) the 'Abbāsides, thirty-seven Khalīfahs, for 520 years.
- IV. Fol. numbered 129a. The royal dynasties of Persia contemporary with the 'Abbāsides, in nine tā'ifahs: (1) the Ṣaffārīs, on fol. 129b; (2) the Sāmānīs, on fol. 130a; (3) the Ghaznawīs, on fol. 131a; (4) the Dailamīs, on fol. 133b; (5) the Saljūqīs, on fol. 136b; (6) the Mulāḥidīs (Eastern Ismā'īlians of Quhistān), on fol. 140a; (7) the Sulghūrīs, on fol. 141a; (8) the Khwārazmīs, on fol. 146a; (9) the Moghuls, on fol. 148a.

The work ends with an account of Ghāzān b. Abāqā-Khān, who ascended the throne A.H. 694 (A.D. 1295) (see fol.  $141\alpha$ , third line from end), but that is evidently a later addition, and the real date of the work is A.H. 674 (A.D. 1275).

II. BIOGRAPHY.

حالات "آصف خانان"

Hālāt-i "'Āsaf-Khānān".

Fols. 9;  $10\frac{1}{8}$  in. by  $6\frac{1}{4}$  in.; 19 lines, each 4 in. long; written in clear Nasta'līq; badly stained by damp and injured; written in the same year and by the same scribe as the Maāṣir above (No. 411).

This is a short anonymous biography chiefly of Abū al-Ḥasan, entitled "Yamīn al-Daulah Āṣaf-Khān", son of I'timād al-Daulah, the Wazīr. He was the father of Mumtāz al-Zamānī Arjumand-Bānū Bīgam, the favourite wife of Shāhjahān. Āṣaf-Khān died at the age of 72, A.H. 1051 (A.D. 1641). The work opens with brief accounts of the other three nobles, who flourished in the reign of Akbar the Great, and who also enjoyed the same title (Āṣaf Khān):—

- Khwājah 'Abd al-Majīd Harawī, a descendant of Shaikh Zain al-Dīn Abū Bakr Tāibādī, who received the title (Āṣaf-Khān) in the fifth year of Akbar the Great. Little, however, is known about the later days of his life.
- Khwājah Ghiyās al-Dīn 'Alī b. Āqā Mullā Qazwīnī, a descendant of Shaikh Shihāb al-Dīn Suhrawardī. He was maternal grandfather to Mumtāz-Maḥall, and had the title conferred upon him in the eighteenth year of the reign, and died in the twenty-eighth (A.H. 989, A.D. 1581).
- 3. Ja'far Beg b. Badī' al-Zamān b. Āqā Mullā Qazwīnī. He received the title in the twentieth year of the reign, was a good poet, and completed the Ta'rīkh-i Alfī after the death of Mullā Aḥmad. He is mentioned in the Jahāngīrnāmah. He died A.H. 1021 (A.D. 1612).

The work concludes with the death (in the fifth year of Farrukhsiyar's reign, A.H. 1128-1129, A.D. 1716-1717) of Āṣaf al-Daulah Asad-Khān, son-in-law of Āṣaf-Khāu IV.

Shuqqah.

Fol. 1; 18½ in. by 8½ in.; 14 lines in the centre, each 5½ in. long and 12 on the right margin, each 2 in.; written in running Nasta Iq, on gold and colour-sprinkled paper, rolled and enclosed in a silk bag, and secured by means of a large seal in wax; dated 5th October, 1872.

A ceremonial invitation to the donor, who was Civil Surgeon at Āgra, from Birj Indar Sawāhī Jaswant-Singh, the Mahārājah of Bharatpūr, on the occasion of the birth of a son. It is written in extremely florid style. Jaswant-Singh was the son of Mahārājah Balwant-Singh, and succeeded his father on the 16th March, A.D. 1853, when he was only 2 years old.

Khulāsat al-Aṭibbā-i-Ḥamīdkhānī.

Fols. 766;  $10\frac{1}{2}$  in. by  $6\frac{3}{4}$  in.; written by a conglomerate of hands in various styles of Nasta'līq, and even Shikasta; the oldest hand on fols. 1-83, 87, and 89-164, 17 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long; another hand, or rather hands, on fols. 165-427b, 15-16 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}-3\frac{7}{6}$  in. long; a third hand in a decided, but mild, Shikasta on fols. 429-543 and 545-582a, 15 lines (on fol. 429a, 19 lines), each  $3\frac{7}{6}$  in. long; a fourth hand on fols. 585-712 and 721-765, 16 lines, each  $3\frac{1}{2}-3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long; besides there are a good number of stray hands on fols. 84-86, 88

(which is a mere repetition of the leaf immediately following, and therefore not counted in the Arabic paging at all), 544, 713-720, and 766; some parts of the original text cancelled (for instance, on fols. 83b, 101a, and 750a, besides the whole of fols. 101b and 104a); occasional annotations on the margin; fol. 428, part of fol. 582a, and fols. 582b-584b left blank.

A vast and unique thesaurus of the science of medicine, but, in spite of its considerable length, still incomplete; it was originally planned to contain 89 bābs (the index gives 90, the last two of which were to deal with the stars, i.e. astronomy or rather astrology, and with geomancy), 276 faṣls, and 371 nau's; but the present copy only exhibits the first 66; with the heading of bāb 67 it breaks off. The above title appears in the Introduction on fol. 2b, l. 4; the author styles himself merely بندهٔ درگاه نصرت سبحانی حامد خیر سلطانی; whether Ḥâmidkhān is his real name, or the name of the patron to whom the work was dedicated, is not clear. It is based on all the older Persian works on medicine, from the earliest one, the خوارزه شاهی خوارزه شاهی

Fol. 217;  $12\frac{5}{6}$  in. by  $7\frac{3}{4}$  in.; 15-22 lines in the text (on fol. 1b 26 lines), each  $5\frac{3}{4}-6\frac{1}{6}$  in. long; written in careless Nasta'līq; the first two leaves added by another hand on whiter paper; full-sized tables on fols. 9a, 9b, 11a, 12a, 23b, 24a-41a, 42a-59b, 60b-66a, 67a-69a, 74a-79a, 94b-101a, 103b-109a, 110b-149a, 152a-155a, 157a, 158a, 161b-167a, 168a, 168b, 170a-176a, 177a, 177b, 179b-186b, 188a, 188b, 189b, 190a, 191b-197b, 198b, 199a, 200a, 201b-213a, and 214b-217a; smaller tables on fols. 4b, 5b, 6b, 7a, 8b, 11b, 66b, 94a, 101b, 102a-103a, 109b, 110a, 149b, 155b-156b, 158b-161a, 167b, 169a, 169b, 176b, 178a-179a, 187a, 187b, 189a, 190b, 191a, 198a, 199b, 201a, 213b, 214a, and 217b; fols. 23a, 41b, 60a, 70a-73b, 79b-81a, 93b, 150a-151b, and 200b are left blank; not dated.

Explanations of the astronomical tables of Muḥammad Shāh (drawn up in the reign of the Emperor Muḥammad Shāh, A.H. 1131-1161, A.D. 1719-1748) by Bin 'Azīm al-Dīn Muḥammad Khān 'Abdallāh, called Mahārat Khān (see fol. 2b, lin. penult.). He divided his work, according to the statement on fol. 3a, l. 8, into a muqaddimah and five maqālas, of which, however, this copy only contains the first three.

Muqaddimah on things most important to know before beginning this book (سقدّمه در بیان آنچه پیش از شروع این کتاب آن اهم است), on fol. 3a in 2 maṭlabs.

First maqālah on the most current eras (مقالهٔ اوّل در معرفت تواریخ), on fol. 4b, in ten bābs, viz.: (1) the Turkish, Arabic, and Persian names of the twelve years which formed, according to the old Turkish calendar, a so-called مور, or cycle, each year being named after an animal, viz., mouse, ox, leopard, hare, fish or water-dragon, snake, horse, sheep, ape, bird, dog, and pig; (2) Ilāhī era, that is the Ilāhī-Shāhjahānī, instituted in the first year of Shāhjahān's reign, A.H. 1037 (not 1033, as is wrongly stated here on fol. 5a, l. 2) = A.D. 1628;

(3) Malikī or Malakī era, also called Jalālī era, instituted by Jalāl al-Dīn Malik Shāh or Malak Shāh the Saljūq, A.H. 471 (A.D. 1079); (4) Hijrī era; (5) Rūmī or Greek era, instituted after the death of Alexander the Great; (6 and 7) Persian or Yazdajird era; (8) Indian or Samvat era; (9) Christian era; (10) a comparative table of some of these eras.

Second maqālah, on the determination of the ascendant of each time (قالهٔ دویم در معرفت طالع هر وقت) on fol. 12b, first line, in 22 bābs.

Third maqūlah, on the motions of the stars, and their positions in altitude and longitude (مقالهٔ سيوم در معرفت روش ستارگان و مواضع), on fol. 81b, in 13 bābs.

Begins on fol. 2b:

ثناء بسیار وحمد بیشمار خکیمی را که راصد حکمت ـ المخ

But before this genuine preface of the work there is added on fols. اa-2a part of the preface to the شاهی, in which the Rājput prince and Rājah of Amber, Jai Singh, embodied his astronomical observations, at the command of the Emperor Muhammad Shāh, A.H. 1140-1141 (A.D. 1728), a full description of which is given in Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), ii, pp. 460 and 461. This fact has misled Dr. (later Sir) William Hunter, of Calcutta, the donor of this MS., to represent the present work as the famous composition of Jai Singh, with which it has, in fact, nothing to do. The جديد محمد شاهي شنای که خرد خبوردهبین مهندسان عقده (see fol. 1a here) has no muqaddimah, but the same three maqalahs as the present work, the subdivisions of which, however, are entirely different; there are in the first magalah four babs instead of our ten, giving as current eras only those of the Hijrah, of Muhammad Shah (not found in our copy), of Christ, and of Samvat; in the second, nineteen instead of our twenty-two; and in the third a muqaddimah, four bābs, and a khātimah, instead of our thirteen bābs.

Cf. besides Rieu (B.M.P. Cat.), loc. cit., Dr. W. Hunter's "Account of the Astronomical Labours of Jaya Sinha", in Asiatic Researches, vol. v, pp. 177-211 (with Jai Singh's preface in text and translation).

A famous Persian dictionary, chiefly for the purpose of explaining the terminology of the Ṣūfīs, by 'Abd al-Raḥīm bin Aḥmad Sūr, of Bihār (see fol. 1a, 1. 3), who flourished about A.H. 950 (A.D. 1543); also styled في عبد الرّحيم بهاري. It is arranged in this way: the first letter constitutes the bāb, the last the faṣl.

المجامع لقوى The title of the work (see folio 886) is given as المجامع لقوى. The title is usually given without لقوى. تقوى

This volume consists of portions of the above work. Four manuscripts have been utilised. A note on folio 1b leads us to infer that the work was in three parts each consisting of 120 folios, at least so far as the MS. of which folio 1 is a part is concerned.

- (a) Folio 1 is the concluding page of the second part of that work. The copyist was Al-Ḥājj Ibrāhīm b. al-Shaikh 'Abd al-Raḥmān b. al-Naqīq of the city of Arka. The transcription of that part was completed in Rajab, 960 а.н.
- (b) Folios 2a-73b and 78a-88b are in the same hand and have 22 lines to the page. This MS. is not dated, but a note states it was in possession of Ibrāhīm al-Ṣabbāgh (the dyer) b. al- Ḥājj 'Alī al-Shāfi'ī in а.н. 1068.
- (c) Folios 74a-77b are in a different hand on a different kind of paper, and have 25 lines to the page.
- (d) Folios 89a-103 in yet another hand with 27 lines to the page. Such leaves as belonged to MS. b have at some time or other become disarranged, and have not been re-arranged before binding. Of the treatise on medicaments arranged in their alphabetical order, we have here folios 2a-9b (جنوب نصر المناب بالمناب بالمن

MS. e(j) to (j) is appropriately inserted.

MS. d begins with the letter  $\omega$  and proceeds as far as  $\omega$  where it breaks off.

Diyā al-Dīn was born at Malaga and journeyed for his botanical researches through Egypt, Asia Minor, and Greece. Thereafter he held the post of chief botanist to al-Malik al-Kāmil at Damascus, where he died A.H. 646.

This work (see its preface) is entitled المنسق العبدس الصوريّ المنسوب الى اقـليدس الصوريّ. It is explained that the work is based on the editions of Al-Ḥajjāj and Sābit. In Al-Ḥajjāj's there were 468 propositions, and in the work of Sābit ten more. In the present work there are 469. The diagrams taken from Sābit are in red, and from Al-Ḥajjāj in black.

The number of propositions in each book is as follows:-

I = 47; II = 14; III = 35; IV = 16; V = 25; VI = 32; VIII = 39, VIII = 25; IX = 38; X = 105; XI = 41; XII = 15; XIII = 21; XIV = 10; XV = 6.

. تحفة اخوان الصفا This MS. is entitled

The Ikhwān al-Ṣafā was the name assumed by a band of philosophic writers (free thinkers) who associated in Baṣra in the middle of the fourth cent. A.H. Included in their number were Abū Sulaimān M. b. Mushīr al-Bustī, Al-Muqqadasī, Abū-al-Ḥasan 'Alī b. Hārūn al-Zanjānī, etc. Their treatises, 51 in all (Risā'il Ikhwān al-Ṣafā), achieved great popularity both in their own time and subsequently. See E. Hungerford, The Arabian Brothers of Purity, Andover Review, 1888, pp. 281-93; F. In the preface the author states that he began a work on this subject in Mecca in the year 749, but it and other work suffered by his removal to Cairo (i.e. as Professor of Tafsir in the Qubbat al-Manṣūrīya). In the year 756 (i.e. when he changed over from the Shāfi'ite position to the Ḥanbalite) he returned to Mecca and took up the work a second time "with the prime of diligence, with no laziness nor dilatoriness".

The work is divided into eight sections, as follows (headings of sections as given under No. 35):—

i begins fol. 3b; ii, fol. 176a; iii, fol. 201b; iv, fol. 210b; v, fol. 237b; vi, fol. 279b; vii, fol. 285a; viii, fol. 288b.

In the margin of this MS. we have quotations from a number of commentators. Each marginal comment has attached to it the name of the commentator. The commentators include Al-Shumunnī (d. 872), Al-Damāmīnī (d. 827), Al-Suyūṭī (d. 911), and Shaikh 'Abd al-'Alīf Al-Shumunnī is the one most frequently quoted. Marginal comments are not found after fol. 224b (middle of section IV).

This MS. is a commentary on the Talkhīs al-Miftāh of Jamāl al-Dīn M. b. 'Abd al-Raḥmān al-Qazwīnī (d. а.н. 739 (1338)), itself an extract from the Miftāh al-'Ulām of Sirāj al-Dīn Yūsuf b. Abī Bekr al-Sakkākī (d. а.н. 626 (1229)). The author of our MS., Sa'd al-Dīn Mas'ūd b. 'Omar al-Taftāzānī, explains in his preface that he had already written a commentary on the Talkhīs al-Miftāh (evidently Al-Sharḥ al-Muṭawwal; cf. Brockelmann, i, p. 295), but yielding to strong entreaty he prepared this shorter commentary. This work appears to be generally known under the title Al-Sharḥ al-Mukhtaṣar (cf. Brockelmann, i, p. 295). It was completed in а.н. 789 (1387).

Al-Taftāzānī was born A.H. 722 (1322) at Taftāzān. He was brought to Samarqand at the instance of Tīmūr. He died A.H. 791 (1389); cf. Brockelmann, ii, p. 215.

1. 8. The index is incomplete.

The ten authors of whom account is given in the MS. are (1) Ṣafī al-Dīn al-Ḥalabī (?). The folio or folios for this are wanting. The date of his death alone is given at beginning of folio 421; (2) Shams al-Dīn b. Jābir al-Andalusī, 420a; (3) Abū Ja'far al-Faranāṭī, 421a; (4) 'Izz al-Dīn al-Mauṣilī, 420b; (5) Abū Bekr Ṭaqī al-Dīn b. Ḥijjah, 421b; (6) Ṣāfī al-Dīn al-Ḥillī, 422a; (7) Ismā'īl b. al-Muqarri (?), 423a; (8) Jalāl-al-Dīn al-Suyūṭī, 423b; (9) Wajīh al-Dīn al-'Alawī, 424b; (10) 'Abd al-Qādir al-Ṭabarī, 425a.

The author was born at Medina A.H. 1053 (1642), and held the appointment of Khān and Dīwānī in Burhānpūr under Aurangzīb. He died A.H. 1104 (1692).

There are a few marginal notes on the MS. labelled Al-Sa'īd.

This is a famous zoological dictionary, alphabetically arranged. It treats of the etymology of the names, the significance of the animals in the Qurān, tradition, ancient poetry, and proverbs, and their place in medicine and superstition. It begins with the lion (العسوب) and ends with the bee, or rather king of the bees (العسوب), medium (الكبرى), and small (الصغرى). The edition before us is الكبرى). Prefixed to it is a bibliograhy of 560 books in prose and 197 in verse. A half-folio containing part of this list is missing.

147.

Dated the month of Barmahāt (March) of the year 1124 (?), era of Martyrs (A.D. 1408); copyist, the priest Fadl-allāh al-'Asmar.

This MS. contains the four gospels with the Ammonian sections and Eusebian canons. The Gospels Matthew, Luke, and John have introductions. According to a statement on fol. 202a, it is a recension based on a number of old MSS.—Syriac, Greek, Coptic, and Arabic.

148.

The copyist was Yāqūt Mu'jiz Qalam.

On the fly-leaf is written قران مجيد بخط ياقوت معجز قلم

At the end is written by the copyist

كتبه معجز قلم على طرز الياقوت.

Bound up with it is a prayer for the enjoyment of the Quran, its retention in the memory, etc.

152.

р. 132, l. 7, read: а.н. 1058 (а.д. 1647), see folio 280b.

This Quran is complete but some folios have been disarranged. The order of the folios should be 278, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 279, 280. There is bound up with it the على attributed to the Prophet. This portion belonged originally to another MS. (probably a Quran) by the same copyist. It is dated separately A.H. 1067 (1656): copyist, Hasan b. Ṣātilmish.

p. 132, 1.25, read: also a few prayers, descriptions of the persons of the Prophet, Abu Bekr, 'Omar, 'Othmān, 'Alī, the 'Asmā', al-Ḥusnā, etc.

154.

This MS. is written in  $Maghrib\bar{\imath}$  character. To the skin cover the hair still adheres in parts. It has a crude frontispiece illuminated with red and brown inks.

It contains the second half of the Qurān entire, beginning with Sūrat Maryam. It adds at conclusion the words in red ink الكتب مكية. In Sūrat Luqmān one side of a folio has been dittographed and crossed out. The frontispiece has in the centre عونك يا معين, and above it written inverted is مورة مريم مكية.

The Kitābs begin I, fol. 1b; II, 20b; 1II, 36a; IV, 42b; V, 46a; VI, 55b; VII, 65a; VIII, 89a احيا الموات ; IX, 101b: X, 109b; XI, 145a.

The Hidāyah is a commentary on the same author's work, Kitāb bidāyat al-mubtadī, a compendium of the Furā', based principally on Shaibāni's Al-jāmi' al-ṣaghrīr and Qudūrī's Mukhtaṣar. Many of the marginal glosses are labelled, a number of them being from the Kifāyah (prob. that of Jalāl al-Dīn b. Shams al-Dīn al-Khwarizmī).

For notices see No. 385 infra, and Brockelmann, i, pp. 376 ff.

159.

p. 135, l. 21, add: According to the colophon (fol. 477), the work was completed in A.M. 941 (1534).

This is a commentary on the Mukhtaṣar Wiqāya (or selection from wiqāyat al-riwāya fī masā'il al-hidāya of Burhān al-Dīn Maḥmūd b. Ṣadr al-Sharī'a al-'Awwal) of 'Ubaidallah b. Mas'ūd b. Ṣadr al-Sharī'a al-Ṣānī (d. 747 (1346)) by Shams al-Dīn Muḥammad al-Qūhistānī (d. 950 (1543)).

The author was born in Yemen, and at the age of twenty removed to Mecca in 718 and made his home there and at Medina. When he was twenty-six years of age he made a journey to Jerusalem, Damascus, and Cairo. He died at Mecca.

p. 345, 1. 20, read : المتوحّد.

392.

The copyist was 'Abd al-Ghaffar b. 'Abd al-Karīm of the Madrasat al-'Akhlāṣīya in Herāt. The revision was made "after many delays" in the same college.

p. 346, l. 10. Folio 1 of this MS. begins = fol. 2a, l. 7 of MS. No. 27 supra, and folio 2 = fol. 12b, l. 10 of same MS.

The writing is Nasta'līq. As regards the two styles, the second seems rather to consist of portions re-written later by the same hand using a pen with a less fine point.

On folio 1a in a microscopic hand is given a list of commentaries on الاشارات.

The revision and correction dated A.H. 1011. The copyist was 'Abd al-Fattāḥ b. Sayyid Ismā'īl al-Ḥasanī. There is an important addendum to the preface, fol. 1b, as follows:—

للمجسطى ثلث نسخ مشهورة احدهما من نقبل الحتجاج والشانية من نقل اسحاق وقد صححها ثابت والثابت المنسوبة التى ثابت وحده ويبوسم الفصول في نسخة الحجاج بالانواع وفي نسخة ثابت بالابواب وقد يختلف النسخ في اعدادها واعداد الاشكال في بعض المقالات.

p. 352, l. 13, read : مفيض for مفيذ.

397.

In the green part the discritical points are hardly given at all. This copy has also the addendum to the muqaddimah given in preceding MS.

398.

This is a second description of MS. 170, q.v.

p. 353, l. 9. The wording of the chapter headings has been taken from different parts by the two describers. In 170 the headings have been taken from the index or summary given in the introduction (fol. 2b), whilst the describer here has taken them from the headings as given in the text.

Vide Brockelmann, i, p. 305.

401.

This MS. has been much patched and repaired, more especially at the beginning. The leaves of the MS. have been pasted on to other sheets and the lacunae supplied in a fair imitation of the original hand.

402.

p. 356, 1. 20. Folios 86 and 87 have been extracted from another MS. and bound up with this. To make the MSS. run together, the duplicated parts before and after have been crossed out.

404.

The author, a Syrian, became blind in his youth but continued the study of belles-lettres at Aleppo.

He visited Baghdad in 398 (1007).

405.

Part of the colophon only is missing; hence all that is wanting is probably one folio. It breaks off . . .

Al-Bisṭāmī, also known as Al-Ḥurūfī, was born at Antioch, studied in Cairo, and went finally to Brussa where he died.
